NRA REJECTS COAL PRICES SET BY CODE IN ST. LOUIS

Says Costs Used by Dealers in Fixing Minimum Schedule Were Not Representative — Only 29 Dealers Consulted.

ACTION BECOMES EFFECTIVE AT ONCE

Deputy Administrator Says Insufficient Notice Was Given to Public of Hearing at Which Emergency Was Declared.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21. — The National Recovery Administration disapproved today the basis on which minimum retail coal prices had been established by the St. Louis divisional code authority for the retail solid fuel industry. The action, described by NRA officials as the first of its kind, was made effective immediately.

The reasons given for the disapproval were that costs used in determining the lowest cost for the area were not representative, the method of projecting costs was improper, and insufficient notice was given by the division code authority of the hearing at which an emergency was declared in the St. Louis division, consisting of St. Louis, and St. Clair and Madison counties in Illinois.

W. P. Ellis, Deputy Administrator in charge of the NRA coal section, announced the ruling in a letter addressed to William J. Miller, chairman of the divisional authority, in which he said the action "In no way prejudices you in immediately proceeding to determine a proper cost basis on more complete and definite information after full and due notice given to all parties concerned."

Text of Letter.

The action was taken on recommendation by both the research and planning ends of the legal division of NRA. The former, Ellis said, found that cost reports for only 29 dealers out of 1200 known members of the industry in the area were used as a basis for determining the lowest costs.

The text of Ellis' letter to Miller follows:

"We have given consideration to the lowest reasonable cost on solid fuel for your division, together with supporting detail sheets supplied by Mr. Melton in his letter of July 11.

"Our records show that this determined cost became effective May 20, 1934, and in accordance with Section 5, Article V, of the code, your code authority has continuously since that date asserted that the sale of products of the industry at any price below the lowest reasonable cost so determined and published is prohibited.

"We have only recently set up an organization to investigate report upon actions taken by divisional code authorities and the national code authority of the retail solid fuel industry and this report for your division is the first one made by such organization, which operates under the research and planning division of NRA.

Reports From Only 29 Dealers.

"The research and planning division recommends that the lowest reasonable cost as determined by your code authority for your division be set aside until proper and adequate determinations have been made. They base their conclusion on the following:

"(1) the cost used as a basis for determining the lowest cost for the area was not representative. Cost reports for only 29 dealers out of 1200 known members of the industry in that area were used as a basis, in which reports no Class 'C' dealers were included.

"(2) The method used in projecting the costs of the 29 dealers by size groups on the assumption that those who had not reported would show average costs similar to those reported was not proper.

Results Are Inflated.

"(3) The simple average basis used by the foregoing projected costs unduly inflated the results in that the same weight through this process was given the dealer whose sales amounted to over 80,000 tons during the year as to ones whose sales were less than 2000 tons. It is necessary that a very large proportion of the tonnage handled

Chemical Dispels Fog In Massachusetts Test

Technology Institute Makes Successful Experiment, Clearing Atmosphere for 2000 Feet at Airport.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 21. — Fog, the deadliest menace to the aviator and the mariner, was overcome in a test yesterday at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Round Hill research station at South Dartmouth.

Three minutes after nozzles fitted into a 100-foot long pipe began pouring a secret liquid chemical into a rolling fog which had enveloped the airport on the Round Hill estate of Col. E. H. R. Green, where the technology station is situated, buildings 2000 feet away stood clearly revealed.

The path of visibility created by the chemical was about 100 feet wide and 30 feet high at first. It continued to open wider and wider as the relative humidity dropped off sharply until within three minutes buildings on the opposite side of the airport, 2000 feet away, were clearly visible.

Technology scientists who witnessed the demonstration think that the way has been opened for the possible use of fog dissipation to clear landing ground for aviators who could be guided out of fogs by localized radio beams. Successful development might also lead, they said, to its application from aircraft, thus making it possible for aviators to clear their own way to a landing field, and for vessels at sea to seek a safe path in hazardous waters.

The experiments were directed by Henry G. Houghton Jr., a member of the institute's research staff.

The chemical employed condenses water vapor in the air, causing it to be precipitated to the ground like rain.

Fog cannot form in absolutely clean air since it is necessary for the atmosphere to be filled with fine particles which constitute the nuclei on which the infinitesimal drops form. In sea fogs, these particles are invisible grains of salt tossed into the air by breaking waves.

In yesterday's experiment, the pipe used was suspended horizontally 30 feet above the ground and centrifugal pumps drove the mixture through the pipes.

ACCUSED OF KILLING HIS TWO DAUGHTERS

Princeton (Ky.) Insurance Man and Woman Nurse Charged With Poisoning.

By the Associated Press.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., July 21.—A warrant charging Charles W. Cox, insurance man and former divinity student, with the murder of his two daughters, Morrelle, 18, and Wanda, 10, was issued here today. Mrs. Nell Baker, nurse, and friend of Cox, was under $5000 bond in Crittenden County on the same charge.

Although it was reported today that Cox had been arrested, Deputy Sheriff E. J. France tonight said the warrant had not been served.

An examining trial for Mrs. Baker was set for Aug. 10 at Princeton, Ky. She denied the charges, officers said.

The older sister died at Jennie Stuart Memorial Hospital here June 12. Her sister died at the Cox home in Princeton a week earlier June 5.

At an inquest held yesterday by Coroner Robert Morgan, a verdict was returned that both Wanda and Morelle Cox had come to their death by arsenic poisoning.

The Public Health Laboratories at Lexington after an examination reported arsenic had been found in the bodies of the girls, County Attorney McGough said today.

BISHOP FABER OF MONTANA MISSING IN GLACIER PARK

Search Made in Mountains for 74-Year-Old Episcopal Prelate, Gone Since Friday.

HELENA, Mont., July 21.—Bishop William F. Faber, head of the Episcopal diocese of Montana, has been missing since 5 p. m. yesterday in Glacier National Park, it was learned tonight.

Members of St. Peter's Cathedral here were informed that he started for a walk from Two-Medicine Chalets at 5 o'clock Friday and failed to return. He is 74 years old.

PILOT HITS LOCUST SWARM

South African Flyer Is Slowed Down by Insects.

CAPETOWN, July 21. — Locust clouds are among the handicaps to South African aviation.

John Williamson, pilot on the air line between Capetown and Windhoek, ran into a grasshopper swarm near Gogabis, through which he flew for 50 miles. The engine revolutions declined from 1850 to 1650 per minute. When he landed at Gogabis the engine was covered with a cake of locusts baked in oil, and natives, who consider baked locusts a delicacy, scraped the cake off the engine and feasted.

PUEBLO'S WATER SUPPLY FAILS

Arkansas River Ceases to Flow—Five-Day Supply on Hand.

PUEBLO, Colo., July 21.—Pueblo's source of water supply failed entirely today.

Water stopped flowing in the Arkansas River early this morning. Storage water was used through the day. A five-day supply is on hand. Water boards of the city, in a special meeting, laid plans for construction of a pit at a point north of the North Side headgate, where a supply is said to be only four feet below the surface. Work got under way today.

Drouth Broken in Germany.

BERLIN, July 21.—Germany's month-long drouth was broken this evening by drenching rains over most of the country. Crops have suffered heavy damage.

FOREST SHELTER TO BE PLANTED, CANADA TO TEXAS

100-Mile-Wide Belt Aimed to Check Soil Erosion; to Cost $75,000,000.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announced today that work would begin immediately on a $75,000,000 program of planting a forest shelter belt 100 miles wide extending from the Canadian border to Texas. President Roosevelt, in an executive order signed July 11 and released today, allocated $15,000,000 of emergency funds to begin the work.

The shelter belt will extend more than 1000 miles through the parched plains of North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, and into the Texas Panhandle. The area immediately affected will be about 20,000,000 acres, of which about 1,820,000 acres will be planted to trees. The general idea is that the trees will hold water, if any, in the soil and check the effects of erosion.

According to the plans outlined by F. A. Silcox, chief forester, windbreaks about seven rods wide running north and south will be planted one mile apart, making 100 parallel windbreaks across the 100-mile wide belt.

ARMY FLYERS AT EDMONTON, ALTA., ON WAY TO ALASKA

U. S. Airmen Expect to Start 490-Mile Hop to Prince George Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

EDMONTON, Alta., July 21.—Ten United States Army bombing planes, en route to Alaska, arrived here from Regina at 4 p. m. today. They will remain here until Monday morning, when they expect to start the 490-mile hop to Prince George, B. C.

The planes covered 400 miles of prairie from Winnipeg to Regina in two hours. All flyers reported feeling fit.

Premier John Bracken of Manitoba rode as a passenger in one of the planes to Regina. Bracken, who was in Winnipeg, had urgent business in Regina, so Lieutenant-Colonel H. H. Arnold, commander of the flight, obtained permission from Washington to transport him.

SAN FRANCISCO STREET CAR FIRED ON, PASSENGER HIT

Shot From Auto Strikes Man in Eye; Four Escape After Attack.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—Violence broke out in the San Francisco street car strike this afternoon when a passenger on a Mission street car was wounded in the eye by a bullet fired from an automobile.

The injured man was George Quissay, 40 years old, of Daly City.

The shooting occurred in the Mission district "south of the slot." Without warning, a car containing four men drove up beside the street car and one of the occupants, it was reported, leaned out and fired once through the window.

The automobile then drove away.

ONE OF VICTIMS UNIDENTIFIED MAN

Stagnant Condition in Weather Movements Is Cause of Spell, Forecaster Says.

With no relief from the heat in immediate prospect, the temperature continued yesterday to range well above the 100 degree mark.

Twenty-two deaths recorded yesterday in the St. Louis area were attributed to the intense heat. Thirty-six persons were treated at City Hospital for heat exhaustion during the day, making a total of 67 treated there since Friday, when the official temperature reached 109 degrees, the highest since the establishment of the Government Weather Bureau here in 1871. Yesterday's official maximum was 105.2 degrees, at 3:10 p. m.

Deaths recorded yesterday were:

John Brinkam, 41, watchman, 2406 North Sarah street.

An unidentified man, about 35 years old, found near the West Pine boulevard entrance to Forest Park. He had brown hair and wore a green shirt, seersucker trousers and black shoes.

Fourteenth Day Over 100.

Yesterday was the fourteenth day since June 1 when the temperature was 100 degrees or higher. Also it was the fourth consecutive day of such temperatures. The mercury reached 100 at 11 a. m. and did not fall below that figure until 8 p. m. Relative humidity at noon was 29 per cent, three points higher than the previous day.

The weather station at Lambert-St. Louis field reported a temperature of 110 degrees at 3 p. m. The mercury reached 120 degrees in the glass enclosed observatory atop the airport's administration building.

Cause of the heat wave, explained Forecaster Nunn, is a stagnant condition in weather movements. Although he could hold out no prospect for relief for a day or so, he said a storm from the southwest or a cold air movement from the northwest would break it up.

Temperatures Far Above Normal in 19 States.

CHILD LEAVES BED; KILLED BY TRAIN

16-Month-Old Girl Apparently Got Up and Strayed Onto Tracks.

Rita, 16-month-old-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Zoeller, 5800 Water street, was run over by a northbound Missouri Pacific freight train near 5200 South Broadway at 9:25 o'clock last night, an hour and a half after her mother had put her to bed at home, six blocks away.

The baby apparently climbed from its bed and wandered onto the tracks. George Nagel, switchman riding on the front of the train, said he saw the child lying on the tracks and signaled the engineer, but too late for the train to stop. The body was taken to City Hospital and then to the morgue, where it was identified by the parents.

WOMEN PETITION TO SEE MEN BESIEGED IN KOHLER PLANT

Clothing and Food Sent in by Mail to "Captives" of Strike Pickets.

By the Associated Press.

KOHLER, Wis., July 21.—Three hundred and eighty women of Kohler today told village President Anton F. Brotz in a petition that they want to see their husbands and other male relatives who have been besieged by strike pickets for five days in the Kohler Co. plant. Either their husbands should be allowed out of the plant or the women should be permitted to go into it, they said.

Picket lines have been almost 100 per cent effective since the strike began Monday, surprising a number of employes inside the building before they could leave and preventing crews from reporting for work.

Wives of the "captives" have sent them changes of clothing by parcel post and the company has kept them supplied with food through the mails. One woman drove to the fence surrounding the plant and tossed over a package for her husband.

Mediation efforts so far have been ineffective.

LENINGRAD, U. S. S. R., July 21.—Peter Lupanov, Ilya Igrov and three other persons were sentenced to death today and more than 50 others to terms in labor camps on charges of killing a young Communist, persecuting and wounding workers and breaking up Communist meetings.

The trial began early this month in the provincial court. The defendants were charged with directing their persecutions particularly against Jews.

The labor camp terms ranged from two to 10 years. Thousands of persons gathered around the House of Culture where the trial was held and cheered the verdict.

TRUCE DECLARED BY MINNEAPOLIS TRUCK OPERATORS

No Attempt to Be Made to Move Vehicles Before Tomorrow at Least—4000 Guardsmen on Duty.

ONE OF MEN SHOT IN RIOTING DIES

Gov. Olson Hints at Martial Law After Clash—He Says Police Chief Broke Promise to Him.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 21.—A truce until Monday at least was agreed on by the employers in the Minneapolis truck drivers' strike today, the Rev. Francis Haas, Federal mediator, announced.

Mayor A. G. Bainbridge requested Chief of Police Michael Johannes not to order further police guards for trucks during this period and employers agreed they would not attempt to move vehicles.

The first death as a result of the clash yesterday occurred tonight when Henry Ness died from his wounds. He had been shot in the back. Ness, a picket, underwent three blood transfusions in an effort to save his life. In the outbreak 68 persons were injured. Two others are in serious condition.

A committee of strike leaders asked Mayor A. G. Bainbridge to remove Chief of Police Michael Johnnanes, but the Mayor refused. The employers' Advisory Committee commended the Chief and blamed the pickets for yesterday's clash.

4000 Soldiers on Duty.

About 4000 national guardsmen were on duty today and residents went about their business unhampered. A general strike, demanded by strike leaders, failed to materialize.

Trucks moved again without incident. From 60 to 70 armed policemen convoyed the vehicles followed in some instances by pickets who watched, but did not interfere.

"The determination of the necessity for military control of the city will depend on future occurrences," said Gov. Floyd B. Olson, who added he had not changed his position of a "neutrality."

"The national guard is prepared to act at once," he warned as he publicly charged the breaking of a truce, which he said Chief of Police Johannes promised him would be observed until Saturday night caused the violent outburst yesterday.

"I dislike to become involved in a dispute with a public official, but there is no question that Johannes promised Father Haas and me that he would not convoy any trucks until Saturday evening."

Yielded to Employers.

"In explanation of his failure to keep his promise," said the Governor, "Johannes informed me the employers' committee had insisted upon a convoy and he had been obliged to yield to their request. When the employers' committee gave me their word, Johannes had not informed them of his promise to Father Haas and me, I accepted their statement, withdrew my charge and apologized for making it."

The Governor's charge was that the employers would be "morally guilty of murder if any of the persons shot should die."

Chief Johannes denied he had ever made a promise to Father Haas to maintain a truce, saying he had no authority to make such a promise. His duty, he said, was to keep streets free for commerce.

Armed guards were posted at police headquarters as a result of shouted demands for the "hanging" and "lynching" of Chief Johannes, branded by incensed strikers as a "stool pigeon" for Mayor Bainbridge. Removal of both men was demanded by the truck drivers.

Second Clash With Chief.

The chief first drew the anger of the drivers last May in their first walkout that resulted in riots in the city market, where two men were killed. At that time pickets forcibly stopped trucks and even halted pleasure cars to prevent deliveries by subterfuge.

After days of unrest, a settlement was effected through the work of Gov. Olson and the regional labor board whereby the union, No. 574, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, was recognized in a broader light. Both sides agreed to adhere to collective bargaining and arbitration.

Violation of this agreement was charged by the drivers last week, and a second strike started on Monday with resultant demands for higher wages and wider recognition of the union.

ROOSEVELT TALKS TO HOUSTON CREW

Tells Them Navy Will Be at Full Treaty Strength in Three or Four Years.

By the Associated Press.

ABOARD U. S. S. HOUSTON WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, July 21.—President Roosevelt, talking today to the crew of the Houston in mid-Pacific, promised a United States Navy up to treaty strength in three or four years.

He said the country expects the fullest efficiency from its sea-fighting forces.

The President declared his pride in the Navy. He said the crew of the Houston was splendid, and represented a good cross-section of the first line of defense of the nation.

He assured the sea-going fighting force that Congress and the country were behind the naval building program now under way, calculated to reach treaty strength.

The President spoke to the white-jacketed crew in the cruiser's well-deck after regular morning inspection, with planes overhead as the vessel sped toward Hawaii.

Capt. Brown, the President's naval aid, with Franklin and John Roosevelt and Rudolph Forster, participated in the inspection.

The President recalled that his last inspection was on the U. S. S. Melville at Queenstown in 1918, with Admiral Bayly and the late Admiral Pringle.

The Houston and the New Orleans cruised past the three-quarters line on the trip to Hawaii today under a clear sky and with a smooth sea. No other ship has been seen since leaving Panama more than a week ago.

Minute particles of snow fell in downtown Denver for one minute late today. The temperature at Denver was 100 Thursday and 95 yesterday. Temperatures ranged in the 80s in Colorado today, with brief cooling rains reported.

By the Associated Press.

SALT LAKE CITY, July 21.—Rain fell in Utah today and the Weather Bureau reported virtually every part of the drouth-stricken State benefitted. The Bureau reported .30 of an inch of rain fell in this city. The fall at Ephraim was 1.30 inches, causing streams to overflow.

LANGER ASKS HOUSE TO IMPEACH OR CLEAR HIM

Deposed North Dakota Executive Lays His Conviction to "Political Persecution" and Blames Senator Nye.

SENATE SEEKS QUORUM BY FORCE

Sergeants - at - Arms Drag One Member to Chamber From Acting Gov. Olson's Office — Old Appointees Ousted.

By the Associated Press.

BISMARCK, N. D., July 21.—William Langer, deposed as Governor of North Dakota by a Supreme Court decision, addressed the House of Representatives today, demanding that it impeach and remove him or vindicate him.

Langer told the House that his conviction and sentence to 18 months' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000, for soliciting political contributions from Federal workers and his subsequent removal by the Supreme Court as a result of that conviction, were "political persecution."

The House, obedient to the summons for a special session Langer issued shortly before his ouster, rose and cheered him as he appeared before it, escorted by a committee. Earlier with 72 of the 112 members present the House had adopted a resolution by a vote of 63 to 9, to begin impeachment proceedings in defiance of Acting Gov. Ole H. Olson's cancelation of Langer's special session proclamation. Its purpose is to allow Langer to present his case again in public.

Langer Assails Nye.

"The Supreme Court," Langer began, "said I was disqualified as to the powers of Governor, but I am still your Governor. If I have been guilty of any corrupt conduct, if the verdict of guilty returned by the Federal Court jury and the sentence given me is proper and just, I want this legislative assembly to impeach and to remove me from office or I want to be vindicated. I want no uncertainty about this matter.

"I want this legislative assembly to investigate how the Federal Government and officials have persecuted me with the advice and aid of Senator Gerald P. Nye to the end that they might destroy not only me but our Non-partisan organization in this State."

Senate Seeks to Force Quorum.

Meantime the Senate, which Langer does not control, resorted to physical force in an effort to compel the attendance of its members.

In the Senate, where only 22 of the 47 members were present, a resolution was adopted directing the sergeant-at-arms to bring in those members, heedful of Olson's cancelation order, who refused to attend the special sitting.

The first Senator taken into custody by the sergeants-at-arms was C. W. Fine, considered an anti-Langer man. He was in the office of Acting Gov. Olson when two sergeants took him by the arm, despite his oral and physical protests, and dragged him to the Senate chamber.

Fine, when taken before the Senate, was asked by D. H. Hamilton, president pro tem., whether he would answer at roll call. "Not at this time," Fine replied.

T. H. Thoresen, who was defeated by Langer for the Republican nomination in the recent primary election, was retained by Fine to determine whether habeas corpus proceedings should be instituted in the State Supreme Court, on the ground Senator Fine is "unlawfully detained." Fine was later released by the Senate, subject to call.

It was indicated that if a quorum could not be obtained within the next few days, the special session of the Legislature would "fold up." Privately, some Langer leaders expressed doubt about obtaining a quorum; others said they would have one by Monday.

Both Houses adjourned until 2 p. m. Monday.

New Appointees Chosen.

Acting Gov. Olson made new appointments to replace associates of Langer, while the Langerites advanced Mrs. Langer as the Republican nominee for Governor if her

DOCK EMPLOYERS LAY DOWN TERMS TO SETTLE STRIKE

NO WORD ON HIRING HALLS OF SEAMEN

Workers' Committee Takes Up Proposal at Meeting—Most of Militia Withdrawn.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—The way toward complete settlement of the Pacific Coast waterfront strike was cleared of all but one barrier today and the machinery to tackle that remaining obstacle was set in motion.

Waterfront employers proclaimed their willingness to arbitrate not only all the issues in the longshoremen's strike, but also the hour, wage and working condition demands of maritime unions if the longshoremen would submit to arbitration.

A joint marine strike committee representing the 27,000 striking longshoremen and maritime workers met tonight and discussed the proposal.

All but 1200 of 4600 National Guardsmen encamped in this area were withdrawn by acting Governor Frank Merriam.

Johnson Urges Quick Action.

Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator and Government spokesman in the negotiations, urged leaders of the longshoremen to settle the matter without waiting to take a membership referendum.

Speaking for the sailors' union of the Pacific, one of the striking unions, S. A. Silver, general chairman, said it "doubtless will be willing to submit all points to arbitration."

Leaders of the 12,000 longshoremen, who previously had refused to consider arbitration of their main issue unless the employers would agree to arbitration also of matters involving the maritime unions, were non-commital. Ralph Mallen, publicity chairman, simply said the question of arbitration would come before tonight's meeting.

Prepares for Vote.

O. K. Cushing, member of the National Longshoremen's Board, said the board is preparing ballots for a vote of the longshoremen's membership. He stated he did not think it would be necessary for the board to take a vote among maritime unions to determine their collective bargaining representatives. While Cushing did not elaborate on this statement, it was interpreted by some as meaning that ship owners had consented to bargain with unions as already represented on the marine strike committee.

Thomas G. Plant, representing the waterfront employers union, then said the employers had done "everything we can do and that they have asked us to do to date. Now it is up to the longshoremen and marine unions to vote on whether they will submit to arbitration."

Among the original demands of the organized seamen was abolition of old employer-controlled hiring halls.

Hiring Halls Still an Issue.

In the statement of their position today the employers specifically agreed to arbitrate wages, hours and working conditions with the marine unions, but made no mention of the hiring halls once used for the seamen.

Plant's statement said the question of hiring halls "as far as the maritime unions is concerned, has never been raised by the hiring groups."

The wider opening of ports with non-union workers protected by police continued and rumblings of trouble still were audible.

Unrest in Portland.

Portland labor leaders still talked of a general strike, however, despite the general relaxation of trouble in other Coast ports and in the face of a public pronouncement by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, against mass walkouts.

The liner President Grant and the steamer West Cactus were made ready to sail from the picket-cleared Seattle harbor, but United States Customs Collector Saul Haas refused them clearance papers on the ground their non-union crews failed to meet statutory requirements for safe navigation.

Shots were fired by a National Guard sentry and three men on the militia-ruled San Francisco waterfront. Guard officers said the men started to harangue the sentry after arresting them.

One of the three allegedly leveled a pistol at the soldier and fired. They started to speed away in an auto, but the sentry stopped it with a bullet through a tire. The three were taken to the guard house.

Ship Owners' Code.

The NRA chief said there was a possibility of a ship owners' code for the Pacific Coast. He said he did not think there would be a code for American ship owners in general "because the State Department has told us that 30 treaties with foreign nations would be violated by a code on a national scale."

Under police protection, cargo work continued in Portland and Seattle. San Francisco union teamsters voted last night to return to work unconditionally, which meant the union movement of goods handled on the piers by non-union workers operating behind National Guard lines.

Maj. David W. Gooch, 38 years old, of Sacramento, a staff officer of the National Guard on strike duty here, committed suicide by shooting himself with his service pistol, it was announced today.

Police said notes left by the officer, who killed himself Friday afternoon in a downtown hotel, intimated worry over the strike caused the act.

Reported Dead in Assault on Everest

MAURICE WILSON, British airman and mountain climber, who was reported dead by three native attendants on their return to Darjeeling, India, from the slopes of unconquered Mount Everest. Wilson had braved the refusal of the Maharaja of Nepal to enter forbidden territory and make a lonely assault on the world's highest peak. The three native porters accompanied him to the 21,000-foot level. From there Wilson went on alone, instructing the porters that if he did not return in two weeks he was to be considered dead. The porters said they waited a month. In photo Wilson is shown in the cockpit of the plane in which he flew to India from London.

Langer, in winning the nomination in the recent primary, two days before he was sentenced, also won control of the State Republican Central Committee. This committee, in opinion of most lawyers, would be authorized to choose a nominee if Langer were barred.

Removed, But Defies Olson.

The appointment of Bert M. Salisbury, Minnewauken, as State Highway Commissioner, was announced by Olson.

Frank A. Vogel still retained the office, however, and indicated he would resist ouster except by court order. He asserts he can be removed for cause only.

Vogel was convicted with Langer of conspiracy to defraud the Government.

Federal officials declared North Dakota would get no more Federal highway aid until Vogel was replaced. Vogel has let $536,789 worth of road contracts. About a month ago he let contracts for $900,000 worth of work. Federal road officials said "not one penny" would be provided by the Government until Olson's appointee validated the contracts.

Besides Salisbury, Olson appointed Sidney A. Papke, Grand Forks, to head the regulatory department. Stephen Terhorst, Langer lieutenant, vacated the office without resisting.

O. Leonard Orvedal, Deputy State Treasurer, became secretary of the State Industrial and Securities Commission when James Mulloy handed in his resignation before Olson could dismiss him.

Olson ordered audits and investigations of the Beer Commission, center of criticism in the recent campaign, and of the regulatory department.

National Guardsmen who have been on duty since the declaration of martial law by Langer last Tuesday were removed from the Capitol corridors and steps on orders of Adjutant General Earle R. Sarles.

The men had been in active service under the executive order of Olson who directed Sarles to dispose of troops at "his discretion."

United States Senator Nye, who supported Olson in the political campaign, charged in a statement in St. Paul that "an untold amount of graft" existed in various departments of the State Government.

Olson Addresses Farmers.

A crowd of 700 farmers, members of the Farm Holiday Association and the Farmers' United League, cheered Olson and left, when he asked them to go after addressing them. The farmers sent a committee to him to ask him to convene a special session of the Legislature and end the turmoil caused by the removal of Langer.

In his speech to the farmers Olson said: "I don't blame you for complaining about the conditions among farmers. I have nine children to support, and I feel that food for their mouths is more important and a greater duty than paying taxes." He said he had not been able to pay taxes for two years.

JOHNSON CANCELS VACATION PLAN, GOING BACK TO CAPITAL

NRA Administrator Will Depart by Airplane From San Francisco Today.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Under a sudden rearrangement of plans, Hugh S. Johnson, NRA Administrator, will fly back to the national capital from San Francisco, departing tomorrow.

He has canceled his plans for a vacation in the West.

Mrs. Johnson has been ill, but members of the family said this was not the reason for Johnson's return.

Lieut. Kilbourne Johnston, son of the Administrator, although spelling his name differently, said, "The General will take a vacation at some Eastern resort instead."

The NRA chief plans to go to Chicago Aug. 2 for a speech there.

NAZI COURTS TOLD THEY MUST NOT SPARE OFFICIALS

Offending Person in High Position Deserves "Corresponding Punishment," Hitler Aid Decrees.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 21.—Minister of Justice Franz Guertner told the Courts of Justice in a decree today that a person in exalted position merited "corresponding punishment" if he is guilty of misconduct. He referred to high Nazi officials accused in Chancellor Hitler's campaign to "clean up" his party.

Guertner's order made it plain that hereafter offending officials were not to be treated with kid gloves. The Justices of the nation were told not to let the "status" of law violators influence their verdicts.

"The high position of a German official leader or sub-leader entails high responsibility. The public has a right to expect corresponding punishment," Guertner said.

The common citizen, too, is being forced to pass a severe test, as many have been taken into "protective" or regular custody on charges of "rumor mongering" or of making "insulting" remarks about Hitler, about other leaders and about the Storm Troopers.

Shakeup of Student Leaders.

It was disclosed that the whole setup of student leadership is to be revamped within a short time, the first step being the removal from office today of Andreas Feickert, named national leader two days ago, and all present sub-leaders.

When the new leaders of the Deutsche Studentschaft, representing students at all universities, are named, they will be gathered into an encampment near Goettingen for instructions on their duties.

The exact meaning of this move was not clear, although the leaders removed several days ago were allied with the radical Nazi elements.

These developments came while Hitler was preparing to go to Bayreuth to attend the opening of the Wagner festival there and while two of the Reich's most powerful Conservatives, President Paul von Hindenburg and Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath, were in conference at the President's country estate at Neudeck.

The conference was regarded as significant, and one subject discussed was believed to be the future of Franz von Papen, Conservative Vice-Chancellor. Von Papen was reported to have made efforts to talk to the President himself.

The President and the Foreign Minister also were believed to be taking over the proposed Eastern European security pact in which the co-operation of Germany is sought.

Von Papen was seen today taking a train at the Anhalter station, but his destination was not disclosed. It was assumed here that Von Papen was headed either for his home in the Saar Valley or was en route to Switzerland for a vacation.

Friends of Von Papen have said frequently that the trying events of the last few weeks, which included the killing of some of his former associates, have weighed heavily upon him and that he has expressed a desire to take a long rest.

Protecting Foreign Exchange.

Special steps also were taken to enforce co-operation of persons domiciled in Germany in the fight to shield the Reich's foreign exchange.

A special court was empowered to punish those who conceal the fact that they possess foreign credits, and three persons, one a citizen of Holland, were fined and sentenced to prison terms.

The Hollander punished by the special court was Hendrick Bahlmann, sentenced to seven months and fined 12,000 marks (about $4800) for concealing a credit of 90,000 florins in a Dutch bank.

More severe sentences were imposed on the German defendants. The charge against all was "treason against public economy."

REPORT URGES JUDICIAL CURB ON "RECKLESS JOURNALISM"

New York County Bar Committee Favors Prevention of "Trial by Newspaper."

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Use of the "inherent judicial authority" to prevent "trial by newspapers" is recommended by a committee of the New York County Lawyers' Association in a tenttaive report prepared for the American Bar Association. The report assails "sensational and reckless journalism," and concludes that exercise of the summary contempt would make administrative censorship unnecessary.

Irving I. Goldsmith is chairman of the committee making the recommendation.

"A prejudiced jury strikes at the heart of the administration of criminal justice," the report says. "Determination of the question whether the defendant is guilty or innocent of the crime with which he is charged is, essentially, the sole function of the criminal procedure. The importance, therefore, of restricting in some manner the creation of violent prejudices and preconceived opinions by sensational and reckless journalism, is clear.

"The offense obviously is interference with the administration of justice or, in effect, contempt of court. Vigorous exercise of the summary contempt by the courts would do much to check the activities of the inferior type of newspaper without affecting, in any way, the unbiased accounts of criminal proceedings by the more conservative type of publication.

"Any unfavorable publicity that the court or prosecutor would receive as a result of this direct attack in the press would be more than offset by the almost certain approval of the public generally and by the expressed approbation of the better newspaper.

"Vigorous use of this inherent judicial authority, supported by ample precedent, moreover, will render unnecessary administrative censorship."

2,000,000 MORE JOBS THAN YEAR AGO LABOR BUREAU SAYS

Decline of 300,000 Last Month, However; Seasonal Slack and Strikes Given as Cause.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—For all the losses to labor from labor disputes this year, Labor Department officials said today about 2,000,000 more are employed now in industries which report to the department than a year ago.

The increase in the weekly payrolls of those who have gone back on the rolls in the 12-months term was estimated at $60,000,000.

The Labor Department labor census takes account of additional men employed by public works and other Government activities. The estimate is calculated to cover less than half of the persons "gainfully employed."

Until June, Labor Department figures showed that more than 1,000,000 men had gone back to work this year. There was a decline last month which took around 300,000 out of employment, but experts said it was largely seasonal, although strikers contributed.

Here is a department tabulation of the increase in employment this year, beginning with February, since January showed a slight drop:

February—400,000 workers added to payrolls; increase in weekly wage total, about $12,000,000.

March—419,000; weekly wage increase, $12,904,000.

Almost Half of Counties in U. S. Now on Farm Drouth Relief List

Addition of 111 in Day Brings Total to 1276—Twenty-Three States Directly Affected.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—The worst crop catastrophe in 40 years or more continued unchecked today, and the Farm Administration added 66 counties to the emergency drouth relief list and 45 to secondary classification.

The Weather Bureau reported no rain was in prospect for the Southwest, hardest hit now of all regions, and that only light local showers could be hoped for in the Great Lakes drouth region.

The addition of 111 counties to the list of those eligible for emergency aid brought to 1276 the total of those in the country receiving aid.

The vast extent of the devastating drouth was shown in the fact that almost half the total number of counties in the nation were on the relief list.

Twenty-three states were said officially today to be directly affected, and it was added that others were touched, in some sections at least, by the drouth's blight.

The fact that millions of acres of land ordinarily fertile have been laid waste brought a renewed watch by Farm Administration officials on the Southwestern cotton crop.

They were known to be inclined to modify materially administration of the Bankhead cotton production act—designed to limit this year's crop to 10 million bales—provided the August crop estimate is below that figure and provided further that farmers evidence a desire for shelving the act.

In addition to the acres suffering in unirrigated lands, the drouth has brought farmers in irrigated sections face to face with the prospect of water shortage.

Farm Administration officials, who yesterday said privately that the situation was becoming acute in some sections, continued keeping a watchful eye on river flow. They were known to hold the gravest fears as to the fate of the West's great intensively cultivated irrigated area.

States in which new relief counties were added today, or in which counties already on secondary lists were added to emergency classification, were Idaho, Kansas, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Texas.

NRA REJECTS COAL PRICES SET BY CODE BODY FOR ST. LOUIS

should be represented in a cost tabulation with a showing of the cost range as well as the tonnages that were handled at different levels of cost. This has not been done.

"(4) The method used on page 10 of the accountant's report where there is a set-up of simultaneous equations for the purpose of determining a relative cost for handling commercial versus domestic sales is not proper in that those equations are entirely fallacious and in no way do they give the answer to the relative costs of these two types of sales.

"(5) The Code Authority Committee used the simple average cost of $2.75, determined as outlined in (3) above, and to this figure added an arbitrary amount of .23 cents per ton which they state is a calculated additional cost for 1934 over 1933. No method by which this additional figure was obtained is given. The following quoted statement from the committee's report indicates that the basis which they used in determining the lowest cost was not secure even in the minds of the Code Authority Committee:

"Timidity, however, prevailed and the cost margins finally selected by the Code Authority averaged a net return, after deduction of an approved domestic cash discount and commercial quantity discount, of $2.70 a ton.'

Suggests Another Hearing.

"(6) After arriving at the average basic cost determined in accordance with the foregoing of $2.98 per ton, the Code Authority Committee adjusted this cost by an average discount of 70 cents per ton for commercial consumers and 5 per cent for cash for domestic consumers. On this basis it was calculated that the average domestic net margin would amount to $3.01, while the average commercial net margin would amount to $2.26 or a composite average net margin for domestic and commercial business of $2.70 per ton. The schedule of commercial discounts given in the cost committee's report is not substantiated by any data included in the report and ranges from no discount for less than 10 tons to a discount of $1.25 per ton on purchases of over 200 tons per month.

"Our legal division also advises us to disapprove the cost determination reached by your division and cites as their reason therefor the entirely insufficient notice of the hearing at which the emergency was declared in your division. A short notice was given which announced only a public meeting of the division Code Authority for the purpose of determining whether an emergency existed without any further description of the authority under which the Code Authority would presume to act or of the possible results of the meeting.

"Under all of these conditions, therefore, we must disapprove the lowest reasonable cost determination for your division effective immediately. This in no way prejudices you in immediately proceeding to determine a proper cost basis on more complete and definite information after full and due notice given to all parties concerned."

Public Hearing on Retail Prices Was Set for Tuesday.

C. V. Beck, executive secretary of the divisional code authority which established the retail prices for this area after declaring an emergency existed within the industry, said last night it had not been determined whether the action of the Washington authorities would result in the cancellation or postponement of a public hearing on retail coal prices scheduled to open Tuesday noon at Ben Blewett Junior High School.

Beck had received no official word of the decision of the NRA authority.

TWO RAILWAY BOARDS NAMED BY ROOSEVELT

One Is to Handle Mediation, the Other Retirements and Pensions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—President Roosevelt, on his way to Hawaii on the cruiser Houston, today appointed the three members of the National Mediation Board authorized by the last Congress as a court of last appeal in railway labor disputes. He also set in motion the railway pension system.

The appointments were made public at the White House.

The National Mediation Board members chosen are: Dr. William M. Leiserson, Yellow Springs, O., resigned chairman of the Petroleum Policy Board; James M. Carmalt, Montrose, Pa., executive assistant to Joseph B. Eastman, Railway Co-ordinator; John Carmody, chief engineer of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

As chairman of the Railway Retirement and Pension Board, Mr. Roosevelt named Murray Latimer. Employers and employes will submit nominations for the other two positions on this board which will be filled later by the President.

It is expected J. T. Williamson of the Burlington System will represent management, and Lee M. Eddy, vice-president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, will represent labor.

Dr. Leiserson's resignation from the Petroleum Board, to return to his former post as professor of economics at Antioch College, was announced just before the President selected him for the Railway Mediation Board. He said he would consider his new appointment as a "command" and would give up his plan to return to the college.

The National Labor Relations Board announced the resignation of Milton Handler, general counsel, who will return to the faculty of Columbia University. His post will be filled temporarily by William G. Rice Jr.

At the time of the accident the temperature hovered around 102 degrees and witnesses said there was no sign of clouds.

PEPER HEIRS PLAN APPEAL IN $800,000 SUIT

Case Against Oreon E. Scott Involves Ownership of Part of New Federal Building Site.

REALTY MAN WON PLEA FOR NEW TRIAL

Money Held in Escrow Pending Decision of Action to Be Carried to Supreme Court.

Counsel for heirs of the late Caroline J. Peper said yesterday an appeal would be taken by them to the Missouri Supreme Court from Circuit Judge Calhoun's decision granting a new trial of a suit filed by the heirs against Oreon E. Scott, realty dealer, which involved ownership of two-thirds of the present site of the Federal Building, now being erected at Twelfth and Market streets.

Pending the litigation a balance of about $800,000 is held in escrow to go to whichever side wins. This represents part of the money the Government paid for the property.

The case originally was tried before Circuit Judge Ossing, who in 1928 rendered a decision for the Peper heirs. The court at that time appointed a referee to determine an accounting, and in the accounting additional judgment of $68,000 was rendered against Scott.

In the meantime Judge Calhoun acquired jurisdiction and last October he signed a decree in favor of the plaintiffs, based on the decision of Judge Ossing and the recommendation of the referee. Subsequently Scott filed a motion for a new trial, alleging the judgment was for the wrong party and that the trial court had committed errors in the decision.

Opposing Claims.

It is the view of Scott and his counsel, Jeffries, Simpson & Plummer and Lee W. Grant, that Judge Calhoun, in sustaining the motion, virtually decided the case for them.

On the other hand Charles J. Macauley and N. Murry Edwards, representing the Peper heirs, said in event of another trial they had additional evidence which would disprove Scott's claims. Macauley said the Supreme Court would be asked to reverse Judge Calhoun's decision and affirm Judge Ossing's. Edwards said he thought Judge Calhoun was without jurisdiction to pass on the motion, since the trial was held before Judge Ossing.

The litigation grew out of a foreclosure sale in November, 1922. When the property was offered for sale Scott, it was alleged, bid it in for $175,000, subject to indebtedness. It had been owned by Mrs. Peper, who was the divorced wife of Frederick Bushman, and her daughter, Mrs. Estelle Bushman Barlow. Mrs. Peper inherited it from her father, the late Christian Peper, tobacco dealer.

Dispute Over Foreclosure.

The Peper interests alleged Scott was their trustee at the sale but refused to convey title to them. Judge Ossing ruled in favor of this contention. Scott said he bought the property not as trustee, but in his individual capacity. However, it was agreed if he were to receive a profit of $25,000 and the Peper heirs complied with other conditions, he would transfer title to them. The conditions, he said, were not complied with and he rescinded the agreement. According to Scott, the Pepers waited for three or four years before taking steps to comply, at a time when it was seen the market was rising. The foreclosure occurred long before it was known the Government wanted the site.

In sustaining the motion for a new trial, Judge Calhoun held that the plaintiffs failed to show that fraud was perpetrated by Scott in any way regarding the foreclosure; that the contract expressed the facts as to what was agreed and that the court erred in its findings. The decision points out that Mrs. Barlow testified that when she signed the contract she did not intend to abide by it; further Attorney Macauley admitted he signed the agreement but did not intend Scott should receive the $25,000 bonus. Macauley said the contract was invalid.

Judge Calhoun said he examined the various assignments of error set up in the motion for a new trial and carefully read the entire record in the case, in addition to making an independent search of the law. After doing this he concluded the motion should be sustained.

GOLD SMUGGLERS REPORTED UNCOVERED IN EAST

Took Coins to Mexico, Resold Them to U. S. Treasury at $33 for a $20 Piece.

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., July 21.—The Newark Sunday Call says it has learned from police sources that Secret Service men have uncovered a gold-smuggling ring which has been carrying American gold coins to Mexico and selling them back to the United States at a profit.

Police said the Secret Service men reported the smugglers took $250,000 in gold to Mexico and sold all of it to the Treasury department, getting $33 for every $20 gold piece. The gang gathered the coins in New York and other cities, police said, by paying a premium as high as $7 on a $20 piece.

Police said Lieut. John Sweeney, of the financial fraud squad, learned in another investigation that a Mexican employed as a laborer in New York made frequent trips by air to Chicago. On July 12 this man, who said he was Alvaro Maldonado, 28 years old, was arrested as he was boarding a plane at Newark airport. The detectives who took him in custody reported he was carrying $9416 in gold coins. He is held on a charge of violating the Gold Reserve Act.

Police said Secret Service men discovered Maldonado carried gold to Chicago where it was turned over to a man who flew to San Antonio, Tex., from which point the gold was taken on to Mexico.

CENTRAL CITY, Colo., July 21.—On the time-hallowed boards of the little Central City Opera House, Walter Huston tonight slipped back from the modern world of "Dodsworth" and the movies to play Shakespeare's Moor-Othello.

It was the opening night of the third annual Central City Play Festival and thousands crowded this mountain village and the venerable playhouse. The festival will continue two weeks.

MAN SENTENCED FOR MURDER ACCUSES ANOTHER OF KILLING

JOLIET, Ill., July 21.—Breaking a three-year silence, William Neill, a convict serving a 30-year term at the State penitentiary here for complicity in the murder of Fred Siebert, 64 years old, in a saloon holdup in 1930, today named Commodore Fitzgerald, former resident of Flora, Ill., as the actual slayer.

Neill was sentenced in May, 1931, on his plea of guilty but at that time did not name his companions in the holdup. Fitzgerald is now in jail at Louisville, Ill., on a charge of petty larceny.

Neill, seized in Texas after the slaying, was defended in his trial by William R. McCabe. It was to McCabe, now State's Attorney, that he made his statement implicating Fitzgerald.

HARRIMAN, Tenn., July 21.—Strikers at the Harriman Hosiery Mills late today voted to reject an agreement under which the Blue Eagle would be restored to the mills which closed after the emblem had been removed.

W. M. Hannah, attorney for the strikers, said they denied that A. R. Glancy, NRA official, had any authority from Gen. Hugh S. Johnson or from the union to make the settlement that was announced Thursday night.

"The union," Hannah declared, "continues to stand ready to comply in every way with every order and decision made by Gen. Johnson. And while the union would regard the settlement as worse than no settlement at all, yet if Hugh S. Johnson approves it, which the union believes he will never do, it will nevertheless go along with him."

MONKEY IN MURAL HAS TO COME OUT

Painter Mixed Up Puerto Rico With Costa Rica in Depicting Animal.

The red monkey which Valentine Vogel, PWA artist, painted in her mural of Puerto Rico, for the Crunden Branch Library, and which drew criticism from a native of the island who pointed out that there are no monkeys there, will be painted out this week.

Miss Vogel doesn't know what she will paint over the monkey, but it will probably be some flowers. The monkey is in the lower left hand part of the mural, crouching among a growth of tropical plants. Miss Vogel would like to paint in a bird, but she already has enough birds in the picture, she thinks.

How Artist Got Mixed.

The monkey was painted into the tropical picture after Miss Vogel had done considerable research about the island, familiarizing herself with its plant and animal life. In one book she read of monkeys inhabiting its trees and decided to include one in the mural. She made it red because she likes that color.

Then came the protest. In a letter in the Post-Dispatch, Josephine Luchetti wrote: "Where under the sun Miss Valentine Vogel got the idea that there are monkeys in Puerto Rico is more than I can understand. There are no more monkeys there than there are elephants in Missouri."

Miss Vogel went back to her books. She found the one which had described the monkeys, but when she turned to look at its cover she saw the volume was about Costa Rica. She said it was misfiled under Puerto Rico.

Fixing Over Murals.

Miss Vogel said it would not be much work painting out the monkey, because she works over all of her murals anyway. She is painting eight for the library, depicting eight possessions of the United States.

"In the Alaska mural," she said, "I toned down the totem pole. In the Samoa one I am now lengthening the girl's skirt. After that mural dried, I decided to replace some black pigeons with some chickens and a rooster as I thought these would be more interesting. In the Philippine mural, I removed one of the lilies. In the Hawaiian mural, I painted out two of a group of seven figures, and moved a volcano from the center to the top of the canvas.

"Murals are so large, they have to be put away and studied again and again."

POLICE SEEK SYNDICATE IN SEIZURE OF GAMBLING SHIP

Former Agents of Lindbergh in Kidnaping Are Brought Into Inquiry.

POINT PLEASANT, N. J., July 21.—Stripped of its roulette wheels, dice and other gambling paraphernalia, by five rural constables, the S. S. Club Royale, once the houseboat Killarney of the late Sir Thomas Lipton, lay at its pier in the Manasquan River tonight while authorities sought to establish a link between its operators and an underworld gambling syndicate.

The names of two "fixers" were brought into the investigation: Irving Bitz and Salvatore Spitale, agents for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in the flyer's attempt to make a contact with the kidnapers of his first son.

Word also came to the police that members of the purple gang of Detroit had a hand in running the resort, which enjoyed the patronage of socially prominent summer colonists. Patrons were allowed to go after establishing their identity. Four men, taken into custody in the raid, were arraigned early today and held in bond of $1000 each on gambling charges. They said they were David Slade of Toledo, Bert Moss of Detroit, Irving Bressler of Bradley Beach and George Arthur of Asbury Park.

YOUNG PAYNE'S CONFESSION OF MURDERS READ IN COURT

Detective Says Defendant Spoke of "Feeling Strange" on Day of Killings.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 21.—Jurors who ultimately will decide whether Louis Payne, 21-year-old youth, was sane when he killed his mother and brother, were locked up in a downtown hotel, and the young defendant waited behind bars of the county jail during the week-end recess which interrupted his trial. Payne has confessed the crime and is depending on his insanity plea to save him from conviction.

After a week's progress in Superior Judge Harry F. Sewell's court, testimony in the trial had covered discovery of the bodies of the boy's mother, Mrs. Carrie Payne, and his younger brother, Robert, on their beds in the Payne home in Westwood, and two confessions of the slaying said to have been made by Payne.

A detective read written statements he said the boy had made to him.

"I woke up feeling strange. I was fighting an impulse," the "confession" said.

"I went down the hall to my mother's room and stood there, looking at her—fighting with myself against what something was making me do. Then I went into my brother's room and there was an ax gleaming in the moonlight. I took it and went back to my mother's room, fighting that terrible impulse all of the time. Then I struck her . . . she groaned. . . .

ADVICE FOR FIRST AID TREATMENT IN HEAT CASES

Health Commissioner Bredeck Tells Also How to Keep From Becoming Ill.

Health Commissioner Bredeck yesterday gave the following advice on first aid treatment for heat exhaustion:

"Lay the patient down in as cool a place as possible. Apply ice packs and cold compresses generally. Call a physician. Heat exhaustion is a serious illness and usually hospital treatment is indicated."

To avoid illness from intense heat, Dr. Bredeck suggested that water should be drunk in large quantity—forced if necessary. "Take orange juice, lemonade or any of the other 'ades' flavored with fruit juices," he said. "Keep the protein side of diet as low as possible—less meat, fish and eggs, and more vegetables and fruits."

Heat exhaustion, he pointed out, occurs most frequently in persons past middle age and in those afflicted with heart disease or other organic disturbances.

ST. LOUIS STUDENT HURT IN MEXICAN RAIL ACCIDENT

James Leigh White Had Gone to Southern Republic for Material for a Book.

James Leigh White, a student, 5083 Waterman boulevard, was slightly injured in a railroad accident in Mexico last week, according to a letter received here. The letter was from C. T. Sadle of Brentwood, a dining car instructor on the International & Great Northern Railroad. He did not give details of the accident, but asked his wife to tell White's mother, Mrs. Mary White, that her son was expected to be out of a hospital in a few days. Apparently White was taken to a hospital in Mexico, D. F.

White, who attended Washington University until he injured an arm last autumn, had gone to Mexico for material for a book.

The Missouri Pacific Railroad has received word of the derailment of several cars on a train of the National Railways of Mexico, between Mexico, D. F., and Monterey, Tuesday night, in which an American was reported to have been shaken up.

MOTHER GETS LIFE TERM FOR POISONING DAUGHTER

Mrs. Hopkins, Guthrie Center, Ia., Pleads Guilty of Killing Feeble-Minded Girl.

GUTHRIE CENTER, Ia., July 21.—Mrs. Frank Hopkins, 45 years old, charged with the murder of her 17-year-old daughter, Elma, by poisoning, today pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Rockwell City Woman's Reformatory.

Elma died July 8, on her birthday, after eating a piece of chicken sprinkled with poison. She and her 13-year-old sister, Kathleen, were preparing to return to the school for the feeble-minded at Woodward from which they were on furlough.

A dog, to which Elma had tossed a chicken bone, also died.

At a coroner's inquest at Casey, her home, Mrs. Hopkins testified yesterday that she had purchased poison, but declared that she had bought it to kill rats. She also testified that she had learned Elma was considered incurable and was gradually getting worse. The coroner's jury returned a sealed verdict.

RUSSIAN SCIENTISTS GOING TO UNCHARTED ARCTIC REGION

Seeking to Learn If Land Really Exists West of Wrangell Island.

VLADIVOSTOK, Siberia, July 21.—Soviet scientists will try this summer to fill in the vast blank spaces with which even the best maps represent the area in the Eastern Siberian Sea west of Wrangel Island. They will seek to solve the mystery of Andreievland, which may or may not be an island west of Wrangell Island.

Legends have grown up about the region, but there is no positive evidence that such an island exists or that any Arctic wanderer has ever set foot on or seen it.

The icebreaker Litke, commanded by Capt. Nikolaev, will seek to penetrate this uncharted region. Seaplanes will be released occasionally for surveys. The Litke will carry a large staff of scientists.

China Outlaws Kite-Flying.

NANKING, July 21.—Kite-flying, for centuries a Chinese national pastime, has been outlawed by the Nationalist government. The official decree from the Ministry of Communications explains that huge kites at high altitudes impair visibility for aviators and constitute a danger to planes.

BREEN TO PASS ON MOVIES BEFORE STUDIOS GET THEM

Much Film Material Bought Before Cleanup Campaign to Be Scrutinized.

HOLLYWOOD, July 21. — All stories and scenarios offered for production in the movies must be submitted to Joseph I. Breen, assistant to Will Hays, "film czar," before they will be considered or even read by individual studios, Breen announced today.

Breen is the one-man censorship board delegated to pass upon and condemn any objectionable features in motion pictures. Thousands of dollars worth of screen material already purchased by studios before the clean-up campaign started will be subjected to Breen's scrutiny before production of any of them starts.

EARTHQUAKES AGAIN SHAKE PANAMA CITIES

Wharf Collapses at Puerto Armuelles; Houses Fall at David City.

By the Associated Press.

PANAMA, July 21.—New earthquakes in Panama today added to the devastation in several sections and it was feared there were a number of deaths at Puerto Armuelles, where the national wharf collapsed.

S. J. Shreves, a Panama Canal diver who arrived here tonight, said he saw many houses collapse upon their inmates. Deaths and injuries in the disaster still were undetermined, both at Puerto Armuelles, and at David City, which is a mass of ruins.

"One of the most horrible sights was to see the sick staggering and stumbling out of a hospital, some almost unable to walk and all terrified to the point of panic," Shreves said.

The people of David City, already living in tents because they regarded the houses not totally destroyed as unsafe, were reported in a state of terror after the new tremors.

The Canal Zone Hydrographic Office reported a seismic disturbance at 5:40 a. m. of sufficient force to disrupt delicate mechanism in the recording apparatus. From 8 a. m. Friday to 8 a. :m. Saturday, seven other tremors were recorded of slight to moderate force.

These workers at a mass meeting voted to accept a proposal submitted to them by the company and approved by a Negotiating Committee of the employes. The same proposal has been submitted to all labor groups among the employes and has been accepted by them. The proposal included mutually satisfactory provisions regarding wages, against discrimination because of employes' membership in any group or organization, concerning employe representation on labor problems, elimination of any management representatives on employe labor groups, and preference for older employes in service, skill and capability considered, in lay-offs and re-hiring.

FINDS NEW DEAL TAKES LABOR INTO CAMP

Civil Liberties Union Says Mediation Is Usually at Workers' Expense.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Government mediation in industrial conflicts between labor and employers "has usually been at the expense of labor's rights," the American Civil Liberties Union said in its annual report today.

"The Government has not intervened to stop employers' interference with union activities," said the report, entitled "Liberty Under the New Deal" and covering the period from June, 1933, to June, 1934.

"It (Government) has not outlawed company unions. It has tended to restrict the right to strike. It has discriminated against left-wing and independent trade unions. It has not given labor representation on the code authorities."

Labor "Taken Into Camp."

"The present tendencies are to take labor into camp as part of the governmental industrial machine and thereby to lull opposition to sleep by making the workers believe the Government will look after their interests.

"Where the right to organize has been won, the record shows clearly that it is due to the determination of the workers, not to governmental intervention."

The report then asserted that "the role of the New Deal in relation to labor's rights could easily have been forecast by those who understand that its main purpose is the preservation of the existing economic system."

Liberty and New Deal.

The Union reached four conclusions regarding the status of liberty under the New Deal:

1. "We have no wholesale suppression because there is as yet not significant opposition to suppress. The Government is too well supported to fear criticism from the extreme right or the extreme left.

2. "The central struggle involving civil liberties, between capital and labor, has been greatly affected by the New Deal—first, by encouraging the formation of trade unions, and second, by not vigorously backing up encouragement in practice.

3. "In the great channels of communication, the New Deal has not moved, contrary to the charges of its critics, to restrict the radio, to censor the movies, nor to gag the press. The power to do it is there, but it has not yet been misused. Yet unless that power is removed the danger is always present.

4. "The encouraging aspects of the New Deal in relations to rights and liberties are the more tolerant policies toward aliens, toward Indians, the President's amnesty on Christmas restoring civil rights to those convicted under the espionage act during the war, and the treatment, for example, of the bonus army in Washington last summer, in contrast to its treatment under the Hoover administration."

HOWARD SCOTT'S MACHINERY TO BE SOLD FOR BACK RENT

Two Automobiles, Equipment, Desks and Books to Go Under Hammer.

By the Associated Press.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., July 21.—The contents and equipment of the old municipal power house, where Howard Scott, chief technocrat first elaborated his theories of technocracy, will go under a bailiff's hammer July 30, to satisfy a judgement for $2637 back rent which Scott owes the borough.

Frequently referred to as "the birthplace of technocracy," the power house was the improvised factory where Scott manufactured a floor finishing wax in the days before technocracy became for a time a household word. In those days the wax business flourished.

The effects of the old factory include two automobiles made 1926, office furniture, manufacturing equipment, and a large assortment of books, some of them on "the technical alliance" with which Scott, as chief engineer, proposed to "survey the possibility of applying the achievements of science to social and industrial affairs."

Letters and flowers continued to pour in on the cottage on the C. K. Billings estate where she has been confined for several months.

An Open Letter to the People of St. Louis

Now . . . after twenty-one years on Chestnut street, we dedicate new quarters on Ninth and Washington to your service. You will read about it in the news columns . . . about the marble and bronze and air-conditioning and vaults and all the other material things, so we won't repeat that here. Instead we'll talk about the other, the human side; the side that made increased facilities necessary, and possible.

Nothing will be said in the news stories about the helpfulness, the public service, of the Industrial in St. Louis. That would be editorializing in the news columns; something that is frowned upon in all of the best schools of journalism. The news stories may tell you that ninety million dollars have been loaned by the Industrial in the twenty-one years, but they won't have space enough to break that ninety million up into the hundreds of thousands of separate loans that have made up the total . . . for instance, how your neighbor was able to borrow money here when the baby came; how your grocer could sell you sugar for a little less because he could borrow here and take advantage of a cash buy; or how a boy had that final year of college training because his dad could get the money for it here. They won't tell you any of the thousands of little human incidents that we could keep on telling indefinitely.

The news stories will likely mention the fact that we accept savings deposits, but they won't mention the millions of dollars of your savings that we have safeguarded in the world's most varied twenty-one years, or the good rate of interest we have always paid you. That would come under the head of things taken for granted, and things taken for granted are never news.

Now, after twenty-one years on Chestnut street, we dedicate new quarters on Ninth and Washington to your service. But we do more than that. After twenty-one years of service to you we dedicate untold future years to your service; future years of guarding your money when you have it and lending you money when you need it; future years of giving you the kind of financial service that you take for granted; that you never miss until you lose; and that you never miss because you never lose.

To you who are our customers we say that we have maintained and cherished your trust, and we now claim the right to continue to do so under conditions that are better than ever before. To you who are not our customers we offer the service that you won't read about in the news columns; the service built for you, the average person; the bank service that touches the human side of banking.

Come in.

FLOODS IN WARSAW; MANY LEAVE HOMES

Water Reaches Gates of Presidential Palace — 200 Dead in Provinces.

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, July 21.—Flood waters of the Vistula River, which took more than 200 lives in Southern Poland, swept into Warsaw today forcing many residents from their homes as the streets of suburbs were turned into canals.

The Vistula, whose rampages have already caused damage estimated at $200,000,000, rose to a level of 16 feet, compared with the normal 4-foot reading here, and the water reached the gates of the presidential palace.

Seven nearby villages were inundated, and Luna Park, huge amusement center, was under water. Boats weer used in suburban streets in the place of wheeled vehicles.

Hundreds of persons, including police, soldiers and volunteers, worked to strengthen the levees on the left bank of the river which showed signs of weakness that endangered the heart of the capital.

The condition here appeared to be more serious than had been predicted while the flood waters from the Carpathian Mountains were still ravaging the provinces. Reports from the devastated areas to the south said the farmers were in serious distress due to the loss of homes, crops and livestock. The Government was rushing aid rapidly as possible.

Steamers were unable to operate in the river yesterday because they could not pass under the bridges.

TRUMAN SAYS OPPONENTS SEEK REPUBLICAN HELP

He Asserts Milligan and Cochran Hope to Get Votes to Switch Parties in Primary.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOUISIANA, Mo., July 21.—Judge Harry S. Truman, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate, said tonight he had received reports of a concerted effort to cause Republicans to "break into" the Democratic primaries in Kansas City and St. Louis. Speaking here, Judge Truman said that this plan was "one most unworthy of any Democrat."

"The forces operating for Jacob L. Milligan of Richmond are working hand in glove with the New Youth Movement in Kansas City," he declared. "This organization was humiliatingly defeated in an alliance with the Republican party in Kansas City in last spring's elections.

"In St. Louis, the same sort of an alliance is sought by the quintuplets in charge of the campaign for John J. Cochran. It is reported that William L. Igoe, Mayor Dickmann, Charles M. Hay, Vance Higgs, law partner of Igoe, and Cochran, associated with Igoe and Higgs in the practice of law, are using every effort to cause Republicans to take part in the Democratic primaries."

LABOR BOARD RULES AGAINST BEVIER (MO.) COAL COMPANY

Holds That Firm Refused Employes the Right of Collective Bargaining.

By the Associated Press.

FORT SMITH, Ark., July 21.—A Regional Labor Board today decided that the Central Coal and Coke Co. of Bevier, Mo., had intimidated employes and refused them the right of collective bargaining in accordance with the NRA code for the bituminous coal industry.

J. M. Bernardin, receiver for the Missouri concern, was ruled against on every point set out in a formal complaint filed last Dec. 7 by representatives of the United Mine Workers of America. No defense was presented by the company. Its only recourse is an appeal to the national board at Washington or defiance of the decree, which would make it liable to Federal prosecution.

Bernardin was charged with collecting individual contracts from workers and assembling them to designate them as "Southwestern Miners of America," an organization allegedly named and controlled exclusively by the receiver. The company was ordered to reinstate discharged employes.

TEXAS LOSES GAS RATE SUIT

District Jury Holds Reduction Order Is Unreasonable.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., July 21. — The state of Texas lost its suit today to force the Lone Star Gas Co. to reduce from 40 to 32 cents per 1800 cubic feet the gas rate at the gates of approximately 250 Texas cities and towns.

A Travis County District Court jury which heard the case held that an order of the Texas Railroad Commission reducing the rates was unjust and unreasonable.

FEDERAL AGENT REED GIVES BOND ON SECOND CHARGE

Warrant for Common Assault Issued After Indictment for Manslaughter.

Lear B. Reed, suspended Department of Justice agent, surrendered yesterday at Police Headquarters and gave bond of $200 on a charge of common assault. He was already under $5000 bond on a manslaughter indictment.

Both charges arise out of a raid led by Reed July 13, in which Mrs. Dessie Masterson was killed by bullets fired through the door of her home at 1446 Hogan street when officers were looking for a machine gun used in the murder of a State's witness in the Kelley kidnaping case.

Mrs. Masterson's husband, Harry, said Reed struck him with a pistol and knocked him over his wife's body. The grand jury which indicted Reed for manslaughter considered an assault charge but returned no indictment. Prosecuting Attorney Rosecan then issued a warrant. Maximum penalty for manslaughter is 10 years in prison; for common assault the maximum is six months in the Workhouse and a $100 fine.

CITY REPUBLICANS CALL OFF ORATORY AT THEIR PICNIC

Crowd Gathers Slowly and Stays in Shade at Gray's Grove — 60,000 Tickets Sold.

The Republican City Committee accomplished yesterday what hitherto had been considered an impossibility—a political picnic without speeches.

Gray's Grove, at Chambers road and West Florissant avenue, lay gray under the withering July sun as 150 candidates for State and local nominations drove into the grounds with the expectation of availing themselves of the loud-speakers installed on a speakers' stand.

But the extreme heat sent the few Republicans who had gathered, back into the shaded area of the grove or drove them into groups about the stands where beer was dispensed in buckets. It was too hot for sudorific oratory and candidates gladly abandoned the tarpaulin-shaded rostrum and contented themselves with handshaking and backslapping.

Crowd Grows at Sundown.

As the sun fell the crowd increased to several thousand, a band which had taken its ease in the shade of an oak during the afternoon challenged the din of the Ninth Ward drum and bugle corps, and the gathering took on some of the enthusiasm of an old-fashioned out-State political gathering.

Although an anomaly by reason of its failure oratorically, the picnic was a financial success for the city committee. More than 60,000 tickets at 25 cents each were sold to provide funds for the November campaign chest and proceeds from concessions swelled the sum.

United States Senator Roscoe C. Patterson, unopposed for the Republican nomination to succeed himself; Laurence M. Hyde of Princeton, and State Senator Lou Kelly of Pineville, both candidates for the Supreme Court, Division No. 2, hobnobbed with the city voters.

Weary of standing about and blaming everything, including the sweltering heat, on the Democrats, one group of campaigners found diversion in a turtle race. Borrowing from a concession four of the racers, they labeled them, by cards attached to their shells, Cochran, Milligan and Truman, the candidates for the Democratic nomination for the United States Senate, and Patterson.

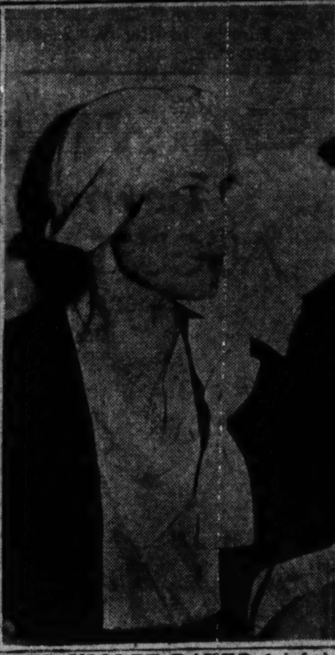
Bucket of Beer Wagered.

Patterson, heavily backed by wagers of a bucket of beer, won each of three heats run under the supervision of Collector Ed Koeln, Committee Treasurer Michael J. Hart, B. T. Mattingly, A. L. Grattendick, Leo Gahn and Circuit Judge Beck.

Former Mayor Kiel, coatless and collarless, was to be seen conferring with Committee Chairman Fred W. Pape, Recorder of Deeds Tamme, Circuit Clerk Schmoll, Former Congressman Cleveland A. Newton and Judge Butler of the Court of Criminal Correction.

It was at such conferences that the campaigning was done, the candidates content with the truce with their primary opponents and satisfied to withhold their fire on the Democratic administrations, national, State and city, until after the Aug. 7 primary, unless cooler evenings bring larger crowds to the regular ward meetings.

Witness in the Allen Case



MRS. VIOLET BAUER (right), former manager of the apartment house, and GERTRUDE THEIM, maid at the establishment where June De Long was living when the "wild party" assertedly occurred in her apartment, will be the next witnesses to be called in the Allen-March "morals" case in Los Angeles.

HAY SAYS COCHRAN IS REAL FRIEND OF WAR VETERAN

He Asserts Truman and Milligan Would Jeopardize Recovery to Pay Bonus.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SHELBINA, Mo., July 21.—City Counselor Hay of St. Louis in a speech here tonight supporting Congressman John J. Cochran for the Senate, declared Cochran to be a "wiser, better, and more far-sighted friend of the war veterans" than his two opponents, Jacob L. Milligan and Harry S. Truman.

Cochran, Hay said, supports President Roosevelt on the bonus issue. "The President," he said, "has declared that the immediate full payment of the compensation certificates would so far affect the financial structure of the Government as to jeopardize the whole recovery program, and yet, in spite of that solemn warning, Candidates Milligan and Truman favor this action. Cochran frankly and boldly declares that he opposes it.

"He opposes immediate payment not through lack of interest in the veterans but because he does not favor a policy which can at best bring only temporary benefit, and which will ultimately bring disaster."

Hay said payment of the bonus would cripple the Government and not allow it to give relief to the farmer.

BOY ENDS LIFE AT GIRL'S HOME

Fires Rifle After Quarrel in Which She Rejects Attentions.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, July 21.—Edward Carpenter, 18 years old, police said, today carried a .22 caliber rifle to the apartment of Miss Dorothy Mason, 16-year-old high school girl, in a newspaper. Police later found him lying wounded with the rifle by his side. He died two hours later. The shooting followed a quarrel with the girl, the police said. They declared he had committed suicide.

Miss Mason told police she met Carpenter about six weeks ago. She said she told him recently she did not care to keep company with him any longer. Carpenter was disinclined to accept her decision and they argued about it. Police said the girl told how her companion threatened to shoot her and kill himself, and how she ran from the room. She said she paused a moment and heard him make preparations to fire the weapon. The girl fled to the apartment manager's office and police were called.

DOUMERGUE TO ATTEMPT TO AVERT CABINET CRISIS

Tardieu's Charges Against Radical Socialists Creates Serious Situation.

TOURNEFEUILLE, France, July 21.—Premier Gaston Doumergue decided today to interrupt his vacation and return to Paris Tuesday for a Cabinet session, at which he will try to avert a crisis.

Henry Cheron, Minister of Justice, today explained to the Premier his seriousness of the situation created by Andre Tardieu's charges against radical Socialists and told the veteran head of the Government that the Ministers wish him to arbitrate.

LUNATIC WHO THREATENED TO BLOW UP BANK CAUGHT

Inmate of Hospital for Criminal Insane Escaped Year Ago.

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 21.—A convict who escaped from the St. Peter State Hospital in July, 1933, was captured today and identified by the police as Albert Klein, who walked into the Stockyards National Bank in South St. Paul last July 13 with 10 pounds of dynamite and threatened to blow up the place unless he was given $7000.

Klein was sent to the State hospital for criminal insane three years ago.

When he walked into the South St. Paul bank he gave the vice-president a note which said he had "four quarts of nitro-glycerin" on his person and would touch off a switch unless his demand for money was met.

He became frightened, however, and fled. Later an abandoned bomb was found containing the dynamite and a home-made fuse which had burned out.

Rural Carriers' Election.

The Illinois Rural Letter Carriers' Association elected the following officers at the close of its thirty-first annual convention at Belleville yesterday: President, Thomas L. Gordon, Metamora; vice-president, Delmar C. Lampp, Burnt Prairie; secretary, Roy L. Cozne, Lewiston; treasurer, A. C. Bostick, Champaign. Next year's convention will be held at Quincy.

INTEREST GREAT IN PRIMARY RACES DESPITE OFF-YEAR

Candidates to Enter Home Stretch of Campaigns This Week for Vote on Aug. 7.

With only two weeks before the primary election Aug. 7, Democrats and Republicans this week enter the home stretch of the campaigns for party nominations.

Although it is an "off-year" election, interest is high, particularly among the Democrats who see a chance to capture the remaining State and city offices now held by Republicans and complete the change in local administration that was started in April, 1933.

Republicans are hoping that the swing to the Democrats has subsided to a point where most of the Republican officials will be re-elected and thus foreshadow a Republican victory in the next municipal election in 1937.

Koeln Feared by Democrats.

One man paricularly feared by the Democrats is City Collector Koeln, seeking his seventh term. Koeln, a Republican leader for years, is the bell-wether of the Republican forces. He is personally popular, with a large following in both parties, and the Democrats are doubtful about beating him although they have a strong candidate in William F. Baumann, North St. Louis furniture dealer and a candidate for Comptroller in 1933.

Another strong Republican candidate is Prosecuting Attorney Harry P. Rosecan, unopposed for the nomination, who will be opposed in November by Police Judge James P. Finnegan, unopposed for the Democratic nomination. Rosecan, a former Police Judge, is a strong campaigner, in the opinion of both Republicans and Democrats, and is reckoned a hard man to beat.

Assuming that the other veteran Republican officials are renominated, License Collector Chapman, Recorder of Deeds Tamme, Circuit Clerk Schmoll and Gus A. Baur, clerk of the Court of Criminal Correction—the Democrats, according to some of their ward leaders, will base their campaign on the slogan that it is time for a change in these offices. Schmoll, Baur and Tamme have been in office 12 years, Chapman 16.

Schmoll Faces Fight.

Three of these four face fights for renomination. Schmoll is opposed by J. Louis Boehl, a newcomer to politics. Chapman has two opponents, Frank B. Grodzki, a lawyer, and William J. Studt, former Alderman of the Twenty-first Ward. Grodzki, of Polish decent, has considerable following in the Polish sections of North and South St. Louis. Studt, former president of the North St. Louis Business Men's Association, has considerable support in North St. Louis. Chapman, however, may win if he gets the indorsement of the Republican City Committee, which is expected to prepare a slate.

Tamme has a hard fight for renomination, being opposed by former City Assessor Fred Gehner, a First Ward leader, and Fred W. Evers, Republican Committeeman of the Twenty-first Ward. There were reports last week that either Gehner or Evers would withdraw in each other's favor, but both deny they have any such intention. Some Republican Committeemen say either Evers or Gehner would make a stronger candidate than Tamme, although Tamme has considerable support in the City Committee.

Baur Unopposed in Primary.

Baur is unopposed for renomination, as is William Hoefle, former Second Ward Alderman and a candidate to succeed himself as Clerk of the Circuit Court for Criminal Causes.

Most Republicans think the slate of judicial candidates indorsed by the Bar Association will be successful in their primary, although the City Committee may indorse Richard C. Hart, brother of former Alderman Luke E. Hart, in place of Alroy S. Phillips, who polled the lowest vote of any Republican candidate who received indorsement in the bar poll. Richard Hart is also a brother of Michael J. Hart, Twenty-sixth Ward Committeeman.

The other candidates besides Phillips indorsed by the Bar Association are Judge Fred J. Hoffmeister, Judge Claude O. Pearcy, Judge Erwin G. Ossing, Judge John W. Calhoun, David E. Blair, former State Supreme Court Judge; J. Ray Weinbrenner, former Judge of the Court of Criminal Correction; former Judge William H. Killoren and George L. Stemmler.

Judge Edward E. Butler of the Court of Criminal Correction is unopposed for renomination.

Democratic Vote on Slate.

Among the Democrats, most party workers are awaiting the announcement of the Democratic City Committee slate, which is expected this week. The committee is scheduled to meet tomorrow night or Tuesday to vote on the slate. Indications are that the following will receive the indorsement of the committee:

United States Senator, Congressman John J. Cochran.

Circuit Judges, Judge O'Neill Ryan, Judge Robert J. Kirkwood, Judge James F. Green, James M. Douglas, James E. King, Samuel H. Liberman, Edgar H. Wayman, J. Wesley McAfee and Harry F. Russell. All were indorsed by the Bar Association except Russell.

Judge, Court of Criminal Correction, James W. Griffin.

Probate Judge, Glendy B. Arnold.

Circuit Clerk, H. Sam Priest.

Clerk, Circuit Court for Criminal Causes, Larry J. Kickham or J. Edward Bates.

Clerk, Court of Criminal Correction, John P. Connolly.

Recorder of Deeds, John P. English.

Indorsements for Congressmen, State Senator and Justices of the Peace and Constables will be made in the various congressional, senatorial and judiciary and constabulary districts later.

STILL MISSING

HERMAN C. BECKER.

SEARCH FOR HERMAN C. BECKER CONTINUES WITHOUT SUCCESS

Assistant Cashier of Lemay Ferry Bank, Possible Heat Victim, Still Missing.

Relatives and friends of Herman C. Becker, assistant cashier of the Lemay Ferry Bank, who disappeared Wednesday morning, apparently as a result of heat prostration redoubled their efforts last night to find him.

"We haven't heard a word," his wife, Mrs. Cora Becker, told the Post-Dispatch. "We have just been sitting by the telephone, waiting for word and trying to think of some friend who might have an idea where he is. Everybody has been fine in helping us, but still there is no word."

Becker, who is 40 years old, left his home at 308 Bellerive boulevard, about 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, and following his daily custom, called on his mother at her home two blocks away. He depated in his automobile, but apparently abandoned it, as it was found later by his daughter, not far from her grandmother's home. A friend reported seeing him walking north in Broadway at 8:30 o'clock, carrying his coat and mopping his forehead with a handkerchief. He was overcome by the heat two weeks ago and had complained of being ill since then.

SEES NRA AS PERMANENT

Deputy Administrator Says Machinery Will Be Retained.

By the Associated Press.

BLUE RIDGE, N. C., July 31.—George Berry, deputy administrator of NRA, predicted in an address today to the Southern Conference on Human Relations in Industry that the NRA would become a permanent division of the Federal Government.

"Though the machinery of its operations may be altered," he said, "I firmly believe that the NRA will become a permanent division of the National Government. I think an executive committee or board will take the place of Johnson (General Hugh S. Johnson) when he resigns and a bill will be introduced in the next session of Congress permanently fixing the NRA machinery."

5 MORE CANDIDATES ON FORFEITED BONDS

Unpaid Judgments Against a Total of Seven Disclosed by Search of Records.

Further search of the bail bond records in the Circuit Attorney's office revealed yesterday that five more candidates for nomination in the primary, August 7, have unpaid judgments against them on forfeited bonds, making a total of seven.

The candidates are:

Edward J. "Jellyroll" Hogan, Democratic candidate for nomination as State Representative from the Fourth District. The forfeiture of an $800 bond he signed was ordered in December, 1919.

Maurice J. Gordon, an attorney, and candidate for the Republican nomination for Justice of the Peace for the Fifth District. A $500 bond he signed was forfeited in 1926.

William J. Kemp, an attorney, and candidate for the Republican nomination for Justice of the Peace in the Eighth District. There are four forfeitures against him totaling $3200.

Arthur A. McLeod, bondsman and Democratic candidate for Justice of the Peace in the Fifth District. He has three forfeitures totaling $3500 against him.

Joseph C. Campbell, Negro, a candidate for the Republican nomination for Constable in the Fourth District. He has two forfeitures totaling $2000 against him.

Gordon said yesterday he did not regard the judgment against him as an obligation as the defendant was taken into custody three years after the forfeiture was declared, and served his fine out in the workhouse. He said he was told several months ago by Assistant Circuit Attorney Griffin, now on vacation, that the judgment would be remitted. The records at the Circuit Attorney's office show that the Governor, the only official empowered to remit a bond judgment, has not done so in Gordon's case.

It was related in Friday's Post-Dispatch that Sam Arky, former professional bondsman and a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Justice of the Peace in the Fifth District, and William A. Morant, candidate for renomination on the Republican ticket as Constable in the Fourth District, have unpaid bail bond judgments against them. Arky owes $7800 on eight judgments, and Morant $10,800 on twelve.

All seven candidates have been barred from signing bonds in Circuit Court cases.

FORD RIDES BICYCLE FOR HIS EXERCISE

Manufacturer, on Eve of 71st Birthday, Expounds His Philosophy.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, July 21.—On the eve of his seventy-first birthday, Henry Ford voiced a homely philosophy of life and business in a copyrighted interview with Meigs O. Frost, reporter of the Times-Picayune.

The reporter called on him in his office at Dearborn, Mich., and described Ford as "a plain American machinist filled with divine discontent."

"The recovery we need is our spirit of American Independence," said Ford. "Something has happened to American Independence and individualism. Americans used to have convictions they would fight for. I remember when I was a boy seeing men arguing in the street and fighting with their fists over their ideas. I don't know how many years it is since I've seen that kind of a street fight. It would be a healthy sign to see them again.

"The real foundation of American industry is an American school boy trying to work out a problem that hasn't any answer in the back of the book. This nation grew great solving problems that didn't have any answer in the back of the book. But you've got to sit down and think to solve them.

"The minute the majority of Americans starts to thinking, this depression is over.

"Depressions aren't acts of God. Just like wars, they are the work of a small group of men who profit by them. What America needs to do is put the national finger on that small group."

Asked what he did for recreation, Ford said:

"Oh, exercise. Yes, over at my home at Fair Lane, I ride a bicycle every morning before breakfast. Then I take an ax on my shoulder and start out around the place, chopping down dead trees and limbs. And I run part of the way. It loosens me up."

"Mr. Ford," he was asked, "what plans have you made for the cintinuation of your business after your death?"

"What the devil can I do about it?" Ford replied. "I'm not thinking about that at all. I have enough to do today."

U. S.-SOVIET NEGOTIATIONS ON DEBTS IN WASHINGTON

Discussions Transferred From Moscow in Hope of Breaking Deadlock.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Negotiations for a settlement of debts and claims estimated at between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000 will begin between Alexander Troyanovsky, Soviet Ambassador, and State Department officials early next week.

After months of futile discussions between William C. Bullitt, American Ambassador, and Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Commissar of Foreign Affairs, in Moscow, negotiations were transferred here in hope the new scene and new negotiators would break the deadlock.

Trade between the two nations now is frozen largely because of failure to achieve a settlement. The United States ranks fifth in purchases by Russia and expectations of greatly increased trade, as a result of recognition, have failed to materialize.

Russia's insistence on being granted loans or credits in this country with which to make additional purchases of goods necessary to the success of the Soviet five-year plan is understood to have been the chief point on which the Moscow negotiations broke down.

The United States is understood to have made an offer of settlement based on extremely liberal terms.

GERMAN LEADS IN CHESS PLAY

E. D. Bogoljubow Defeats Emanuel Lasker of London.

ZURICH, Switzerland, July 21.—With a victory over Dr. Emanuel Lasker of London in the eighth round, E. D. Bogoljubow of Germany took the lead today in the International Chess Tournament. Dr. Lasker adopted the king's pawn opening and was met with a French defense. Bogoljubow won a pawn in the middle game and scored after 39 moves.

In the second session four adjourned games were decided. Dr. Alexander Alekhine won from A. Nimzowitsch of Denmark in 51 moves. Other winners were Dr. Max Euwe of Holland, Salo Flohr of Czecho-Slovakia and W. Henneberger of Switzerland.

NURSE HELD AFTER BABY DIES

Child Scalded When She Leaves It to Get Supplies.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 21. — Mrs. Peggy Lawson, nurse discharged from the Brooklyn Infants' Home after the fatal scalding of 18-months-old Irwin Greenberg, woke up on a park bench in Union Square today, read the newspaper which covered her and found that she was the object of a state-wide hunt. The nurse, herself the mother of a child she cannot support, telephoned to police and surrendered.

When arraigned, she said she put the baby in a tub, turned on the water and left for a minute to get some supplies. When she returned the child was scalded. Mrs. Lawson was sent to the Women's Civil Prison in Brooklyn, under $2500 bail as a material witness.

Sidewalk Cafe in Chicago.

WAGNER MUSIC SCORES EXHIBITED AT FESTIVAL

22 Performances of German Composer's Operas to Be Given at Bayreuth.

By the Associated Press.

BAYREUTH, Germany, July 21.—Richard Wagner's music and intimate souvenirs of his life today brought to this picturesque Bavarian city a throng of music lovers for the annual Wagner festival.

The first of six presentations of "Parsifal" will be given Sunday, and will be followed by four performances of "The Meistersinger" and three of the "Niebelungen" sesies, in all 22 performances before Aug. 23.

In addition, the new Wahnfried exhibit of the master's scores and stage directions, with marginal notes which give a glimpse of his personal life, will be opened to the public.

A visit of Chancellor Adolf Hitler, for which no definite date has been set, is anticipated as a high point of the season. His name and that of Frau Winifred Wagner, daughter-in-law of the composer and supervisor of the festival, have been connected in speculation as to the future of the bachelor Chancellor.

The notations of Wagner's scores are varied and interesting. On the score of "The Flying Dutchman" he wrote—"Aug. 13. Tomorrow this dearth of money will begin again!"

His love for Mathilde Wesendonck is told in notes on the same opera. "I. L. D. Gr."—interpreted to mean "I love you immeasurably"—occurs at one place, while at another one finds "L. D. M. M?" Which is accepted as the German words for "Do you love me, Mathilde?"

A single word "Aus" (meaning in effect, "let me out of here"), was written at the end of "Parsifal."

At the end of "Niebelungen Ring" he wrote, "Finished at Wahnfried Nov. 21, 1874. I will say nothing more. R. W."

All of Wagner's works were written in a clear, careful hand, and reveal a systematic procedure—in three phases, first a draft of the composition, then the orchestral score and finally the finished work.

In the collection are many of the 9000 scores, 2000 sheets of handwritten text and sketches which Cosima Wagner, Liszt's daughter, whom Wagner married in 1870, started preserving in that year.

NEGRO ORGANIZATION OPPOSES PATTERSON AND COCHRAN

National Association for Advancement of Colored People Makes Announcement.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People announced yesterday that it opposed the re-election of United States Senator Roscoe C. Patterson, unopposed for the Republican nomination, and the nomination of Congressman John J. Cochran, Democratic candidate.

S. R. Redmond, chairman of the executive committee, said opposition to Patterson was based on his vote in 1930 for confirmation of John J. Parker as Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court. Parker's confirmation was successfully opposed by labor and Negro organizations throughout the country.

Cochran's unpopularity, Redmond said, is due to remarks attributed to him regarding use of the House restaurant at Washington by Negroes.

UNITED MINE WORKERS WIN

Labor Board Extends Contracts at Two Peabody Pits.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MARION, Ill., July 21.—M. F. Peltier, Chicago, vice-president of the Peabody Coal Co., notified district mine office here today that the National Bituminous Coal Labor Board, Division No. 2, had extended Peabody contracts of mines 43 and 47 in Saline County until April 1, 1935, expiration date of other United Mine Workers' contracts in Illinois.

Contracts with miners in two Peabody mines near Harrisburg in Saline County had been contested by the Progressive Miners' union, which sought to have the Labor Board set aside the United Mine Workers' contract or hold a referendum of miners under Federal auspices. The decision of the Labor Board is considered by officials here to be a final victory for the United Mine Workers.

BIDS IN TWO WEEKS ON NEW POSTOFFICE

$4,700,000 Building to Be Begun Soon—Some Modifications in Plans.

Construction of the new $4,700,000 Postoffice at Eighteenth and Market streets will begin probably within six weeks, Walter L. Rathmann, of the firm of Klipstein & Rathmann, architects, announced last night following his return from Washington, where he conferred with Treasury and Postoffice Department officials concerning modification of plans.

As modified and finally approved, the plans embody changes in construction and equipment which will result in economies of about $500,000, Rathmann says. The changes, made necessary by advances in construction costs since funds were appropriated, include the elimination of two third-floor wings and the use of brick instead of limestone facing on part of the building.

The wings to be eliminated were to have faced on Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets and had a total floor space of about 26,000 square feet. As originally planned the entire building was to be faced with limestone. Under the modifications, limestone facing will be restricted to the Market street side and 100 feet south of Market on the Seventeenth and Eighteenth street sides. The remainder of the structure will be faced with a light buff-colored brick, harmonizing with the stone.

Bids will be advertised for in about two weeks, following alteration of specifications in accordance with the modified plans, Rathmann said.

Members of the Legislature now receive $5 a day for the first 70 days of regular and special sessions and $1 a day thereafter and $5 a day for the first 120 days of revision sessions and $1 a day thereafter.

Members of the committee are Roland F. O'Bryen of St. Louis, chairman; David L. Millar, St. Louis; Jerome M. Joffee and David M. Proctor, both of Kansas City.

MACARONI WORKERS' UNION VOTES TO REMAIN ON STRIKE

Members Demand Recognition of Their Organization and Pay Increase.

Members of Macaroni Workers' Union, who struck last Thursday for a 10 per cent increase in wages and for recognition of their organization, voted to remain out until their demands are met by employers, it was announced after a meeting yesterday by Angelo Tucciarello, business agent of the union.

About 300 workers of three plants, Mound City, V. Viviano & Bro. and the Italian Mercantile Manufacturing Co. are involved. Joseph Freschi, spokesman for the employers, said the plants would remain closed indefinitely if necessary, unless the union withdrew its demands. Wages were cut from 62½ cents an hour, last Tuesday, Tucciarello said, to the minimum code wage of 55 cents. The employes seek a 10 per cent increase over the original wage scale.

Truman, opposing candidates for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, had agreed to speak at the gathering. Many other Democratic candidates from the city and county also are expected to speak during the day.

POSTAL SURPLUS SHOWN FOR FIRST TIME SINCE 1919

Farley Keeps Ordinary Expenses $5,000,000 Under Such Receipts for Year Ended June 30.

BIG SAVING MADE ON DEPOT DRIVES

Result Attributed by Department to Good Management, Economy, Revival in Business.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—Postmaster General Farley has attained one of the goals he set for himself. For the fiscal year ended June 30, he kept ordinary postal expenditures within ordinary postal receipts, and has a pre-audited surplus of approximately $5,000,000 for his department. This was the first surplus since 1919. For the fiscal year 1933 the deficit was $50,683,605, and for 1932 it was $152,346,188. All calculations were made after subtracting the usual adjustments authorized by law covering subsidies and free mailing services.

Post Office officials do not claim that the 1934 showing proves that their department is now on a self-supporting basis like a private business. For instance, the department has hundreds of millions of dollars' worth of buildings and equipment paid for by direct appropriations by Congress on which no rents are paid. The 1934 figures merely mean that there was a surplus of receipts over ordinary postal expenditures and that Congress will not be asked for a deficiency appropriation to pay for part of the routine postal services, as has been necessary for the past 14 years.

The showing by the new administration was made in face of the fact that postal revenues decreased from $587,631,364 in 1933 to $585,234,377 in the year just closed, a loss of $2,396,987.

Business Management.

First Assistant Postmaster General William W. Howes, acting postmaster general during the absence of Farley on the west coast, said today that the surplus had been created by sound business management, economy and by the revival in business which was reflected by increased postal revenues beginning in May.

"When General Farley took over the department," Howes explained, "he announced that he wanted to keep ordinary expenditures within ordinary receipt.

"Many people forget that Mr. Farley is a successful business man and a most capable executive. He called in the heads of the departments and told his plans. He insisted that he wanted no 'yes-men' around him and that he wanted every official to understand his own job.

The Payless Furloughs.

"At the beginning of the fiscal year (July 1, 1933), it looked as if the only way we could escape the deficit that had afflicted our predecessors would be to enforce a 30-day payless furlough on all employes. In the fall of the year we did have to order a nine-day furlough. Again in March and again in April we ordered one-day furloughs. The total furloughs were for 11 days.

"We had the choice of dropping 10,000 or 12,000 employes outright or giving furloughs. We chose the furlough. Although there was a staggering drop of postal revenues in the fall of 1933, we did not arbitrarily discharge a single employe. Of course, there were resignations, retirements, deaths and discharges for misconduct. We thought then and we think now that the most humane thing we could do was to order furloughs instead of dismissals. We threw no employes on the streets or into the breadlines. In March and April, we let the furloughed employes take one-half day off in each two-week pay period or they could take a two-day payless vacation for the two months. This caused no severe hardship to anyone."

Howes told a personal experience of how he saved $2,035,000 of mail messenger service during the ten and a half months he was the second assistant Postmaster-General. He said that, when he came into that office, his subordinates informed him that there were many routine contracts to be signed, so numerous that it would be impossible for him to study them. As an example they cited the 21,000 contracts with mail messengers—the men who haul the mail from railway depots to the postoffices. Howes announced that he intended to study these contracts.

The first contract of this sort was for a small town in Georgia. Howes noticed that it was for the old rate of pay. He asked when the last advertisement for bids had been made for this particular job. The answer was, four years. He immediately ordered advertisements for bids. There were 26 applicants for the job and the successful bidder was 30 per cent under the old price. Howes then ordered a check made of all messenger contracts. He learned that of the 21,000 contracts, 12,700 had not been readvertised for four years. Some of the contracts went back for 12 years. He added six girls to his staff and called for bids on all contracts that had not been readvertised for three years.

The mail-messenger item had usually amounted to $9,500,000 a year. Howes said that he reduced it by a little more than $2,000,000. He estimated that $1,360,000 was saved last year on "star" rural mail routes and more millions on substation rents. He said there was also a saving of about $6,000,000 on air mail service.

Service Provided.

Asked what part curtailment of service had played in the reduced operating expenditures, Howes frankly said that there had been curtailment beginning last winter. Collections and deliveries were reduced.

"Beginning last May, however, we restored the old full service," he declared. "In many places we are giving even better service than before."

Howes said that he could not give the details of the subsidy payments made by the Postoffice Departments as these were items that go into the annual report. The total air mail subsidies for the foreign and domestic service was about $13,660,000. The ocean mail subsidy, arrived at by subtracting the usual poundage cost from the actual payments made on the 40 ocean mail contracts, was about $28,300,000.

Howes said that the recent executive order for an investigation of the ocean mail subsidies might bring a reduction of this item in the 1935 budget. This investigation is to be started in the next two or three months.

The other items of subvention and free service, for which no figures were available, are the congressional franking privilege, the departmental penalty mail, free in county service (for county newspapers), mail for the blind, and the so-called public policy differentials, for books, magazines and newspapers.

Subsidies, Free Service.

The total for subsidies and free service in 1934 was $61,660,000, as compared with $61,691,000 in 1933, a reduction of about $30,000. The air and ocean mail account for more than two-thirds of the 1934 adjustments.

Included in the 1934 total expenditures was $6,000,000 for office and building maintenance which in the past had been paid by the Treasury Department. Howes said that the Department officials debated for a long time whether they should offset this figure by an appropriation of about the same amount from the Treasury Department. Since it was not an ordinary receipt, however, the appropriation was not listed as income.

Howes said that, if the $6,000,000 were subtracted as an ordinary expenditure or offset by the appropriation, the Department showed a betterment of $61,000,000 over the 1933 fiscal year. As the figures now stand, he said proudly, the betterment was about $55,000,000.

"General Farley does not want to pile up big surpluses," the Acting Postmaster-General said. "He wants to break just a little better than even. He considers that his first duty is to the public and his second duty to his employes. If it looks as though we might pile up a big surplus this year, I am sure that the General will want to improve the service—even reduce the cost of some of the service—and after that has been done, his next concern will be the betterment of his employes, by improving working conditions or ordering higher pay. We are here to serve the public, not to make a profit."

NEWTON OUT OF OFFICE YEAR AFTER ROOSEVELT'S PROMISE

President Gave Hoover's Secretary Job at Request of Predecessor But It Didn't Last Long.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—At his inaugural President Roosevelt made a promise to Herbert Hoover that Walter H. Newton, Hoover secretary, would be given a job in the new administration. Roosevelt's promise was a courtesy of a new President to his predecessor.

Keeping that promise to Herbert Hoover aroused opposition among Democrats and independents, but Roosevelt named Newton to a one-year term on the Home Loan Bank Board. It expired tonight, and the obligation fulfilled, reappointment was not forthcoming.

Newton had fought through the disastrous campaign of 1932 with Hoover, who had been especially anxious to reward Newton and had appointed him to a Circuit Court of Appeals seat. But with the Democrats in command of the Senate his nomination was not confirmed.

CRAWFORD AND M'GRATH WIN FROM U. S. STARS IN DAVIS CUP SINGLES

SHIELDS FAILS TO GAIN SET, WHILE WOOD TAKES ONLY ONE IN MATCH WITH YOUNGSTER

By John R. Tunis

WIMBLEDON, England, July 21.—With two stunning blows that left the American argosy dazed and wondering—even as a year ago almost to the day at Auteuil—Australia practically clinched a place in the Davis Cup challenge round by going out to a lead of 2 to 0 over the United States in the inter-zone finals this afternoon.

The first blow, delivered by Jack Crawford, Anzac ace, against Frank Shields, American, by scores of 6—1, 6—2, 12—10, was more or less anticipated. The second landed with stunning force right between the eyes. It was the defeat of Sidney B. Wood, potentially our greatest player, by the hitherto uncertain and none too deft Vivian McGrath, Australia. The young Aussie turned back Wood by 7—$, 6—4, 1—6, 9—7.

McGrath Commands Play.

McGrath, unimpressive at Wimbledon and beaten by Roddy Menzel, the Czech, only a week ago, was supposed to be the "soft touch" through which both American singles players were to advance at will. Instead, this 19-year-old boy turned on Wood with a vicious forcing attack and delighted the gallery by outplaying the American almost from the first. McGrath, in all justice, was truly magnificent with his forcing strokes.

However, that was what we had to say about Perry and Austin in the inter-zone finals a year ago. And where it was Vines and Allison who failed them, the repetition today was merely enacted under the names of Shields and Wood.

McGrath was Wood's superior on every part of the court. He was so much the better that it might be difficult to say just when the match was won and lost but, at a guess, I would say that this happened in the first set. Here, the American was twice at set-point in the ninth game, but McGrath followed two short balls to the net to volley into the open court and take the game. Then, seeing his chance, McGrath hit out with everything he had and, from that point onward, was in command.

Wood Wins Third Set.

Whipping Wood's second service to the corners, he advanced to the net continually and readily took the second set with sharp volley aces and smashes to the base-line that forced the American into errors.

Wood tightened his game to take the third set easily. Using an effective service, the American was always on top of his shots and, seeing how the run on the game was going, McGrath wisely decided to conserve himself for a big effort in the fourth set.

Oddly, this effort seemed destined to be indefinitely postponed as Wood, still playing at his best, ran the score out to 5—2 in the seventh game. Then, with the world in front of him, the American suddenly went hay-wire. His

Wanted — A Miracle.

PROVIDED a real miracle happens in the next three days, the United States team may survive the inter-zone Davis Cup final with the Australian squad. Without the miracle it appears that our boys will surely be defeated and have to come home without even seeing the challenge round.

McGRATH.

The miracle will have to be a victory for both of our already beaten singles players, Sidney Wood and Frank Shieds, in matches with the players who defeated them. And what a miracle that would be!

Wood and Shields were able to win only one set from the Australians, Jack Crawford and Vivian McGrath, yesterday, and reversing partners is hardly likely to cause both Britons to succumb. But unless they both are beaten the Americans' cause is lost, even should the U. S. doubles pair win tomorrow's match.

Vivian McGrath, the boy who violates the orthodox, is responsible for the whole mess. We had rather expected that Jack Crawford would win both singles. But what had not been contemplated was the defeat of Sidney Wood by McGrath.

Wood is a finished player. McGrath is a young hustler who causes the old line tennis players great professional anguish whenever he executes a backhand. This he does by gripping the racquet with both hands and taking a baseball swing at the ball. And he gets away with it, too.

Not Much in 1933.

McGRATH was outranked by both Shields and Wood, last year. When the Australian played in the American Championship last fall he was put out in the

Oxford-Cambridge Track Team Defeats Americans; Bonthron Loses in Mile and 880 Races

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, July 21.—Gaining seven first places to five for Cornell and Princeton, the combined track team of Oxford and Cambridge this afternoon defeated its American rivals for the first time since 1926.

The meet was marked by surprises, the greatest of which was Bill Bonthron's loss to the New Zealander, Jack Lovelock, who outlistanced the Princeton ace and reaker of world records, in the latively slow time of 4:15 4-10 for mile run. Bonthron was locked 2-10th of a second slower, ss than a yard behind.

Lovelock, conceded only an outde chance due to a knee operaon earlier in the year, went on to in over the Princeton powerouse, whom he efeated at Princeton last ear when he oke the existing orld record for he mile in 4:07.6.

LOVELOCK.

But the surises did not op with the mile ace. Bonthron, ounted on to eep the mile nd the half-mile, id neither. In he half-mile he oke at the crack of the gun and set the pace for the first quarter in the slow time of 60 flat.

Stothard Outruns Bonthron.

Stothard of Cambridge then swept to the fore with Bonthron hanging on, but 200 yards from the tape Stothard opened up and hit the tape in 1:58.6. F. H. Smapson, Cornell, finished third.

Bob Kane of Cornell garnered the quarter mile run in 48.8, winning from D. L. Rathbone of Cambridge, J. C. Horsfall followed close behind.

Another American first place was taken when R. F. Hardy of Cornell took the century in 10 seconds flat from E. I. Davis of Cambridge, who nosed out R. E. Linders of Cornell.

F. E. Burnham, Princeton weight thrower, won the shot put with a toss of 44 feet 9 inches to score over his teammate, Walter Wood, of Cornell, at 43 feet 10 inches, and Carver of Cambridge, who was able to toss the iron pellet but 41 feet 6 inches.

Davis of Cambridge chalked up another victory for the British, nosing out Kane of Cornell in the 220-yard dash in 22.7 seconds, b Brookmeade Stable entry.

Riskulus sprinted to the front after the start, continued in the lead under mild reserve, repulsed various charges, then stood the drive gamely to outfinish Watch Him. Latter reserved for the early racing, gained steadily when urged, then closed strongest of all. Hadagal, prominent from the start, and reserved while racing well up, responded gamely to urging, but was not good enough. New Deal weakened after forcing the early pace. Good Goods gave a good performance under strong riding. Indian Runner, in close quarters going to the first turn, failed to make any significant gain when clear. The others were never dangerous.

$2 mutuels paid—Riskulus, win, $18.46; place, $7.20; show, $4.48. Watch Him, place, $10.44; show, $6.16. Hadagal, show, $3.92.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Riskulus, a tempermental colt which turned out to be nothing but a losing risk since he left his happy hunting grounds at Agua Caliente, ran the race of his life today to beat out Mrs. John D. Hertz' Watch Him in the $10,000 Arlington Handicap.

The duel over a mile and a quarter was the most exciting stake battle of the season at Arlington, resulting in a blanket finish with the Norman Church Handicap star a head in front of Watch Him, the Calumet farm's Hadagal third in the even money favorite. Indian Runner, a badly beaten sixth. Riskulus' time was 2:02 2-5, only 3-5 of a second off Sun Beau's track record.

Fifteen thousand spectators, sweltering under 90 degree heat, watched Hadagal charge into the lead at the rise of the barrier, hold it for a quarter and almost for a half. It was then that Jockey Don Meade, a heat victim yesterday, sent Riskulus to the front. With the slightest urge Riskulus responded and flashed in front by a length. He extended it to almost two lengths at the three quarters and then the real battle began.

Watch Him, Hadagal and Indian Runner challenged. Down the stretch they flew with Riskulus still a length in the van and as they crossed the wire Watch Him came fastest of all and missed victory by a bare step with Hadagal tiring slightly under the hot pace. It wasn't until the winning numbers were posted that the crowd was sure of the winner.

Because of his frequent disappointments, Riskulus was 8 to 1 in the field of 11 starters. His victory was sweet to those who have been backing him solidly since he almost defeated Gallant Sir in the Agua Caliente Handicap last March. He paid $18.46 to win while Watch Him, off at 11 to 1, paid $10.44 to place.

The net value of the victory to Church was $9580 with $2000 going to Mrs. Hertz and $1000 to Warren Wright, owner of Hadagal.

New Deal, owned by J. W. Parrish of Lexington, Ky., finished fourth, with Good Goods, the third member of the Brookmeade Stable, fifth.

Albuquerque, a chestnut gelding owned by the Rockwood Farm, flashed to victory handily in the Oakton Purse, a tuneup for the $60,000 Arlington Futurity, defeating the Brookmeade Stable's fine two-year-old, Special Agent, by a length and a half.

Jackie Fields Is Suspended For Two Months As Referee

LOS ANGELES, July 21.

DR. HARRY MARTIN, chairman of the State Athletic Commission, today suspended Jackie Fields, former welterweight champion, for two months, because of his draw decision given at Hollywood last night in the fight between Bob Olin, New York, and Abie Feldman, Brooklyn light heavyweight. Fields has been acting as referee at several fights here.

The crowd and most of the ringside critics agreed that Feldman had won by a wide margin over Olin, who is scheduled to meet Maxie Rosenbloom for the world's light heavyweight title in New York in the near future.

RUMSON, N. J., July 21.—Staving off a second half rush, Burnt Mills defeated Army 5 to 4 this afternoon on the field at the Rumson Country Club to win the National Junior Polo championship.

Burnt Mills headed for this upset triumph by running up a 3-to-1 lead in the first half.

ANDERSONS WIN DISTRICT LEGION TITLE, DEFEATING U. CITY ,11 TO 4

The Richard Anderson American Legion Post's baseball team won the district championship with an 11-4 victory over the county champions, University City Legion Post 134. It was the tenth triumph without defeat for the Andersons, eight coming in league play and two in the settling of the district crown.

The winners have now qualified for the state tournament which will probably be held in Kansas City next month. The Andersons appear to be one of the strongest teams ever to represnt St. Louis in the Legion games. It would not be surprising if the Andersons won the state title, as they have a couple of good pitchers, a steady infield, and a heavy-hitting outfield.

Dalton Gets Credit.

Jim Dalton received credit for the victory over the countians, but the one responsible for the Anderson's triumph was relief pitcher McCarron, who allowed the county nine only two hits and no runs in the last four innings.

The Andersons started off with a three-run splurge in the first inning, aided by a walk, a hit batsman, a passed ball, and two singles. The University City nine tied the count by scoring one run in the first and two in the second.

Both teams again scored in the fifth, and with the count tied, the Anderson manager, John Scully, realized that the heat was too much for any one pitcher to hurl a full game and still get the best results. So he replaced Dalton with McCarron.

Doug. Pollock, pitcher of the University City nine, went the route, and whereas he allowed but six hits and four runs in the first five innings, he was belted for seven hits and seven runs in the next three.

Loose fielding by the University City team resulted in many of the extra-base blows and runs scored by the city champions. They were not recorded as errors, as the fielders did not even try to stop the balls, letting them go to the outfield.

Jack Gold, center fielder, and Bob Richards, left fielder, hit homers, both hits going "down the hill" in right center after poor judging by the fielders. They were long wallops, though, and would have been homers anyway in a park with a fence.

By James M. Gould.

Raymond Pepper's long double to center in the ninth inning, scoring Sam West, who had singled, gave the Browns their third straight victory over the Washington Senators yesterday afternoon, 6 to 5, and extended their winning streak to seven games.

It was the second time in two days that a timely double by Pepper has enabled Manager Hornsby's club to run over the fading 1933 American League champions.

Buck Newsom went the full distance for the Brownies and the loquacious right-hander was invincible after the fourth, an infield safety by Russell in the ninth being the only hit off the eccentric hurler.

Browns Get "Breaks."

The Browns got the "breaks"—plenty of them. Two of them, in the eighth, enabled Hornsby's club to tie the score. In that inning Myer muffed a throw to second which should have started a double play, and Strange's hopper to Travis, which should have resulted in the third out, took a queer hop, went for a single and let Campbell score the tying run.

Another "break" for the Browns came in the Washington ninth. With Russell and Schulte on base, and nobody down, Newsom picked Russell off second to kill a rally.

Burke, the slender southpaw, started for Washington but was relieved by Russell in the eighth. Russell, it was, who was charged with the defeat.

Campbell and Strange, with three hits apiece, were "high and hot" for the Browns while Schulte, with three singles, led the Senators.

Pepper's winning double incidentally, was the Browns' only extra-base hit of the game.

Senators Score Pair in First.

Wishing to be consistent, the Browns permitted two Washington runs in the first, and they were all earned, for they resulted from singles by Schulte, Harris, Travis and Kress. In the second, Hornsby's men rather overdid the generosity "thing" when they presented the Senators with two more — a bad throw to first by Clift, letting two runners in.

Newsom decided to do something for his side in the second, so he singled to score Hemsley from third. Then in third the Browns hopped on Burke for three runs to temporarily tie the score. West opened with a hit, but was forced by Burns, still in his terrible slump. But Campbell, Pepper and Melillo all singled in succession and Hemsley's fly was long enough to admit Campbell with a third run.

The tie was broken in the fourth when Catcher Phillips slapped a Newsom fast ball into the left-field seats. With one out, Schulte and Gill hit safely, but a double-play got Newsom out of further trouble.

In the Browns' fourth and sixth, the first man up hit safely but failed to get around when the following members of the cast were unable to get the ball past the infield.

Again in the seventh, the first Brownie—Strange, this time—got on and again it was the same old story. Newsom sacrificed successfully but, after Clift walked, West fouled to Travis and Burns forced Clift.

In the eighth, with one down, Campbell singled for his third hit and Burke was derricked, Russell relieving. What should have been a double play, was a "break" for the Browns when Myer missed a throw at second and nobody was retired. Hemsley grounded out to Myer but Strange got a single on a freakishly hopping ball to Travis and Campbell scored the tying run.

The Senators got their first two men on in the ninth but Newsom picked the head-man off second and then got the next two batters. West singled with one down in the Browns' half and, after Burns flied out, came Pepper's double for the victory.

Browns Can Equal Longest Winning Streak Since 1931

If the Browns defeat the Senators this afternoon, Hornsby's men will equal their record of eight straight made late in June in 1931. Having won seven in a row constitutes the Browns' longest winning streak since that time.

Back in 1931 the Browns were at home and won the second game of a doubleheader from Philadelphia on June 23. Then followed three more decisions from the Athletics and four from Boston, before the Browns were stopped by Boston, 4 to 2.

Similarly, the Browns have started their latest streak by winning the second game of a doubleheader. Boston was the victim last Sunday and then came a clean sweep of three games with the Athletics and yesterday's victory was the third in a row over the Senators, making seven in all.

Brownie Notes

EITHER Irving Hadley or Jack Knott will pitch the final with the Senators today. Manager Cronin was undecided between Earl Whitehill and Ed. Linke, the young right hander recalled from Chattanooga.

For the third straight day, the Senators presented a different lineup with Kress playing his third position in as many days. In the opener, he was at first; Friday, he played left field and, yesterday, he replaced Manager Cronin at short.

When Schulte singled to open the game, it was the third time the first Senator had reached first in the series. And when he scored, he was the third successive Washington lead-off man to do so.

Newsom pitched what might be called a "sandwich" first inning. The first man singled, the next two struck out and the next three singled.

Yesterday's attendance was about 3300.

Hemsley had five of the first six putouts for the Browns—three strikeout and two foul flies.

There ought to be a law against plays such as Clift [illegible]

BOSTON, July 21.—Jim Mooney, the smiling schoolmaster from the hill country of Tennessee, went to the hill for the Cardinals this afternoon when a line drive off Barber Bill Urbanski's bat knocked Bill Hallahan's left index finger out of joint, and pitched the Redbirds to their fourth straight victory, a 5-to-3 decision over the Braves of Bill McKechnie. It was Mooney's first triumph since May 10, and Manager Frankie Frisch hopes that the courageous exhibition will bolster the slender southpaw's confidence in himself.

Mooney was in trouble many times, even after a single by Virgil Davis with the bases filled in the seventh inning gave him a two-run lead. But while Dazzy Vance and later Dizzy Dean were warming up intermittently throughout the contest, Manager Frisch kept Mooney on the hill, even in the face of great danger and the southpaw finally found himself, checked a seventh inning rally and breezed through the eighth and ninth.

Davis Makes Three Hits.

While the victory was credited to Mooney and Virgil Davis had the honor of hitting three singles, scoring two runs and driving in two, the Cardinal catcher will tell you that the magic of Dazzy Vance, the big medicine man from Homosassa, Florida, brought triumph to the standard of the Redbirds.

Davis is superstitious and for several days, each time he has gone to bat, Vance has said a Seminole Indian prayer over the Davis war club. Yesterday Vance was in the bull pen and Davis went hitless. Today Vance said the hocus-pocus Tamiami prayer and Davis singled in the second and again in the fourth. About that time Dazzy was sent to the bull-pen and when Davis went to bat in the fifth, with runners on first and third, his bat, without benefit of Seminole medicine was impotent and he grounded weakly to the first baseman.

And so when Davis saw that he was likely to bat in the seventh, with the score tied, he pleaded with Pat Crawford and Pat, much against his better judgment, agreed to carry the Davis war club out to the bull-pen, for the Vance Seminole medicine. Vance willingly quit the business of warming up for a minute, stroked the bat affectionately and muttered the words of the Seminole chiefs.

Crawford, feeling very foolish, carried the bat back to the dugout and the happy Davis strode to the plate with the bases filled and whacked a single through the box, so fast that big Ed Brandt scarcely saw it and Urbanski and McManus had no chance to stop it. Two runs crossed the plate on the base hit of the Seminole medicine and that, if you ask Davis, is the story of the victory.

Hallahan Starts Well.

Hallahan, who started for the Redbirds, was going along like the Hallahan of old until Urbanski's line drive injured his pitching hand. Whitehead fumbled Urbanski's grounder to start the game, but Bill retired the next three batters, three in a row in the second and two in the third. Then Urbanski hit a burning liner through the box. Bill ducked his head, but made the mistake of not getting his bare hand out of the way and the drive dislocated a finger.

Cardinals rushed out to give first aid and Bill McKechnie pulled the finger back into place, but after a few practice pitches it was evident that Hallahan would not be able to continue with any confidence and so Mooney went to the hill. Moore greeted Jim with a single, Berger walked, filling the bases and Lee singled to center, scoring Urbanski and Moore to put the Braves one ahead, the Cardinals having scored a run in the second on Davis' first single, a pass, Durocher's fly to Worthington and Hallahan's liner to Lee.

Mooney Drives in Run.

In the fourth the Cardinals went ahead. Davis singled with one out and Fullis walked. Durocher flied out, but Mooney singled to right, scoring Davis and Whitehead singled to center, scoring Fullis.

Then Urbanski, Berger, Lee and Whitney singled in the fifth to produce a run, which tied the score.

Two were out when the Cardinals started their winning rally in the seventh, Rothrock lining a single to left. Medwick singled to center and Collins drew a pass, filling the bases. Then Davis swung his bat, endowed with the Vance Seminole magic and the game was won.

As the Giants lost to the Reds, their first place lead over the conquering Cardinals was reduced to four and a half games. The Cubs, however, by winning twice, added half a game to their margin over the Redbirds.

WES FERRELL DEFEATS CLEVELAND, 7-6, HIS 8TH VICTORY OF YEAR

CLEVELAND, July 21. — Wesley Ferrell, Red Sox hurler, gave his former teammates, the Cleveland Indians, 13 hits today, but stayed the full route as Boston won, 7 to 6. It was Ferrell's eighth victory of the season.

Leading 6 to 3 at the end of seven innings, the Tribe was the victim of a four-run Boston rally in the eighth at the expense of Willis Hudlin, who was charged with the defeat.

Boston collected 11 hits off four Cleveland pitchers, including a home run by Roy Johnson in the second inning.

RED BIRD NOTES

BOSTON, July 21.

WITH Paul Dean still limping because of a sprained ankle, and Jess Haines nursing a stiff neck, Manager Frisch was uncertain today about his pitching plans for tomorrow's doubleheader. Bill Walker probably will start one of the games, though Frank wanted to save him for the opener at New York Monday. There also is a chance that Dizzy Dean will go to the hill.

Fred Frankhouse, with a record of 14 won and 5 lost, will be the Boston pitcher in the first game with Bobby Brown likely to work in the second.

A small Saturday crowd of 2500 attended the third game of the series.

Whitehead opened the game by hitting Brandt's first pitch for a single to left. Brandt's next offering was a ball but the next was a strike and Martin singled to center, sending Whitehead to third and taking second on Berger's throw for the Gazelle. Rothrock struck out, Medwick was passed intentionally, filling the bases and Collins hit into a double play.

Allyn Stout Wins From Giants, 3-2; His First Full Game

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—Allyn Stout, who hadn't pitched a complete game in 20 previous appearances, got the better of the mighty Carl Hubbell today to give the cellar-dwelling Reds a 3 to 2 victory over the Giants.

Stout pitched a brilliant game, giving the world champions only six hits, walking only two and fanning five. He topped off this performance by driving in the decisive run himself in the second inning.

The Reds, beating the league leaders for the fourth time in 13 meetings this season, hit Hubbell hard. They collected nine hits and failed to connect in only two innings.

Errors by both teams, however, were the principal sources of runs. Every Giant infielder except Manager Bill Terry made one costly misplay, while Slade's error started the Giant scoring in the sixth.

A single by Tony Piet opened the game, and when Slade hit to Hubbell, Travis Jackson dropped the throw to second and both runners were safe. Mark Koenig followed with a single, and the Reds had their first run.

In the second, Adam Comorosky singled and advanced when Johnny Vergez made a high throw to firts on Bob O'Farrell's grounder. Wes Schulmerich walked and Stout came through with a single which drove in the second Cincinnati run and led indirectly to the winning tally. Schulmerich over ran second and was eventually put out, but meantime Manager O'Farrell broke for home and scored When Hughey Critz made a bad throw to the plate for an error.

The Giants knicked Stout for a pair of hits in the first, then couldn't get another until after Slade bobbled Joe Moore's grounder in the sixth. Critz and Terry followed with singles for the first New York run and Critz got around for the second as Mel Ott hit into a double play and Frank O'Doul smacked the third single of the inning.

Illinois Cricket Players Defeat St. Louis Team in First Game of Series

By Damon Kerby

St. Louis' All-Star cricket team will endeavor to defeat the Illinois Cricket Association's club of Chicago today at Forest Park and thereby even the two-day series, after having lost yesterday's opening match under a broiling, sizzling sun, 120 runs with a loss of 10 wickets to 122 runs and the loss of nine wickets.

If you were from England or any of the British possessions and visited the cricket grounds yesterday—a parched acreage just south of the pavilion near Jefferson Memorial—the general scene and the game needed no explanations, but if you were watching your first cricket match, you needed plenty, even as the native Britisher needs explanations of the why and wherefores of baseball. And if you asked the questions and stayed and followed the match, you got a thrill as you saw St. Louis come within two runs of tying the visitors.

The field, approximately 120 by 180 yards, was bounded by lime and small red flags. Two wickets, two of them, were in the center of the field, 22 yards apart—five and a half feet farther apart than a pitching rubber and the plate in baseball.

A "Homer" Counts Six Runs.

Chicago went to bat first. They were to try to score as many runs as possible before losing 10 wickets.

Runs might be scored in bunches—six if the batter knocks the ball on a fly over the playing boundary, four if he bats a "grounder" over the boundary, as many as he can make on an ordinary "grounder" within the playing field (usually one), and all he can make if the bowler throws a "wide ball" and it gets past the wicket keeper.

On the defensive side, there are many ways the batter can be put out and cost his side a wicket. He can go out by flying to a fielder, by allowing the ball from the bowler (or pitcher) to hit the wicket, or by being thrown out on attempting to run to the opposite wicket after hitting the ball (he does not have to run unless he wants to). And there are still other ways.

With Chicago batting, St. Louis players scattered over the playing field, in front, at the side and behind the batter.

One Batter Scores 30 Runs.

The first St. Louis bowler made a short run and got rid of the ball with the orthodox overhand, stiff-armed cricket delivery. Denholm, first up for Chicago, proved a good batter. He scored 30 runs before a fly ball off his bat settled and stuck in the hands of Broughton of St. Louis.

It looked like a walkaway for Chicago at this early stage, but the next two Chicago batters went out without scoring a run and the outlook was brighter. The next man, Williams, looked good in scoring 27. He's a big fellow, with his collar turned up like old Sam Crawford. You inquire and learn that he got his first cricket match play experience at Cambridge, Eng.

The 122 runs scored by Chicago loomed large when St. Louis went to bat, but Ebsworth, first up, proceeded to score 42 runs before losing his wicket. Other St. Louisans had good turns and with the loss of only seven wickets St. Louis had scored 114 runs. That meant only eight runs were necessary to tie the visitors in the remaining three wickets, a seemingly easy task.

But the tail-end of the St. Louis batting order was up. They tried hard, but the Chicago bowlers bore down and the home boys were able to score only six runs for the remaining wickets.

Stronger St. Louis Lineup.

George Hepburn starred as a bowler for St. Louis. He bowled out six opposing batters, an unusual record, they say.

St. Louis will strengthen its lineup for today's match. Today's team will be composed of William Flower, captain; Horace Reese, Fred E. Younge, Dr. W. H. A. Barrett, George Hepburn, Ernest Ebsworth, John Lamsdale, Alex Guthrie, Clifford Cummins, Frank Niehaus and Chauncy Gegg. Chicago will use its team of yesterday.

No. 26 for Gehrig In Gomez's 15th Victory of Year

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Extra base hitting behind the six-hit flinging of Lefty Vernon Gomez gave the Yankees an easy 6 to 2 victory over the White Sox today and kept them two games behind the league leading Detroit club.

Gomez chalked up his fifteenth victory of the season. Lou Gehrig swatted his twenty-sixth homer of the year, a line drive into the right field stands, for the second Yankee run after he and Bill Dickey had connected for doubles in the first. Dickey followed Lou's blow with his eleventh circuit drive.

CHAGNON OF PIRATES FORCES IN RUN AND GIVES DODGERS GAME

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLYN, July 21. — The Dodgers made it two straight over the Pittsburgh Pirates today, winning 8 to 7 on a two-run ninth inning rally that resulted from the wildness of Red Lucas and Leon Chagnon.

One run behind going into the ninth, the Dodgers tied it up when Lucas passed Sam Leslie and Tony Cuccinello and Johnny Frederick singled. Chagnon, fifth Pirate flinger, then came in and walked Al Lopez and Owen Carroll to force home the winning tally.

Manager Casey Stengel and Hack Wilson of the Dodgers were banished from the field for arguing with umpire Ernie Quigley.

DETROIT, July 21. — Detroit's pennant-seeking Tigers executed a triple play today in defeating Philadelphia, 4 to 1, by coupling extra base hits with Athletic errors and bases on balls.

Greenberg got two doubles, a single and a triple, and figured in the triple play in the fourth inning. He caught Berry's drive, doubled Warstler at first and threw to Rogell to nail McNair at second.

CHICAGO CUBS WIN TWO FROM PHILLIES, SWEEP 3-GAME SERIES

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, July 21.—The Phillies dropped into seventh place by losing a double-header to Chicago today, the first 2 to 1 and the second 14 to 6.

"Big Jim" Weaver kept his mound standing unmarred by hurling his seventh victory for the Cubs in the first game. Doubles by Babe Herman and Kiki Cuyler with two out in the ninth produced the winning run.

The Bruins gathered 19 hits from three Phil hurlers to win the nightcap. Phil Collins was knocked from the box in the third by a five-run rally. In the fourth, Grabowski was nicked for six more runs and the victory.

Hal Lee was replaced in the sixth inning by Bud Tinning, with the Cubs ahead, 14 to 1.

JANE SHARP CAPTURES ESSEX SINGLES TITLE

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 21.—Jane Sharp of Los Angeles, unseeded, today over-powered the hard-driving Mrs. Marjorie Morrill Painter of Dedham 6—4, 6—3, to gain the singles victory in the tenth annual Essex County Club tennis tournament.

Miss Sharp, after a brief rest, teamed with Norma Taubele of New York, the Auburn-haired national indoor champion, and they overwhelmed Helen Fulton, Chicago, and Catherine Wolfe, Elkhart, Ind., 6—1, 6—0 in the doubles final.

Don Kellett, Penns' nine-letter man, has signed with the Boston Red Sox for a trial at short. He ought to know the game from A to Z and might make the grade if he minds his P's and Q's.

Carl Hubbell's marvelous pitching in the all-star game would indicate that the old screw ball is as inscrutable as ever.

No doubt Paul Dean would gladly trade his sprained ankle for one of Frankie Frisch's charley horse

The good pitchers don't seem to be having much trouble with the new so-called "rabbit" ball. It doesn't go any farther than the old ball when the batter misses it.

See by the papers where the Pirates have had seven managers since the start of the century. But the century is still young.

It looks like an English year for England. An Englishman won the tennis and golf championships of England. Now if she should lift the America's Cup it would have all the earmarks of a perfect year.

Primo Carnero has had more managers than any living boxer. But they can't seem to manage so that he gets a cut of the dough.

Primo's earnings are split so many ways that the line of managers looks like a run on the bank after every fight.

Burke generally is most effective against West and Campbell but they hit solid singles off him in the scoring third.

Pepper made two fine plays in the fourth. His catch of Burke's low line drive was a gem and later in the inning, he caught Myer's fly and doubled a runner at the plate on an amazingly accurate throw.

QUINCY CLUB WINS CENTRAL STATES JUNIOR ROWING TITLE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

QUINCY, Ill., July 21.—The South Side Boat Club of Quincy ran away with the Junior day honors in the 1934 regatta of the Central States Amateur Rowing Association here this afternoon. By placing first in the Junior singles, won by Russell Mutz, taking second to the Western of St. Louis in the Junior Four, placing first and second in the Junior doubles and taking first in the Junior Eight, the Quincy Club collected a total of 76 points to win the Junior day point trophy.

The Western Club of St. Louis took second place with 48 points, with Central of St. Louis collecting half a dozen points and the St. Louis Rowing Club getting three and Lincoln Park of Chicago two.

A total of 28 crews were entered in the six events rowed with the singles, fours, doubles and eights counting toward the point trophy.

Quincy Crews Won in 1933.

In the Central States meet in Chicago last year Quincy won both the Junior and Senior point trophies and the local oarsmen are out this year to repeat their achievement of 1933 and carried through Saturday to achieve half the 1934 goal.

The officials for the meet were: R. M. Reuscher, of the Central of St. Louis, umpire; A. J. Lymentsull, of the South Side, Quincy, starter; Elmer Mutz, of the South Side, Quincy, ensigns, and Lou Wisman, of the North End of St. Louis, clerk of the course. The judges were: J. L. Hase, Quincy; Oliver Katz, St. Louis; Bob Ladi, St. Louis, and Charles Miner, Lincoln Park.

The Western of St. Louis won the barge event, opening race Saturday over a three-quarter mile course in 6:05.4-5 with the South Side of Quincy second 6:11 4-5, the Central of St. Louis third and the St. Louis Rowing Club fourth.

Western Four Wins.

The Junior Four, first of the events counting for the point trophy, was won by Western's No. 1 crew in 7:02 and 3-5 with the South Side second in 7:22 and 4-5 and the No. 2 Western crew third.

The singles race for coxswains, cut to two entries was won by John Milgrem Jr., of the South Side of Quincy, who beat John Adlesberger of the St. Louis club across the finish line by a length in 5:46. Russ Mutz of Quincy Rowing Club of the South Side Boat Club on the Junior singles event in 8:27 with Telthorst of the Western, St. Louis second in 8:39 and 4-5.

Quincy gained a firmer hold on the point trophy when it won both first and second in the Junior doubles event with the St. Louis Rowing Club taking third place. The winning time was 7:31 and 1-5.

The final event of the opening day of the regatta, the Junior Eight, decided the Junior point winner. The South Side crew crossed the finish line in 6:02 and 1-5 with the Western of St. Louis second and the Central of St. Louis third.

The singles for coxswains was reduced to two entries when the Western and Central of St. Louis and Lincoln Park of Chicago withdrew, leaving the St. Louis Rowing Club, represented by John Attelsberger, and the South Side of Quincy, represented by John Milgrim Jr., as the only contestants in the race, which did not count for the punt trophy. Attelsberger won the race by three lengths and was timed in 5:46 over a half mile course.

In the junior singles, counting for the point trophy, there were five entries. Russell Mutz of the South Side Boat Club of Quincy won the event by three lengths for Quincy's first victory of the afternoon. Telthorst of Western finished second and swamped after the finish. Third place went to Schaffenberger of Lincoln Park. The winning time was 8:27.

COGGESHALL IS SEMIFINAL VICTOR OVER WEINSTOCK

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., July 21.—Harris Coggeshall, Des Moines, will be playing for his fourth Iowa tennis championship when he meets Bill Kiley, Kansas City, in the final round, tomorrow.

Coggeshall defeated Bob Weinstock, St. Louis, 6—3, 6—1, 6—3, today in the semifinals, while Kiley turned back Bob Beckerman, Des Moines, 7—5, 6—2. Beckerman gave the third set to Kiley when he saw Kiley's forehand take the first two. He defaulted so that he could play a doubles match with Frank Brody later in the day. His action proved to be wise as he and Brody, Des Moines doubles champions, by a straight-set match went into the finals against Bob Demaree, Tulsa, Okla., and Kiley.

MANGIN WILL MEET BELL IN FINAL OF EASTERN TOURNEY

HUNTINGTON, N. Y., July 21.—In a gruelling four-set match Gregory Mangin defeated Martin Buxby, University of Texas star, today to gain the final round of the Crescent-Hamilton Club's annual invitation tennis tournament. The score was 6—1, 1—6, 7—5, 6—3.

Buxby, after upsetting Gil Hall yesterday, found Mangin far too steady, and succumbed after holding Mangin virtually even in the first three sets.

Berkeley Bell qualified to meet Mangin in the final tomorrow when he whipped Wilmer Hines, of Columbia, S. C., conqueror of Frankie Parker in the other semi-final round match. The score was 8—6, 4—6, 6—4, 6—1.

Bell and Mangin earned a berth in the final round of doubles by beating Fred Whitman of Boston and Ralph Minnich of Trenton, N. J., 5—7, 6—4, 6—4, 6—2. Tomorrow they will face Hines and Henry Prusoff of Seattle who disposed of the No. 2 seeded team, Eugene McCauliff of Yonkers, N. J., and J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., 3—6, 6—3, 3—6, 7—5, 9—7.

WEBSTER GROVES MAN WINS CLASS C HONORS IN SKEET TOURNAMENT

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, July 21.—G. E. Crosby, of Eldon, Mo., won the Class A championship in the Western Missouri Skeet Tournament here today, scoring consistently with four 24s for a total of 96 out of 100.

C. A. Michel, of St. Louis, who broke 50 targets straight, placed second.

Class B was won by H. K. Wallace, St. Joseph, with 90, and E. Hirrick, Springfield, was second with 89.

In Class C, G. K. Miltenberger, Webster Groves, broke 85 to win the cup, followed by F. Melton of Springfield, 83.

inevitable weaknes, the spoiling of the easy ones, suddenly crept into his play and McGrath instantly seized his chance.

Hitting beautiful drives down the lines on both sides of the court, he evened the score at 5-all and then won the crucial eighteenth game, where Wood was lamentably erratic off the ground.

12-Foot Faults Against Wood.

McGrath proved himself to be a cool customer. He consistently outsteadied Wood from the base line and volleyed better throughout, Wood invariably placing himself too far from the net to be really effective with this stroke.

However, on behalf of the American, I must say this: that the calling of the extraordinary total of 12 foot faults against him was hardly a factor that could be calculated to steady his morale.

As for Shields, he was completely at sea in the first two sets against Crawford and hardly made a contest of it. He got only three games and hardly deserved these. His service was faltering, his ground strokes frequently hit the bottom of the net, and they had no length.

Crawford Always in Command.

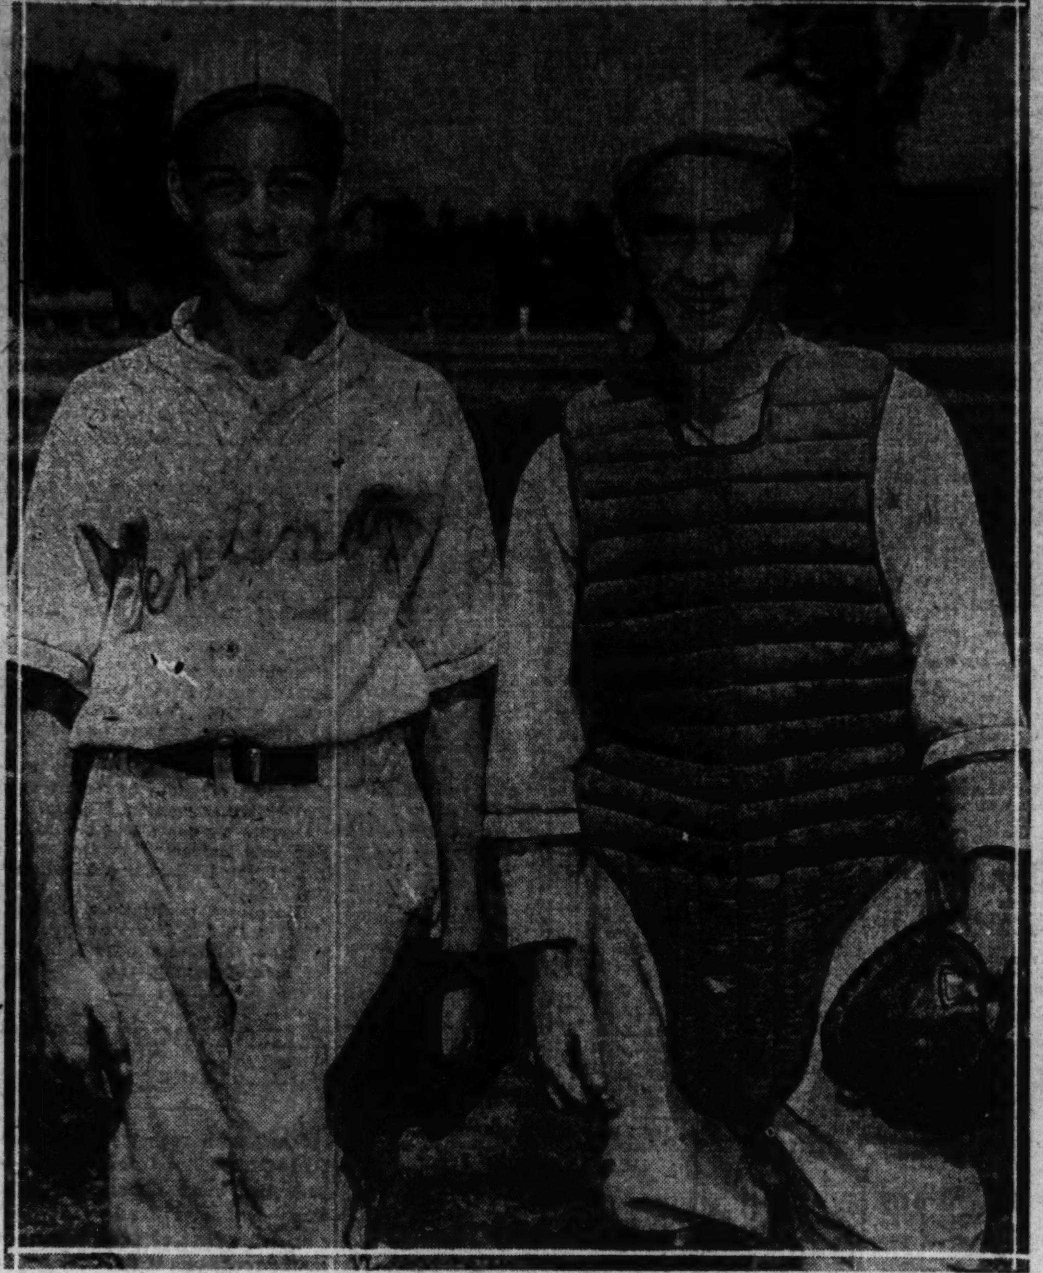
In the third set, Shields stroked more freely and forced some errors by Crawford but, in spite of the fact that the latter was obviously tiring, he was always in command.

Shields was not even a vague shadow of the player who got to the Wimbledon semifinals a fortnight ago, while Crawford once more proved himself to be a man who reaches his best only in a crisis.

The series might be ended next Monday when Australia sends Adrian Quist and Crawford on the courts to oppose the crack American combination of George M. Lott Jr. of Chicago and Lester Stoefen of California. However, an American victory seems likely, since the United States pair perhaps is one of the greatest in the world.

Two singles matches will be played next Tuesday, Wood matching strokes with Crawford and young McGrath facing Shields in the other. Should the Americans win the doubles, the winner of the series will not be determined until the singles matches have been played.

Winning Battery in Legion Game



Rick Tichacek, catcher, and Jim Dalton, pitcher, of the Andersons. Dalton retired after five innings and was replaced by McCarron, but Dalton received credit for the victory.

Cunningham and Metcalfe Win

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 21.—Heat and a slow track defeated Glen Cunningham and Ralph Metcalf today in their efforts to lower existing world's records at the Erie club games in Crystal Beach, Ont.

Racing against Frank Crowley of Manhattan and Joe McCluskey of Fordham, in an attempt to break the world mark of 3:02 2-5 for the three-quarters mile, Cunningham, holder of the mile record, was clocked in 3:08. A blazing sun sent the temperature to the 90 degree mark and the track was dusty and soft in spots as the trio faced the starting gun.

McCluskey jumped into the lead at the first turn but Cunningham caught him in the back stretch of the quarter mile track and was leading by a few yards as they completed the first lap. He increased his stride over the second and running with his peculiar piston-like jerk of the legs, made the rest of the race all his own, finishing 20 yards in front.

In the other special event Metcalf was timed in 10 3-5 seconds as he sought to lower the world mark of 10 3-10 seconds for 100 meters, which he holds jointly with Eddie Tolan and Percy Williams. He was opposed by Ed Siegel and Ben Johnson, both of New York, and was hardly extended as he finished a full yard and a half ahead of Siegel. He had another obstacle to overcome in the race as the nearly 10,000 spectators jammed both sides of the track and almost overran the finish line.

WRAY'S COLUMN

fourth round by Cliff Sutter, who was not good enough to make the U. S. squad.

Saturday McGrath defeated the best singles player we have—Sidney Wood. And he may beat Frank Shields in their remaining singles match. McGrath must have improved considerably and his freak, two-fisted backhand must be effective or they would batter it until McGrath weakened.

McGrath was the weak point in the Australian defense. Capt. R. Norris Williams expressed the belief that the Americans would win the zone final 3 to 2 through the double defeat of McGrath. That view was based on the fact that not only Sutter, but Frank Parker as well had taken the measure of McGrath in matches in this country.

That the United States still lacks genuinely top-notch representation in tennis is evident from the results of the first two singles matches against Australia.

And, furthermore, there appears at this time no man of the caliber of Tilden or even Vines, now coming up. With the exception of Parker and perhaps Stoefen, the others have all had ample time to develop whatever talent they possess.

There are no Perrys or Cochets or even Little Bill Johnstons on the horizon.

Mr. Comiskey Speaks Out.

"WHAT'S the matter with the White Sox?" a question that has concerned Chicago writers in recent articles, has resulted in many attempts to answer the question. So far as we know none of the answers has been supplied by the man most interested—J. Louis Comiskey, son of the "Old Roman," Charles Comiskey.

In a letter to the writer of this column, Comiskey volunteers, unsolicited, his views of the criticisms and of the reasons why the Sox have not been higher than fifth since the year 1920.

Interference by the "front office" with the ideas and plans of the managers has been charged, in the criticisms printed.

But all the trades made, with one exception, were made at the request of these very managers, Comiskey writes. His letter:

"My dear Friend: I read with interest your column in reference to the White Sox. I appreciate the fact of your complete understanding from a baseball owner's viewpoint what the exact situation is.

"We are no different than any other club in the major leagues. Our desire is to get into a pennant contending position, for being up there we could draw five times as much as we can draw by being in the second division.

"While it is true baseball is a sport, the financial and business angle plays a very important part, but irrespective of finances or purchase of players, you understand as I do that 75 per cent of the success of any ball club is due to the breaks, or we might call it luck.

Trades All Manager's Ideas.

OUR scouting system is no different than any other club's. We have purchased a great many players at enormous prices, some of whom made good and some have not. In the trades made by the White Sox, with the single exception of the purchase of the trio from the Athletics, every one was made at the suggestion of the manager in charge.

The policy of the White Sox is no different than when we were winning championships. All the bosh you read about regarding the front-office interference is something new, as far as I know. We have neither front office nor back office or any office, only one that has the interest of the club at heart and wanting them to win.

Every manager of the White Sox has had strict control and full charge of the club on the playing field and there is no change now, and every manager that has ever been with the White Sox Club can attest to that fact.

Five "Key Men" Out.

"THE series of articles, 'What Is Wrong With the White Sox?' at this time is inconceivable and unjust. It needs no answering, and we have been deluged with letters from fans upholding the club, particularly now, with the knowledge that five of its outstanding players have been out of service, practically from the start of the season.

"What organization could function with five key men incapacitated?

"We are not offering any alibi, but just stating facts, and I want you to know I appreciate the viewpoint you are taking, and you may rest assured we are not overlooking a single opportunity to build up the White Sox.

"We have paid as much for players as any club in baseball, and will continue that practice if the players of merit can be secured. Unfortunately, we have not been able to trade much in our own organization, and we have been greatly hampered in the purchase of minor league players, as several of these clubs are owned by major league clubs.

"We are working out a plan that will give us many minor league contacts which I am sure will work out with great benefit to the Sox, shortly."

Not Looking for Purchases.

THE letter, which especially mentions plans for building up the club's strength, seems to dismiss by implication the stories from Chicago that the club was on the market and would be sold for a reasonable sum if a purchaser could be found.

A sale is unlikely, both from the evident determination of Mr. Comiskey to operate his baseball property, as well as from the fact that nothing like the real value of the club could be obtained at this time.

As mentioned in a previous article, there is no chance to convict the White Sox owners of not spending money to build up their club. Comiskey's statement that the club has spent as much as any other team in either league to buy players is probably the literal truth.

Not "In the Red."

NUMEROUS stories from Chicago have estimated that the Comiskey club would rival the recent red ink years of the Browns, for financial losses. Comiskey, in his letter, does not touch on this subject. However, a Chicago interviewer quotes him as saying that if the attendance continues as it has been for the first half season, the club will need no sympathy, but will finish in the black. A loss of $100,000 had been predicted.

Attacks on Comiskey's office organization seem to have failed. Harry Grabiner, for many years secretary and active manager of the club's business, will be retained, this writer is informed, as will be Jimmy Dykes, the team's manager.

One of the troubles with the team, according to grape vine information, seems to concern the payroll which, according to present information and past history, is and has always been below average.

However, in these days, it's a wise baseball player who knows when to keep quiet about the pay check. In some quarters it is said that the worst is yet to come—and not with the White Sox alone.

OUR COUNT, SON OF REIGH COUNT, WINS DETROIT RACE AT 11 TO 1

DETROIT, July 21.—Our Count, a three-year-old son of the noted Reigh Count, carried the colors of H. C. Rumage to victory in the $2500 Ferndale Handicap, feature event of today's Michigan State Fair Grounds eight-race card. Almost neglected by the betters, Our Count was a long shot, paying $24 for a $2 ticket.

Royal Blunder was second, a half length behind the winner, with Sabula, Fred M. Alger's mare, finishing third, three-quarters of a length behind Royal Blunder.

Jockey Sidney Hebert gave Our Count a clever ride, saving him during the early stages, and finding a hole in the stretch to move into first place and hold it, although Royal Blunder hung on doggedly to the end.

Jockey Fernando Fernandez, the little Cuban sensation at the track, piloted three winners out of the first six races, finished second in one and had the mount on Sabula for third place in the Ferndale Handicap. His mount in the fifth, Miss Purray, paid off at $16.80 for a $2 ticket.

GEHRIG AND VOSMIK REMAIN TIED IN BIG SIX BATTING

Lou Gehrig and Joe Vosmik couldn't break their Big Six tie yesterday as each added one point to his average. Gehrig hit twice in four times up, swatting his twenty-sixth home run, while Vosmik hit two out of five. Paul Waner and Bill Terry also continued their close race with two-point gains, Waner hitting three out of six and Terry two out of four. Mel Ott slipped into last place by maintaining his .351 average wth one hit in three trials, while Ethan Allen slipped far back. The standing:

LEADING SOFTBALL CLUBS PLAY IN BENEFIT GAMES

Some of the city's outstanding softball teams will play in the "Boys' Club" benefit doubleheader next Thursday night at George Sisler's South Side softball park on Kingshighway and Chippewa. All proceeds, George Sisler announced, will be turned over to Father Maxwell.

In the girls' game, the South Kingshighway Business Men's Association squad and the St. John Nepomuk team, two of the pennant-contending teams in the girl's race, meet at 7:30. The Blue Ridge Nightingales and the Corkerys, two leaders in the men's play, meet in the other contest.

Regular admission prices will prevail.

Police Teams to Play.

The Traffic Division softball team of the Police Department, which is undefeated to date and better known as the Romping Rogans, will meet the Third District Police this morning at 10 o'clock at George Sisler's South Side Park on Kingshighway and Chippewa. The Traffic Squad in previous games nosed out the Motorcycle Division, 4-3, and last Sunday morning gained a 9-1 triumph over a team composed of firemen.

BRITISH EMPIRE'S VICTORIOUS SPORTS TIDE CONTINUES

By the Associated Press.

THE sports tide, which has been running strongly towards athletes of the British Empire the last few weeks, continued today when the United States Davis Cup team lost the first two matches of its interzone contest to Australia and the track and field stars of Oxford-Cambridge defeated those of Princeton-Cornell.

Jack Crawford defeated Frank Shields, 6-1, 6-2, 12-10 and Vivian McGrath won from Sidney B. Wood Jr., 7-5, 6-4, 1-6, 9-7 in the Davis Cup tests at Wimbledon, England.

Bill Bonthron, Princeton's great miler, was again defeated by Jack Lovelock, of Oxford, in the inter-varsities meet at White City, England, as the British athletes won seven first places to five for the Americans.

Among other outstanding victories for Empire athletes recently are Henry Cotton's victory in the British Open, the triumphs of Fred Perry and Dorothy Round in the All-England tennis championships at Wimbledon and the rout of American scullers and crews at Henley.

Centralia and Kirkwood Play Trolley Feature

Ervin Gansauer, who last week pitched a one-hit game, will be on the hill for Centralia this afternoon, when Kirkwood goes to the Illinois city for a Trolley League game. Three other league tilts will show the Vess club at Mount Vernon, Alton at Belleville, home of the St. Louis Dairies and the Collinsville Leece Red Birds at Edgemonth.

Gansauer hurled a remarkable game in setting down Mount Vernon last week, 3 to 0, not a runner reaching base until the seventh, when a hard smash caromed off Gansauer's glove deprived him of a probable no-hit game.

Edgemont, last year's champions and tied with Mount Vernon for the first half title, will meet an improved club in the Leeces. Johnny Harshany for Edgemont and Ollie Eckert, a pitcher having a minor league experience, for Collinsville, will be the opposing pitchers.

Mount Vernon, victor over Edgemont last week after 10 innings, 5 to 4, is expected to take the luckless Vess club into camp. The St. Louis entry has failed to win a game in the second half. Lee Rhodes probably will hurl again for Mount Vernon. He will draw Al Hagen as his opponent.

Alton's hopes having been revived with a victory over Kirkwood last Sunday, will send either Duberuic or Ray Fisher to the mound against the St. Louis Daries. Belleville's club probably will counter with Hal Langfelder.

The race so far shows Edgemont, Mount Vernon, Alton, Collinsville and Centralia tied for the lead, with two victories and one defeat each. The Dairies and Kirkwood each own 1-2 records, with Vess bringing up the rear, with three defeats.

ANDERSON NINE WINS LEGION CHAMPIONSHIP

500 spectators sat throuh the game.

Bob O'Brien, first baseman of the Andersons, turned in one of the finest fielding plays when he seemed to sense that Bill Chapman was going to bunt and came in fast to snare the pop-up near the plate.

Joe Schultz, third baseman of the Andersons, is the son of the former big leaguer of the same name. Joe Jr. turned in several nice stops, as well as getting two hits in four trips to the plate.

The Andersons fielded perfectly today, and made but one error in last Wednesday's game.

M'MILLIN WINS SECOND ROUND MATCH IN U. CITY TENNIS TOURNEY

By Davison Obear.

Charley McMillin, recent winner of the Clayton Tennis Tournament, and runner-up to Bob Weinstock in the County Championship, took a long stride toward another title when he defeated Ward Parker, 6—0, 6—1, in a second round match in the University City Open Tennis Tournament yesterday afternoon.

Despite the fact that Parker was playing in good form, keeping the ball in play with remarkable recoveries, he found himself greatly overmatched. McMillin's game was both forceful and varied.

Another second round match of interest was that in which Joyce Portnoy advanced over Ivan Light by scores of 6—0, 6—1. Hebert Weinstock kept them company when Oscar Reid defaulted.

All second round matches must be completed by tonight.

HONOLULU SCHOONER FINISHES FIRST IN TRANS-PACIFIC RACE

HONOLULU, July 21.—All Hawaii rejoiced today in the victory of H. Dillingham's Honolulu schooner Manuiwa in the 1934 trans-Pacific race.

The Manuiwa was declared winner when the last craft with a chance to capture first honors, the Naitamba, sailed by R. K. Smith of Los Angeles, failed to arrive by 7:47 p. m. yesterday when its handicap expired.

breaking the tape a hair's breadth ahead of Kane, winner of the 440-yard run. J. M. Curran of Princeton took third place.

In the three-mile run, P. D. Ward, the Cantab, came to the fore in 15:10 4-5 seconds, beating H. J. Hogan of Princeton, second, and C. D. Healey of Cambridge. Ward, not considered a threat, dominated the field and was never headed, winning by 80 yards. Kerr, American hope, was scratched.

The running broad jump went to K. S. Duncan of Oxford with a leap of 23 feet 7¾ inches. W. E. Fackert of Princeton, the favorite, was second with 22 feet 11¾ inches, and Godshall, third at 21 feet 10½ inches.

J. A. McWilliams of Princeton, counted on to win the pole vault, won easily at 13 feet. Bogart of Princeton second at 12 feet, and Shields of Cambridge at 10 feet 6 for third.

In the 220-yard low hurdles, he dashed out to win in 24 4-10 seconds from J. H. Hucker, Cornell, by 3 yards.

Although the meet had already been decided C. R. Scott scored a first place for the Cornell-Princeton bunch in the high jump, winning at 6 feet 2 inches. Three men—L. T. Wenzell, Princeton; Godley, Cornell, and Stanwood, winner of two first places, tied for second at 5 feet 11 inches.

SOMEBODY, SON OF CHANCE SHOT, WINS YONKERS HANDICAP

COLT, CAST OFF BY J. E. WIDENER, OUTRUNS DEDUCE AT EMPIRE CITY

By the Associated Press.

EMPIRE CITY RACE TRACK, July 21.—Over a fast track and under a broiling sun, the Maemere Farm's brown colt Somebody, a son of Chance Shot and a J. E. Widener castoff from last winter in Miami, drove to a hard earned victory in the twenty-fifth running of the Yonkers Handicap before a large crowd here today. It was a popular triumph, for Somebody, coupled with Coequel, ruled favorite at 9 to 5.

Mrs. Henry Ughetta's consistent Deduce, picking up weight, held on gamely and lost out by a head. This fellow, a $1500 plater at one time last year, saved second money by a length from C. V. Whitney's Halcyon, which broke from outside the stall gate. Vicar was a poor fourth. Somebody ran the mile and a sixteenth in 1:46 1-5 to collect the winner's share of $2320.

A week ago Deduce beat Somebody by a head, but a six-pound shift in the weights today favored Somebody. Belair stud's Faireno ran another disappointing race, never figuring in the running. Coequel, well up early, found the distance too far.

Deduce ran Coequel down in the first half mile and continued in front with a daylight advantage until the last furlong. Somebody, never far from the pace, closed steadily under R. Merrit's strong urging and wore down his recent conqueror in the final strides. Silvio Coucci was allowed to ride the roguish Halcyon and the six-year-old closed ground gamely to beat out the faltering Vicar with ease.

HELLRUNG CLUB PLAYS WELLSTONS IN U. CITY MUNY LEAGUE FEATURE

The University City Muny League schedule today finds the Aalcos opposing the Sullivan-Rileys, with the leading Hellrung & Grimms taking on the Wellston S-K's.

The Hellrungs are in the lead by a one-game margin. The Sullivan-Rileys and the Aalcos are tied for second place, with the S-K's at the bottom. In their effort to keep at the top, the Sullivan-Rileys will no doubt send either Perdue or Patton to the hill, opposed by Ed Richards twirling for the Aalcos.

In last Sunday's contest, Fletcher, twirling for the Wellston S-K men, let the Aalcos down with only five hits to win 4—2, while the Hellrungs defeated the Sullivans 12—4.

The games begin at 2:30 o'clock with Bates and Tobin umpiring.

SEA FOX SCORES SURPRISE WIN IN $5000 FEATURE AT ROCKINGHAM

By the Associated Press.

SALEM, N. H., July 21.—Taking advantage of the feathery package of 107 pounds, F. A. Carreaud's Sea Fox, six-year-old son of Man O' War, scored a surprise victory in the $5000 Hampton Cup Handicap run before a crowd of 25,000 at Rockingham Park today.

With the little known jockey, B. Fels, in the saddle, Sea Fox jumped to the front at the start of the one and one-eighth miles and never was headed. He crossed the finish line one and one-half lengths in front of C. V. Whitney's Collateral with Abe Bartelstein's Teralice another length to the rear in third position.

The victory was the fourth straight for the offspring of the famous super horse, which only recently arrived from Detroit where he won three successive races. In 12 starts this year, Sea Fox has been out of the money only three times, all of them at the start of the winter season in Florida.

Despite his consistent record, Sea Fox was neglected in the wagering, paying $28.50 for a $2 win mutuel ticket.

Auto Races Here Next Sunday

Local auto racing fans will see Red Campbell of Iowa City, Ia., in action next Sunday afternoon when Promoter Louis C. Stock stages his first of a series of auto racing programs at the Creve Coeur Speedway, located near Little Creve Coeur Lake, off Olive Street road, in St. Louis County.

A consistent winner in A. A. A. ranks for several years, Campbell deserted the so-called fast company to compete on independent tracks three years ago. Since then he has won numerous important prizes on tracks throughout the country.

Campbell, who was in St. Louis Friday, is competing at Crown Point, Ind., today.

O. D. Zook of Springfield, Ill., who will drive a Funk Special, and Red Reed, a St. Louis product, are the other recent entrants.

Some of the other leading drivers entered are Ed Davis of Benton, Ill.; Tommy Thompson of St. Louis; Pete Alberts and Bill Domyan of East St. Louis; Les Wright of Springfield, Les Adair of Indianapolis and Red Bradley of Decatur, Ill.

A COMPREHENSIVE game survey for Missouri, a project advocated by sportsmen and conservationists for several years, last week received the official approval of Wilbur Buford, State Game and Fish Commissioner. The survey, to be conducted in the field by Dr. Rudolph Bennitt and Dr. W. O. Nagel of Columbia, is to be a co-operative affair with the State Game and Fish Department, the University of Missouri and the U. S. Department of the Interior as participants.

Preliminary blanks are now being sent out to Game Wardens, County Clerks and sportsmen throughout the State to obtain a check-up on which to base the first stages. Using the questionnaires as guides, the two research experts will go into the field for a detailed survey.

Dr. Bennitt of the zoology department of the University of Missouri, has been given a year's leave of absence from the school along with Dr. Nagel, research assistant, to do the work with Missouri's game. Bennitt, secretary of the State Audubon Society, is the author of a check list of birds of Missouri which the University published recently. This publication was the first complete check list since the late Otto Widdmann of St. Louis compiled one which was published by the St. Louis Academy of Science about 30 years ago.

Trend of Survey.

THE survey being made in Missouri at this time will include check-ups on quail, wild turkey, pheasant, ruffed grouse, prairie chicken, dove, woodcock, upland plover, wood duck, and other waterfowl which breed in Missouri, deer, cottontail rabbit, jack rabbit, squirrel, racoon, skunk, fox, beaver and otter. Information regarding abundance and trends of each species by counties is now being sought in the preliminary study. This work will follow the survey made four years ago by Aldo Leopold and published in "Game Survey of the North Central States." Leopold's survey, largely valuable because it was a start on a check-up of game conditions in Missouri, did not cover the entire state as thoroughly as the Bennitt-Nagel survey is expected to do.

The only similar game survey made in Missouri was a preliminary study made through vocational agriculture classes of Missouri and published as a part of the game and fish department's annual report for 1932. That report stressed the need for a comprehensive study of game conditions in Missouri but not until Commissioner Buford placed his approval on the Bennitt-Nagel plan has any definite action in that direction been taken although former Game and Fish Commissioner, John H. Ross, attempted to obtain a legislative appropriation for that purpose three years ago.

Conservation Commission.

FOLLOWING close upon the announcement that the game and fish department was starting with the game survey a movement long advocated as a needed conservation measure for Missouri the suggestion that the State be provided with a conservation commission received semi-official approval.

Conrad L. Wirth, assistant director of the National Park Service, and Paul Brown, director of CCC camps in the region of which Missouri is a part, late last week conferred with Gov. Guy B. Park relative to a proposed conservation commission for Missouri. Because of Buford's close association and co-operation with the national officials the meeting with Gov. Park is seen by conservationists in Jefferson City as a definite move to interest the Governor in such a program for the next Legislature which meets in January. Buford already has expressed his interest in a plan for a conservation commission to assist in the administration of hunting and fishing, State park and forest matters.

Following the conference with Gov. Park, the Federal officials made a tour of the Missouri State Parks where more than two million dollars in Federal funds are being spent in developing these areas. Wirth and Brown also visited the Lake of the Ozarks region which has been proposed as a site for a national forest.

30-Day Duck Shooting.

J. N. DARLING, chief of the Bureau of Biological Survey, last week, following the recent annual meeting of the Advisory Board, Migratory Bird Treaty Act, in Washington, announced that sportsmen can expect a fixed duck hunting season from Oct. 1 to Jan. 15 with the number of days of shooting varying from year to year in accordance with the abundance of waterfowl.

Favoring a reduction this year in the number of hunting days because of a diminishing supply of ducks, the board has recommended a 30-day shooting season, but that the time and spread of the season in each State be recommended by the Biological Survey by the State Game and Fish Department.

The Missouri Game and Fish Department has not yet made its recommendations, but is expected to do so within the next few weeks after conferences with the State's duck hunters.

If the period through which Missouri sees its normal maximum of waterfowl in the State is selected the weeks of mid-November will be included. Flights start in September, but extend to mid-December, a check-up on migration dates for waterfowl in Missouri shows.

Although Missouri's waterfowl laws do not cnoform with the Federal regulations the latter's rules take precedence.

The daily bag limit, it was recommended, should remain at 12 for ducks in the aggregate and limited to five for birds of certain species which need additional protection.

Baiting of waterfowl, which is a common practice in the Illinois and Mississippi River area, will be allowed only holders of a permit from the Secretary of Agriculture, the board recommended.

Fishing Conditions.

FISHING conditions remain about the same, poor to fair, as the hot weather conditions, most reports indicate. As if to prove the rule by exception, an occasional good catch is reported, but the good catches are not as frequent now as they were a month ago.

Some of the lakes, and a few of the swift water streams are in fairly good fishing condition, the State Game and Fish Department reports. Where fish can be discovered concentrated in deep holes on swift streams catches may be expected. Most fishermen now, however, are waiting for the September and October fishing weather which is considered the best of the year.

Best fishing days, next week, according to the fishing guides, will be Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Best baits have been live baits, and June bug spinners, trolled.

Sportsmen interested in what the Game and Fish Department did in 1933 may obtain the annual report for that year from the commissioner's office at Jefferson City. The report has just been made available in published form.

A new pavilion for the wild life exehibit, an annual feature of the State fair at Sedalia, Aug. 11 to 18, is now being constructed.

NEWS OF ST. LOUISANS SPENDING SUMMER AT MICHIGAN BEACH RESORTS

By MARGARET ALLEN RUHL,
Society Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

DOUGLAS, Mich., July 21.

THE season at Douglas, the first stop on a motor trip to the resorts of Michigan, is in full swing, with more than 90 per cent of the cottages filled with St. Louisans. Almost every car along the beach walk bears Missouri license plates, and it is not uncommon to see St. Louisans marketing together or in informal groups on the sandy beach.

A few days ago, Mrs. John O'Fallon Delany, who has been coming to Douglas for many years, gave a tea at her cottage on the lake for all of the St. Louis contingent. Mrs. Delany owns several cottages at the resort, as do the Misses Garesche, and families from St. Louis occupy almost all of them.

Mrs. Bernard J. McMahon is spending her first season at Douglas, and has leased one of the Garesche cottages with an outlook from the bluffs of Lake Michigan. With her are her three youngest daughters, Polly, Pamela and Patsy. Dr. McMahon will be here next week. Mrs. McMahon's mother, Mrs. Clarence E. Maloy, accompanied the family North, and will take her oldest granddaughter, Miss Peggy McMahon, to Riverside, Conn., to visit Mrs. Maloy's daughter, Mrs. Charles W. Wall.

Eugene A. Fusz has a cottage here for the summer, and his daughters, Mrs. John Brownrigg, with her young children, Richard Thomas and Eliza, and Miss Helen and Miss Josephine Fusz are with him. Mr. Brownrigg and his brother-in-law, Louis Fusz, will motor north next week.

Near the Fusz cottage is one occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Desloge and their seven children and Mr. and Mrs. Hubertas Schotten and their two children. In fact, most of the families at Douglas have young children, who literally swarm the beach and the roadway, accompanied by nurses laden with sand buckets and shovels and beach parasols.

A roomy cottage on the beach side of the drive is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ring and their five children. They have as their guest Mr. Ring's aunt, Miss Genevieve Ring of St. Louis. Around the corner from the beach drive is the cottage occupied by Mrs. David G. Teasdale and her babies, David Jr., and Thomas Hennings Teasdale. Mr. Teasdale will join his family for a second visit later and Mrs. Teasdale's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Hennings, are expected in August to take a cottage of their own. After their arrival Mr. and Mrs. Teasdale plan a visit to Chicago to attend the fair.

Mrs. Douglas B. Houser and her children are at their summer home in Shortwood, the restricted section of Douglas, which they have owned for several years.

Near the north end of the beach drive is the cottage leased by Mr. and Mrs. William T. Jones. Mrs. Jones is here with her son, William T. Jr., and Miss Betty Hanson of St. Louis, who is their guest. Mrs. G. S. Maddox is in her own cottage as has been her custom for many years, and has with her her daughters, Miss Madge Maddox and Mrs. J. Harold Locke of Philadelphia, and her daughter, Miss Virginia Locke. Mrs. Locke and her daughter arrived by automobile a few days ago and Mr. Locke will join them this week. Mr. and Mrs. Gurdon Black, Mrs. Maddox's son-in-law and daughter, have returned to St. Louis after visiting her.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Palmer McElroy are at the Beachmont Hotel for a week following a motor trip through Northern Michigan and will return to St. Louis in a few days.

At Trumble's resort are Mrs. James Hunt Lucas, Mrs. John M. Wood, with her daughter, Mrs. J. Clark Johnston, and her grandson. Joseph Rollinson Barroll, and Dr. and Mrs. Claude Pickrell with their children, Marie and Sally, all St. Louisans.

Mrs. John Philip Meyer, the former Miss Alice Strauch, has a cottage here and gave an informal party a week ago when her father, John B. Strauch, came up for a short visit. Last week-end Mrs. Meyer joined her husband for a brief stay in Chicago.

Mrs. Edward D. Payne and her children, Margaret and Edward Jr., have a brown shingle cottage near the beach. Mr. and Mrs. George von Weise of Greenville, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. George B. Logan and Mr. and Mrs. Leon C. Gale of St. Louis, who have been at Trumble's while visiting them, returned to their homes Friday.

A St. Louis devotee of aquaplaning is Miss Bonnie O'Neill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. O'Neill, who, with her parents and her brother and sister, Lawrence Jr., and Miss Nancy, have a cottage at the beach. Miss O'Neill has been under the tutelage of John Barron of Saugatuck, an adept on a surf board, and they are seen together several times a week in a speed boat of Lake Kalamazoo, three miles from Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. Morgan McCormick and their son, Dinks, who are regular visitors to Douglas, are again occupying a cottage here for the season. Their daughter, Betty, is traveling abroad with her aunts, Miss Grace and Miss Willamina Parrish.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Hall, with their daughters, Miss Eleanor and Miss Betty, have arrived for the summer. Their son, Edward Jr., preceded them a week ago.

At Saugatuck, the village nearest Douglas, are the entertainment features of the resort with the exception of swimming. The dance pavilion is a gathering place for the young St. Louisans, and the yacht races, the first of which were held on Lake Kalamazoo July 14 attract summer crowds from here.

GRAND HAVEN, July 21.

HAVING become accustomed to Missouri license plates on dozens of cars in and around Douglas, it was not startling to see almost as many here. Highland Park, the original resort section of Grand Haven, has many families of summer residents from St. Louis. In fact one tier of cottages on the sandy bluffs overlooking the broadest section of Lake Michigan beach, is known as St. Louis ridge. Spring Lake, a newer resort section growing rapidly in popularity, also has its St. Louis contingent. One of the most attractive homes is Fern Hollow Farm, occupied this year by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Mitchell of St. Louis, and their family. The house is built high on a grassy terrace above the lake, and is surrounded by formal gardens, a badminton court and a sloping rock garden. A closely clipped lawn shaded with great trees affords a fine view of the lake. At the water's edge is a fully equipped boat house enclosing a 95-foot cruiser.

The house itself—the name cottage is inadequate—is large enough to provide for guests, and there have been several since the arrival of the family a few weeks ago. Mr. and Mrs. Brenton Van Cleave spent this week with Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, leaving here yesterday for Winnetka to attend the wedding of their niece, Miss Georgianna Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fowler, formerly of St. Louis, and Robert Taylor, to take place there today. Mr. and Mrs. Marius S. Darrow, who have a cottage on St. Louis ridge; Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Riesmeyer and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Maestre, all St. Louisans, are also expected to attend the wedding.

Fern Hollow is the summer residence of one of next season's debutantes. Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell's daughter, Miss Nancy, is planning her coming out parties. She will make her formal bow at a tea on the afternoon of Nov. 7, and will be the guest of honor at a ball to be given by her parents Dec. 14. The details of the functions are still incomplete. Pending the opening of the season early in October, Miss Nancy will have several guests. Her cousin, Miss Ruth Jane Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Jones, and Miss Peggy Wendling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Wendling, and both popular buds of the last season, arrived a day or two ago for a visit, and Miss Mitchell and her brothers, Samuel A. Jr. and Tommy Mitchell, are planning informal parties for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore P. Conant of St. Louis have taken a house in town this season instead of at Highland Park as has been their custom for several years. With them at present are Mrs. Conant's sister, Miss Emma L. Dozier and Mr. and Mrs. Conant's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Dozier Conant and their three children, Judson Bemis, Elizabeth Thompson and Helen Dozier Conant. Mr. and Mrs. Conant Jr. drove north two weeks ago and will visit Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gillette Hocthkiss of St. Louis at their cottage in Pointe-aux-Barques, Mich., before returning home. They plan to leave their children here and return for them later.

At Highland Park are Mrs. A. E. White and her daughter, Miss Elise who are again occupying Broadview Cottage which they have leased for several seasons. It is built on the first ridge above the lake level, and overlooks the oval, a circular drive way on the beach. Mrs. White is entertaining Charlton Messick Jr., of St. Louis.

Miss White expects Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Jones to visit her later in the season, and possibly Mrs. Henry Hitchcock. Mr. White, who accompanied his family to Grand Haven will return for a second visit in August.

Ship's Lantern, an attractive cottage a few houses south on the ridge, which derives its name from the porch lantern and the living room chandeliers, has been leased for the season by Mr. and Mrs. Scott Porter. Their daughter, Mrs. Jay K. Gruner Jr., is with them for the summer, and Mr. Gruner, will motor north as far as Douglas in a few days with John Brownrigg to join them. Miss Marian Megginson of Webster Groves, will be the guest of Mrs. Gruner in August, and Mrs. Porter will entertain Mrs. Henry Clyde Orear of Chicago, who will arrive early next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chadburne Houser are in their cottage at Indian Village south of Highland Park, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles McClung Thompson are guests at the Highland Park Hotel.

The Jerome J. Schotten boat, the Chez Moi II anchored in the harbor off Grand Haven a few days ago with Mr. Schotten and Arch de Bow of St. Louis on board. The boat is cruising the Great Lakes for the summer.

The Michelin, the cottage owned by Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell, is leased this year to Mrs. E. M. Cain and her family—her daughters, Miss Helen, Miss Grace, Miss Margaret, and her son, Eugene M. Cain. Mrs. Cain's sisters, Mrs. Richard J. Collins and Mrs. J. A. McKeown and their children, are with her.

LUDINGTON, Mich., July 21.

MRS. EDITH WILLSON NILES, who has been living in Ludington for the last two years, enjoys a seasonal program of entertainment. During the long winter she spends much of her time indulging her flair for interior decorating, with the result that her home on Ludington boulevard reflects the taste of its owner. Her living room for instance, is in soft browns and antique white. The walls are painted brown, harmonizing with the brown-stained floors. Summer slip covers are cream piped in brown and the colors are repeated on a tall paneled screen. Bright flowers which abound in Michigan give cheerful contrasting tones.

Mrs. Niles' daughter, Miss Joan, who attends the University of Wisconsin, is with her for the summer, and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hudson and their son, Charles, will arrive this week.

Stafford Lambert and Herbert Condie Jr., of St. Louis, on board Mr. Lambert's boat, Flight, docked at Ludington for a few days last week on their way to Menominee, Mich., and were dinner guests at the Niles home Sunday night. Mr. Lambert will join his sister-in-law, Mrs. Marion L. J. Lambert and his sister, Miss Marie Eleanor Busch at their camp at Minocqua, Wis.

Beach parties, scavenger hunts, amateur theatricals and hay rides afford amusement at Epworth Heights, the resort section of Ludington. The younger set is organized into a club called the Co-Hi-Bu, which sponsors many of the parties. An active St. Louis member is Miss Margery Skinner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Skinner of Webster Groves, who, with her parents and her brothers, John and Watson, are occupying a cottage here for the summer. Mr. Skinner's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mead and their daughter, Mrs. Ralph Metcalfe, will be here in August to occupy Lone Star Lodge for the summer. Mr. Skinner's brother, Sidney Skinner, left here a few days ago for Hessel, Mich., to visit another brother, Lamoine Skinner, also of Webster Groves, and his family.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Hessing of Southmoor, and their daughters, Miss Virginia and Miss Betty, have a cottage at Epworth, and have had as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ellis and Mrs. Walter Tarlton, all St. Louisans. Mrs. Tarlton is spending the summer at her cottage at Grand Haven, where her daughter, Mrs. Douglas Rolfe, will join her in August.

"Rip Van Winkle," with several thousand costumed children participating, will be produced then. On the same day there will be a handicraft exhibit, a track meet and finals of inter-playground games.

THIS NEW YORK

By LUCIUS BEEBE

NEW YORK, July 21.

THE most plush and platinum of New York's sin palaces isn't, as a matter of fact, in Manhattan, but across the Washington Bridge on the New Jersey palisades. And, we assure you, it is a real old-fashioned roadhouse with the whole scene stepped up to a scale embracing celebrities and monocles.

The outdoor terrace over the evening Hudson is as lovely a place to dine as there is and the food, while costly, is excellent. Some notion of the price scale may be derived from the circumstance that all wine is a flat $12. A floor show with a celebrated Broadway entertainer at a $6000 and percentage weekly salary provides a madhouse vista of feminine arms and legs just across the table from your salad, and the modernist bar has more bottles behind it than you've ever seen anywhere before.

But the real feature of the establishment is the game room downstairs. Only Bradley's Palm Beach Club is more formally luxurious and, while we had no way of estimating the stakes the evening we were present, they were said to be very high. A dinner jacketed major domo with a single eyeglass superintended the scene. Evening-dressed croupiers spun clicking wheels and lynx-eyed cashiers collected the cash boxes from each table at frequent intervals. The smallest bills visible were of hundred-dollar denomination and most were larger. The place is Cecil de Mille's idea of a luxury resort. There are servants to do everything but place your chips for you and huge sums of money are extracted with the painless elegance which only trained and accomplished croupiers can achieve. You can, if you are of a mind, buy a gardenia corsage for your girl for $10 from a cruising nymph, and 1875 cognac is $2 a glass. More than a thousand carriage trade patrons an evening drive up and are saluted by the phalanx of footmen on duty, and you have to reserve your table days in advance.

Most people with country places make it a point to have an extra pair of swimming trunks and perhaps an odd tennis racket or two, but guests who visit Jock Whitney, foremost of sportsmen and most magnificent of hosts, at his Manhasset estate needn't worry about sports equipment no matter what their favorite game may be. In Mr. Whitney's field house there are complete suits of sports clothes for every emergency in every size that might be required. Riding, polo, tennis, golf and squash enthusiasts will find that the best outfitters couldn't do better by them than the Whitney valets. Three or four six-foot polo players can be outfitted from boots and spurs to breeches just as easily as a group of assorted Yale freshmen can be togged out in white cricket cloth pants. There are Norfolk jackets and lounging robes, beach pajamas, swimming trunks, sports coats and tennis shorts enough to clothe a Connecticut prep school for a week end at Southampton, and such incidentals as fresh linen and dinner jackets, in case guests decide to stay for the evening, are available in a profusion sufficient to set up a dress suit rental shop.

The sports for which Mr. Whitney can supply friends with equipment include squash rackets, court tennis, polo, indoor swimming, outdoor swimming (different suits, presumably), golf, riding and fives. The polo field, incidentally, was cut out of the side of a hill which happened to be in the way.

NICHOLAS PAVLOFF, who is principally in the eye of the public at the moment as a decorator about-town and artist, is a fellow of ingenuity. A few evenings ago, with Count Tolstoy, he was calling at the apartment of Mabel Downs, when it was suggested that bridge was in order and, there being no cards, the two were sent out to find them. They didn't bring the cards, but in a few minutes reappeared with a huge upright slot machine ravished, presumably, from the walls of a nearby poolroom. It was an admirable substitute, and a good time was had by all. But in an hour or so everybody's money was gone and there was universal dolor. Mr. Pavloff, still resourceful, disappeared, and in a few minutes returned with a heavy fire ax. All depositors were paid in full.

BOHEMIANS who recall the days when old Jack Yeats, father of William Butler Yeats, was one of the happiest wits and brilliant conversationalists of the town, will be glad to learn that Mlle. Jules Petitpas still holds out at the old stand in West Twenty-ninth street, over near the docks. In the brave days before the war, Yeats was the undisputed king of Mlle. Petitpas' boarding house. He sat at the head of the table and directed the conversation, interlarding the colloquies of the boarders with adroit cynicisms that Whistler in his heyday would have envied, and the great soup tureen, filled with pot au feu or marmite, was always passed first to him so that he could get the burned cheese and biscuit on the top.

Mlle. Petitpas ran the Bohemian French rooming house de luxe of the town. Celebrities flocked there for the talk and for the French food, and, before he kept his classic rendezvous with a slug at Belloy-on-Santerre, Alan Seegar used to live upstairs. For the details of the Seegar legend in West Twenty-ninth street you will have to inquire of Mlle. Petitpas. During the great foolishness the establishment pursued the even tenor of its ways save for the memorable occasion when, during a sailing party for Jock Mullins or Junius Brown or some such a revenue officer fell through the skylight with an extravagant crash or glass into the bowl of claret cup in the middle of the table.

Today the place is much as it must have been 20 years ago, save that individual tables have replaced the long board of tradition. Mlle. Julie is forever troubled with a lock of maverick hair which trails about one ear and her gold-rimmed glasses are the same as of old. Only she doesn't run the rooming house upstairs any longer, just the restaurant. The trees of the front yard almost hide the modest gold-lettered sign by the basement door, and on the adjacent stoops on either side the neighbors sit out in their shirt sleeves on hot evenings and discuss the patrons as they come and go. It is a part of old New York and almost, as you pay off your taxi, you expect to see Jakey Kraus, the baker, and Nellie Shannon, who once, with Mamie Rorke, tripped the light fantastic on the sidewalks of happy and forgotten times.

WINSOR FRENCH, returning from a trans-Atlantic safari and en route home to Cleveland, reports that the incredible Tallulah Bankhead has simply taken over the Savoy Grill in London and made it into the smart-resort of the town. With screams and whoops and Douglas Fairbanks Jr., she invested the restaurant, and from then till now the staider Britishers have been walking on the other side of The Strand, even at the peril of falling into Romano's bar. All the Americans in town simply carry on like crazy there, shedding their inhibitions at the cloakroom and shouting details of other people's private lives fit to be heard as far down the street as McGregor's Coal Hole saloon. He says the Savoy is what the Paris Ritz bar was 10 years ago, and you know what that was.

What Women Are Doing In Politics

REALIZING that publication of candidates' records comprised chiefly of biographical material and answers to questionnaires is not an adequate guide to the voter. the members of the League of Women Voters have decided this year to add to their usual Candidates' Record Bulletin the record of how candidates for the State Legislature who are up for re-election in the St. Louis districts voted upon important bills during the special and the last regular sessions of the Legislature. The bills included in this record are those which the League considered of greatest general interest. Some of the measures were on the League's legislative program; others were neither actively supported nor opposed by the League. In the case of some of the bills there was no opportunity for a record vote in both the House and the Senate.

The measures include: Permanent registration for St. Louis, general appropriations bill, child labor amendment, resolution for investigation of lobbies, removal of the names of presidential electors from the ballot, an executive budget, general sales tax, unemployment reserves and state employment offices, old age pensions, jury service for women, reorganization of the State Board of Charities, election of St. Louis Aldermen by general ticket or by wards, the public utilities projects bill, and a bill for a survey commission to inquire into the organization and functioning of State, county and municipal governments in the interest of economical and effective administration and to equalize the burden of taxation.

St. Louis candidates for re-election to the House are all Democrats: Lawrence John Fontana, Lawrence P. Walsh, David A. Hess, Oliver E. J. Schick, William Warren Burke, David P. Lohr, Louis Miller, Andrew F. Blong and James J. Carroll. McMillan Lewis and John P. O'Reilly, Democrats, who served last term in the House, are now seeking nomination for the Senate. The three candidates for re-election to the Senate are Republicans: William F. Depelheuer, William Maffitt Bates and Edwin Nolte.

The League Bulletin will be ready for distribution the latter part of this week and may be obtained at the league offices in the Kings-Way Hotel.

A reception in honor of Mrs. Jacob L. Milligan, wife of the Democratic candidate for Senator, will be given Tuesday, July 31, at the Jefferson Hotel by the women's division of the Milligan-for-Senator Organization. Mrs. Jerome F. Duggan, representing the St. Louis division, and Mrs. Carrie Potts of the County division, will be co-chairmen of arrangements.

The Women's Republican Club of St. Louis County will give a luncheon Thursday at Van Horn's Farm, on Lay road. All Republican candidates have been invited to speak. Mrs. J. M. Hutchinson will preside. The club will open headquarters Tuesday at the Book Nook, 26 South Central avenue, Clayton. Each week Republican women representing one of the townships in the county will be hostesses. Carondelet Township will be hostess this week with Mrs. Edna Fifhause, chairman. Next week, Mrs. May Gardner will be chairman of the hostess group from St. Ferdinand Township. The headquarters will remain open until after the election in November.

The North St. Louis Women's Unit of the St. Louis Women's Division Cochran-for-Senator Club will be in charge of headquarters tomorrow at the Statler Hotel.

Mrs. J. K. Stribling will give a tea at her home, 230 Blackmer avenue, Webster Groves, Wednesday afternoon for all Democratic women interested in the candidacy of Jacob L. Milligan for Senator. Webster Groves women who are members of the Women's Division of the Milligan-for-Senator Club will be hostesses. Mrs. Jerome F. Duggan and Mr. Charles Hill will speak.

Former Congressman Ceveland A. Newton will speak at a tea to be given from 3 to 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Republican headquarters, 5896 Delmar boulevard, by the Twenty-eighth Ward Republican Club. Mrs. Robert Raithel, Miss Mazie Noonan and Mrs. Silas S. Steiner, precinct chairmen, will be hostesses. All Republican candidates and friends are invited to attend.

Mrs. Ruby Koelling, Republican committeewoman of the Twenty-fourth Ward, has arranged four important meetings to be held before primary election Aug. 7. On July 24 Mrs. Koelling and Clarence Eberle, Republican committeeman of the ward, will introduce primary candidates to voters residing in the northwestern section of the Twenty-fourth Ward at Nashville and Louisville avenues. Former Congressman Newton and other speakers will attend.

July 27 the Republican organization of tha Twenty-fourth will hold a meeting at 5200 Shaw avenue for voters residing in the northeastern section of the ward. All Republican candidates are invited to attend. On July 31 the organization will call a meeting at Lindenwood Turner Hall, 6918 Lansdowne avenue, for voters residing in the central section. On Thursday, Aug. 2, another Republican rally will be held at Majestic Garden, 6482 Gravois avenue, for residents of the southern end of the ward.

Mrs. Burton H. St. John is general chairman of the St. Louis women's division of the Cochran-for-Senator Club, which has opened headquarters in the Statler Hotel.

PAINTING OF SHAW HOME TO BE UNVEILED TODAY

Ceremonies at Seventh and Locust, Original Site of Philanthropist's Residence.

A painting-marker, showing the city home of Henry Shaw, St. Louis philanthropist who donated Tower Grove Park and Shaw's Garden to the city, will be formally unveiled today at Seventh and Locust streets, the original site of the home, by the Historic Sites Committee of the Chamber of Commerce Young Men's Division, in commemoration of the 134th anniversary of Shaw's birth.

The marker, the second of a series being placed by the committee on spots of historic interest in St. Louis, depicts Shaw's home and the surrounding landscape as it appeared when Shaw was one of the city's lading citizens. The marker was painted by Charles Muench, a member of the Historic Sites Committee, and is to be permanently affixed to the Franklin-American Trust Building, which now occupies the old site of Shaw's home.

The unveiling ceremonies are to begin at 2:30 p. m., and will include addresses by William E. Hoeflin, president of the Young Men's Division; Baxter Brown, president of the Board of Public Service; Dr. George T. Moore, director of Shaw's Garden; Thomas Stephens, representing the Franklin-American Trust Building, and John Feugh, a Negro who formerly worked for Shaw. Walter J. Eggers, a member of the Historic Sites Committee, will preside, and Frank P. Brewster Jr. will deliver the invocation.

'PIONEER DAY' EVENTS FOR IRONDALE SCOUTS

Celebration at Camp Wednesday Will Include Barbecue and County Fair.

"Pioneer day," a day of old-fashioned entertainment events, will be celebrated by the 238 Boy Scouts at Irondale Reservation Camp Wednesday. The program will feature a barbecue and events of an old-time county fair.

As the present two-week section of camp is known as "Pioneer Days," the pioneer idea is also being carried out in pioneer hikes, on which the scouts stay out two days and nights, cooking their own meals and putting up their own shelters.

Attendance at camp this season is better than it has been in the last three years, most of the scouts attending in troop units, many accompanied by scoutmasters. There are 14 scoutmasters at camp for this section.

According to Merle Shippey, camping director, who recently made an inspection of Lion's Den, scout week-end camp near Seckman, Mo., good progress is being made in building new cabins by the 85 men in the Federal transient camp there. The site has been leased as a transient camp, and it will be a year or possibly two years before the scouts can again make use of it. Ten cabins are being built there, some 18 by 24 feet, and the others 25 by 30.

Scouts will gather at the North Side Y. M. C. A. between 1:30 and 2:30 p. m. Tuesday to attend the ball game between the Browns and the New York Yankees, as the guests of the Browns' management. Scouts are asked to wear uniform, if possible, and to bring their registration cards.

South Side District of the St. Louis Council will hold its annual picnic for scouters and cubbers at Seibert's Grove, on Gravois road, Sappington, at 2:30 p. m. Saturday. Scoutmasters, assistant scoutmasters, troop committeemen, field commissioners and their families will participate. Scoutmasters and cubmasters will make up parties from their troops.

The 20 scouts of Troop 242, St. Francis de Sales Church, will return today from their troop camp at Lonedell, near Maxville. The scouts, accompanied by Leo Robben, scoutmaster, have completed a nine-day camp.

Troup 98 is holding its own two-week camp near Steelville with 62 scouts and the scoutmaster, Dr. Forest H. Staley, attending.

Patrolman C. D. Piening Dies.

Patrolman Clarence D. Piening, 37 years old, died yesterday of a heart attack at his home, 6021 Hampton boulevard. He had been a member of the Police Department for 12 years, the first 10 as a member of the motorcycle squad. Funeral services will be held Tuesday.

CONTRACTORS SEEK CHANGE IN MECHANICS' LIEN LAW

Association of Builders Question Legislative Candidates on Their Attitude.

The Allied Building Contractors' Association is inquiring of candidates for the State Legislature whether they will favor a change in the mechanics' lien law for the benefit of property owners.

Under the present law, according to John J. Collins Jr., president of the association, the property owner may be required to pay a material bill twice. In case the building contractor to whom the bill was paid originally fails to pay the material dealer, he said, the dealer chan obtain a lien forcing the property owner to pay him.

"If the public had a true knowledge of this unfair section of this statute, it could not be maintained," Collins' statement said.

W. W. Cox, Socialist, to Speak.

W. W. Cox, Socialist labor leader, will speak on "Political versus Industrial Government," this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Sokol Hall, 1439 Chouteau avenue. The meeting is sponsored by the general Membership Committee of the Socialist Labor Party of St. Louis.

PICNICKERS WARNED OF POLLUTED WATER

"If in Doubt Don't Drink It," Says Health Commissioner Bredeck.

Picnickers, campers and tourists who seek escape from the heat of the city in rural retreats are cautioned to beware of their water supply by Health Commissioner Bredeck.

Polluted water, breeder of typhoid, has been responsible for virtually all of the few cases of the disease. In every instance, the sufferer had been on a camping trip or picnic and had drunk water of doubtful purity.

"As far as the water and milk supply of the city is concerned," Commissioner Bredeck said, "there just is not a chance of a typhoid epidemic. The woods and rural communities are a different proposition, and a more dangerous one, certainly.

"On trips away from carefully supervised health districts, it is as important to be cautious about milk as about water. My suggestion is—when in doubt don't drink it. It may easily be contaminated.

"For the one-meal picnic, take your own water from the city, if possible. If impractible, chemicals easily used in purifying water may be purchased cheaply at drug stores."

There are only about six cases of typhoid now under treatment in St. Louis, according to Health Department records. Except in two instances where the source of infection is not apparent, all cases this year have been traceable to polluted water or milk obtained away from St. Louis.

Nazi-ism of Hitler Is Dead; He Holds on While Von Papen And Goering Bide Their Time

Masses in Ignorance of What Is Happening But Disillusioned by Failure of All of Chancellor's Promises.

By Albin E. Johnson,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BERLIN, July 10.

THE real consequences of what happened in Germany during the first week in July will perhaps not become evident until late summer and early autumn, when the economic and political crises which are hanging over Herr Hitler, like an avenging nemesis, will crystallize.

The "Blutbad" wherein Der Fuhrer and his two faithful (?) followers, Gen. Goering and Propaganda Minister Dr. Goebbels, washed away an incipient Nazi opposition and their personal enemies and political rivals, is beginning already to assume its true proportions.

While it is still impossible to know the exact number of victims—the executed and suicides, and the imprisoned storm troop leaders—one thing is certain. That is that the immense majority were Hitler's stanchest supporters. In a mad moment Der Fuehrer destroyed the one organization which could have maintained him in power and placed himself a virtual prisoner in the hands of the disdainful Reichswehr.

The game of Von Papen, which started when the Prussian Junkers decided to make use of Hitler to destroy the Weimar Constitution and the German Republic, is nearing its end. The last move was to make Hitler destroy himself.

Hitler's False Alarm.

It is widely admitted that at no time, as a result of the "plotting" of Captain Roehm, Heines, Ernst and other storm troop leaders, was Hitler personally menaced. The S. A. leaders were fighting against the influence of Von Papen, the Reichswehr, the industrialists Thyssen and Krupp von Bohlen, and other reactionaries. Even the Von Schleicher-Strasser combination did not envisage destroying Hitler. They, too, wanted to establish a Social-Military government with Hitler as its figure-head.

It was the group now in power—the Von Papenists, the Von Blomberg-Von Fritsch-Von Hammerstein reichswehr-monarchist clique—who wanted to get Hitler completely under their control. In accomplishing this they used Gen. Goering and Dr. Goebbels, the former at heart a conservative monarchist and the latter a clever intelligence at propaganda, but otherwise characterless.

Harassed by insidious influences and poisoned by his advisors Hitler completely lost his head when he ordered Roehm and his comrades shot down. He had nothing to do with the assassination of Gen. von Schleicher and his wife, Dr. Klausener, leader of the Catholic Action, Herr Von Bose and others of Von Papen's entourage. They fell victims to Goering's personal animosity and political rivalries. As for Gen. von Kahr and Von Lossow, who a decade ago stamped out Hitler's and Gen. Ludendorff's abortive Munich Beerhalle Putsch, they were victims of Der Fuehrer's long memory. In 1930, at the famous Leipzig trials of Lieut. Scherniger, Reichswehr officer sentenced to prison for disseminating Nazi propaganda in the ranks of the regular army, Hitler promised that "heads will roll in the sand" before his Star of Destiny had set. The murder of Von Kahr and Von Lossow was a fulfillment of that threat. Why Lieut. Scherniger also should have lost his life, after years of service to Hitler's cause, is one of the many paradoxes of the recent massacres.

Long Rest Ordered.

Neurasthenic and on the verge of a nervous breakdown Hitler now does not know where to turn. Doctors—under orders from the unseen powers that pull the strings in Germany today—have ordered Der Fuehrer to take a long rest. If he does not, they say, he will go to pieces. And if he does, he will be completely surrounded by Reichswehr officers who have not the least respect for him. Gen. Von Blomberg, Von Fritsch and Von Hammerstein are entirely different from the worshipping Nazi Storm troop leaders on whose shoulders Hitler climbed to power. As prisoner of the Reichswehr—which had dominated every German government since the establishment of the Republic—Hitler will be a general without an army.

Gen. Goering, whose strength rests in the SS (Schutzstaffel or Black Bodyguards) and the Berlin police, and also in the Gestapo, the secret police or Checka of the Nazi regime, which is under the command of his henchmen Major Walter Buch, the "Brown Butcher" and Herr Himmler, is waiting for the toga to slip from Hitler's drooping shoulders. Gen. Goering expected to step into Von Papen's shoes as Vice-Chancellor but for the moment that maneuver seems to be blocked. President von Hindenburg has "come back to life" long enough to play another card for the Reactionaries.

But Goering can well bide his time. He is the white-headed boy of the Monarchists and Industrialists. And as for Goebbels, even the Right considers him as a traitor who sold out his Left wing comrades, Roehm, Heines and the others for a mess of pottage. It is doubtful if even Hitler respects Goebbels. His weak-kneed apology, which appeared in the Nazi Press after the "clean-up," wherein he sought to explain away certain disparaging remarks he had made against the Reichswehr officers on June 27, has caused a "big laugh" all over Germany. Goebbels probably will be the next to go.

Nazi Movement Dead.

One thing now is certain. The Nazi movement, as originally conceived and delineated in the Nazi Bible, Hitler's "Mein Kampf," is dead—dead beyond all hope of resurrection. Leaving aside their moral deficiencies Capt. Roehm, Ernest, Heines and other Group Leaders, were the soul of National Socialism. Gregor Strasser, for the last two years in political retirement, was one of its best brains. All are now dead. Lieut. Scherniger and Manfred von Killingen and Stormtroopers Schmidt and Schneidhubor were its charter-members and heroes. National Socialism's soul lies buried in their unmarked graves.

Gen. von Schleicher and his wife, Von Bose and Dr. Klausener, the ex-president of Bavaria, Von Kahr and Gen. von Lossow, Erich Honstein, ex-Communist leader who committed "suicide" when captured and Ernest Torgler, Community Reichstag leader and martyr of the Leipzig Trial who "died a natural death" in his cell during the clean-up—all were more or less innocent bystanders.

That Von Schleicher was "plotting" is unquestioned. But his "plotting" was against the Reactionaries. He wanted to be ready to take over, in conjunction with Capt. Roehm and others, in case Hitler crumbled. Von Schleicher, though a former Chancellor and ex-defense minister and Reichswehr commander, had nothing in common either with Gen. Goering or Von Papen. He could have escaped abroad with ex-Chancellor Bruning a few days before the "clean up" had he so desired but he dismissed all suggestions with the remark: "They do not dare

Lloyd George Calls Hitler's Deed "Massacre" and Reads a Moral In It for Liberty-Loving Peoples

The Executioners, Says Noted Briton, Have No Apologists Outside of Germany—Let Those Who Yearn for a "Strong Man" to Run the Government Heed the Nazi Terror.

"It is not necessary that the superman should have experience or achievement in the art of government so long as he is an adept at the art of exciting the hopes and passions of the populace."

By David Lloyd George,
War-Time Prime Minister of Great Britain.

LONDON, July 21.

THE German executioners have no friends or apologists outside Germany. The cold-blooded assassination of 77 men without trial or opportunity for explanation, merely because they criticised the Government or contemplated a change in the Government by the only means by which it could be effected, has sent a shudder of repugnance through every civilized country.

The Reichstag explanations explain nothing. Seventy-seven men were executed for offenses which were not and are not specified. Whether the condemned were informed, no one can tell. The public are not informed as to the charges, except by general accusations of sedition and treason without detail or precision. The full list of names is withheld.

Declares that Evidence of Conspiracy is Fishy.

Evidence of conspiracy is fishy and, insofar as it is indicated, proves that a number of Nazis and others had conversations about the desirability of effecting a change in the policy and probably in the personnel of the Government.

These conversations take place at every dinner table in London and Paris, and in New York there are many who criticise the "Brain Trust."

Hints about treasonable talks with an unknown informer are always brought in on these occasions to supplement deficiencies and fill up gaps in the case. The mysterious "Mr. A" ought to have been any other letter in the alphabet.

Gen. von Schleicher, Ernst Roehm, Karl Ernst and their friends were not satisfied with the way things were going in and for Germany. Neither was Vice-Chancellor von Papen. But the latter was saved by President von Hindenburg. There was no junker to put in a word for the others.

Draws Lesson From Outburst of 'Revolutionary Savagery.'

All the same, this outburst of revolutionary savagery may have its uses. There are quite a number of people in every country—and the number is growing—who think that the mark of a strong government is to brush aside laws established by civilized communities to insure justice and fair treatment and to substitute for them the behest or caprice of one man.

It is not necessary that the superman should have experience or achievement in the art of government so long as he is an adept at the art of exciting the hopes and passions of the populace.

It is just as well that men who hanker after the rule of a "strong man" should realize what the destruction of democratic government means in a country. Criticism is mutiny, and any effort to change policy or persons is conspiracy. The only answer is not reason but the revolver. If there is any dissatisfaction wtih the Government, for whatever cause, those who give expression to it are silenced with bullets. Liberty stocks were depreciated badly in the European market. The German terror has definitely put them up again.

Incident Emphasizes Value of Freedom.

Countries like Britain, France and the Scandinavian countries, that were so accustomed to freedom that they did not realize its worth, have been shocked into realization of its intrinsic value. That is one service which Prussian Premier Goering has rendered to his fellow men by these outrages.

I think also they have rendered a distinctive service to the cause of peace. France and other neighbors of Germany were genuinely frightened by the noisy bluster of the men who were at the head of a gigantic array of fanatical young men, drilling, marching and maneuvering in every town and village in the Fatherland for no clearly defined purpose.

This vast association (for it could not be called an army) numbered millions. There were fantastic rumors as to their equipments. As a matter of fact, they possessed no cannon, no machine guns and only a few rifles. France refused to believe they were not armed, and her reluctance about disarmament was partly attributable to apprehensions caused by the fussy activity of the slain Ernst Roehm and this Nazi brown army.

The chauvinistic press in Paris worked up a hot panic on the subject. Even in Britain the spectacle caused some alarm. Disbandment of this force will make it easier for friends of disarmament to persuade European nations to listen to common sense.

It is not impossible that this is one of the considerations that impelled Chancellor Hitler to take action. His Venetian conversations with Premier Mussolini covered a good deal of ground. Il Duce wants peace. So, in my opinion, does Hitler.

Says Neither Germany Nor Italy Could Stand a War.

In view of the economic conditions prevailing in their respective countries, neither of them can afford a war. Germany cannot fight. She does not possess the necessary machinery to wage an offensive war against the most humble of her neighbors. She would be formidable in defense of her own soil. But her small army of 200,000 regular troops is not equipped with the necessary weapons to destroy a single line of well constructed entrenchments held against it by trained troops.

The fact cannot be too often emphasized. But the German Government and certainly German Army leaders know it. That is the reason why the Reichswehr—Germany's regular army—are all for peace. That is why Rudolph Hess in his broadcast giving an official explanation of the executions, first of all emphasizes the peaceable intent of the German Government, and then dwells with confidence on the impossibility of any foreign army "walking through Germany."

The distinction is a sound one and makes for peace, for French military authorities must be fully alive to the difference and will hesitate to advise any preparations for marching their armies across German frontiers.

As to Italy, she has a great army—probably a much better army in every respect than the one which fought so gallantly in the great war. But another war would mean hopeless insolvency for Italy. Mussolini knows that. I have, therefore, no doubt that whatever was discussed at the Venice meeting, its main anxiety was to remove obstacles in the way of maintenance and promotion of European peace.

I should not be surprised were I told that Il Duce informed Hitler in plain terms that the marchings and counter-marchings of his Brown Shirts and the vaporings of some of their leaders gave the impression abroad that Germany was preparing for a war of revenge, and that the sooner Hitler took active measures to dispel that notion the better it would be for his chances of gaining the good-will of other nations. The coup followed soon after Hitler's return to Germany, and his conversations with Mussolini must have been an element in his decision.

Official Explanations That Explain Nothing.

What will be the effect in Germany of this massacre? It is difficult to tell. For the time being, it has established beyond demur the authority of Hitler—or at least of Hitler plus Goering. It is interesting that the task of giving the first explanation of the massacres was entrusted to Hess rather than to propaganda minister Goebbels.

Dr. Goebbels has since supplemented Hess' explanation. But he is so angry that his well-known sense of humor is completely paralyzed. He is too astute not to know that a denunciation of journalists abroad and of mutineers at home does not elucidate the mystery. The French revolution afforded an opportunity for its victims to state their case to a public tribunal before they were guillotined.

Why were the German "mutineers" not given a chance of defending themselves to their fellow countrymen? Not even charges against them were formulated. Goebbels' only answer is that foreign correspondents are liars and that the only truthful and noble journalism is that which is censored by Goering. It would have been more to the point if the famous Nazi orator had told us what the "mutiny" was about.

Asserts Real Power Rests With the Army.

What were its aims? In fact, were the stricken leaders not endeavoring to attain the same aim as Goebbels himself and proclaimed as the purpose of Nazi-ism?

Goebbels cannot be too pleased with the repression of the Leftists and the exaltation of military power. Hitler and Goering could not have achieved their gruesome task without action and the aid of the Reichswehr. They could not have relied upon their own drilled supporters to execute and defend their orders. That fact alters the whole political situation in Germany. Henceforth the real power rests with the regular army. Without its aid and protection the Nazi leaders are impotent and might today be filling the urns to which they have consigned the ashes of their critics.

But the officers of the Reichswehr are by no means National Socialists; they mostly belong to the Conservative and Junker families from which officers of the old army were drawn. The army will have as great a say in the determination of Germany's future as the Cromwellian Ironsiders had in their day.

Will they follow that precedent and declare for restoration of the old order? Hitler, Goering and Goebbels are now entirely in their hands.

Economic Conditions To Be Reckoned With.

Everything will depend on economic conditions during the coming months. They are not too bright. Bread lines and ration cards have already reappeared in Berlin and elsewhere. The drouth precludes the possibility of a bumper harvest. German exports are low and the gold reserve has almost vanished. Foreign purchases of corn can hardly be financed. They cannot be paid for unless Germany cuts off most of her imports of essential raw materials upon which her industries depend.

Chancellor Hitler says that German scientists will invent artificial cotton and wool and that, maybe by some alchemic process, they may produce golden copper. It is not impossible for they have already extracted nitrates from the air. But all these processes will take a long time to discover and a long time to perfect. Meanwhile winter will come.

And the winter will be faced by a bank-

American "New Deal" May Be Only The Last Hand Played in An Ancient Game, Says H. G. Wells

Noted Author Discussing the Great Change in Human Conditions Glimpses a World State.

By H. G. Wells.
Excerpts From His Article in the Current Issue of The American Magazine.
(Reprinted by Permission.)

HUMAN life is entering upon a new phase. In the last century and a half there has been an almost complete reversal of the material conditions under which mankind is living. It is still beyond the power of our minds to grasp this immense fact in its fullness. Partial realizations are spreading among us. We know now, in certain general terms, the nature of the emergency that has arisen, but we have still to realize in any effective manner how we are to meet the demands, dangers and opportunities of the new occasion.

Let us be frank with ourselves and one another and admit that none of us knows completely and clearly what has to be done. The new situation has arisen so swiftly and presents itself with such complexity that the very wisest are like men in an earthquake and there is no certainty and security in any reasonable mind. Nevertheless, it may be possible to define certain general principles of action regarding which more definite schemes of policy may presently arise.

It is impossible to attack the present human problem satisfactorily until we give its proper value to this reluctance and inability to devote energy to the common end. We have to face the psychological reality of the situation. We are beings evolved through a limited and individual struggle for existence. That is what has made our minds. Our minds are not made for the large-scale "planning" of which some of us talk so boldly nowadays; we have still to learn to think as a species. Law, custom, religion, and education are all in their several fashions methods of seizing upon and utilizing and prolonging the natural associations and dependencies of the mammalian family group into collective adult social life. Every forward step in social and political organization is a new effort and a new strain for the natural man. Even if he consent on principle to adaptation, a thousand conscious and subconscious urgencies in him will resist.

We Shirk Examination.

Individually and collectively we feel our inadequacy, and individually and collectively we tend to shirk a thorough examination, a sufficiently thorough examination to determine action, of the vast and intricate implications and imperatives of the Great Change that has occurred in human conditions. In the prospectives of human ecology—of analytical history—the League of Nations, the "planning" of President Roosevelt, the planning of Stalin, the Nazi movement, Fascism, the Kuomintang, and a universal revolutionary unrest, will all be seen plainly for what they are, inadequate responses to the challenge of the Great Change. Some are hysterically conservative and reactionary, like the Nazi movement; some are professedly constructive but dogmatically self-sufficient, like the planning state capitalism of Stalin. None as yet have the full width and boldness the occasion demands. Man is still experimenting much more than he is thinking. He is being swift, rash, and flimsy in many of his beginnings and then, in a fright at his own daring, he clings to such experiments as, for example, the League of Nations or the so-called dictatorship of the proletariat (Moscow pattern) long after every possible lesson has been learnt from it, when the time is over-ripe for it to be frankly superseded by a revised and extended second effort.

The open-minded observer who goes to Washington or Moscow, twin centers of reconstructive energy, finds a parallel refusal to recognize the nature of this common objective, the common drive toward a new life for all men. Either President Roosevelt and Mr. Stalin do not see that plainly or they dare not risk detaching themselves from the general body of their supporters by going too far ahead. Every leader of men is a man who is pulled at from behind; he is under a sort of obligation not to learn too rapidly or vary too perplexingly; he must at least keep on saying that he is saying and doing the same thing, and it is interesting to compare the President's recent book, "On the Way," with Stalin's latest report upon his past year's activities. The one insists that all he has done is in strict accordance with the American Constitution and the Spirit of the Fathers of the Republic; the other is equally emphatic that the teachings of Marx, Engel, and Lenin have been rigorously followed. In reality, both, driven by practically parallel necessities, are feeling their way, each from his own standpoint and in his own fashion, towards a state capitalism which is so far cosmopolitan that it is inaggressive and pacifist. Communists declare that Roosevelt is trying to adapt and bolster up profiteering capitalism, but his adaptations are all in the direction of reducing the profit-motive towards a vanishing point, as regimentation and the idea of service grow.

France Resists Change.

These two systems are far the most advanced in the general drift towards a human life replanned on a world-scale upon collectivist lines; the European states to the west of Russia display a great variety of reactions to that general drive, varying with their distinctive geographical, racial, and preexisting social conditions. Of all countries, France has made the most resistance to the changes of our times, and remains to this day the land of the competing "little man" living within the dimensions that were good enough for him in the eighteenth century. The Russian experiment is the most explicit in its aims and because it was first to come with action—it is most old-fashioned in its general formulae. The formulae that may presently crystalize out of the lunges and reconstructions of what is called "Western Capitalism" may probably be all the bolder and more apt and detailed because of this longer incubation.

It does not take long to pass from darkness to daylight, although there is never a moment when we can say this moment ends the night and begins the dawn. And in the same way there may never be any particular day or group of people or manifesto to indicate that this realization of the organized world-state as the rational common objective, which is even now seeping steadily into the human consciousness, has become operative in politics and the direction of affairs. It will pass insensibly from being extravagant into being a matter of course.

At no center are the activities, indecisions and fluctuations of this period of the half-light more evident than at Washington now. The very phrase "New Deal" is ambiguous. What the world needs is not a new deal of the old, worn cards of politics, but a new and larger game with different cards altogether.

The most interesting thing for the visitor to Washington at the present time is to hear what is said against the President. Hardly anything is said for him except that he is a charming, brave and perfectly honest man. And then, "But—" The summation in the mind of a disinterested observer of all that is said against him is

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Thorstein Veblen as a Humorist.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

SCATTERED over the State are a number of the University of Missouri alumni who had the good fortune (most probably unappreciated at the time) to attend the classes of Thorstein Veblen. This eminent teacher and author was one of a goodly number of truly great educators who have tarried for a short season with the University of Missouri. One of his former pupils has told me that he never emphasized a word or phrase in a lecture, so purely objective was his viewpoint and method. This former pupil says he never smiled in the class room, but on occasions there appeared a twinkle in the back window of his eye.

Here and there I have read glowing praise of the books that he has left behind him. I have seen the statement that his writings of 20 to 35 years ago are about the only books on economics, written during that period, that have stood the test of subsequent developments. I leave it to others better qualified to give his work its proper rating. But I know good reading when I like it, and I recognize genuine humor when it gives me pure joy. Thorstein Veblen had a twinkle in his soul. I am writing this letter in order to be the first to claim for him a high place among American humorists.

The choice is difficult, but let me give a sample of his humor. This appears as a footnote in one of his later books (1923), entitled "Absentee Ownership." A chapter in this book, headed "Captains of Industry," describes these heroes of an earlier day as adventurous creators and producers and traces their general metamorphosis into the present-day custodians of vested interests.

I quote a sentence from the text: "Under the changed circumstances, the spirit of venturesome enterprise is more than likely to foot up as a hunting of trouble, and wisdom in business enterprise has more and more settled down to the wisdom of 'watchful waiting.'"

Now the footnote: "Doubtless this form of words, 'watchful waiting,' will have been employed in the first instance to describe the frame of mind of a toad who has reached years of discretion and has found his appointed place along some frequented run where many flies and spiders pass and repass on their way to complete that destiny to which it has pleased an all-seeing and merciful Providence to call them; but by an easy turn of speech it has also been found suitable to describe the safe and sane strategy of that mature order of captains of industry who are governed by sound business principles. There is a certain bland sufficiency spread across the face of such a toad so circumstanced, while his comely personal bulk gives assurance of a pyramidal stability of principles."

Favors Saving Water.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I THINK the time has come, in the face of the protracted drouth, to practice economy in the use of water. Why is our Water Department silent on the subject? There is a waste of water caused by thoughtlessness. Not knowing what demands may be made on us for water by small communities near us, it would be well to be prepared to meet such emergencies. It will take a little time to teach people to be careful and not waste water, so why not start now—while we have it to save—rather than have it rationed out later?

Banking Conditions at Hermann.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN your editorial headed "Ungrateful Bankers," you seem to be so surprised that the majority of bankers voted No in the Literary Digest poll, and you seem to wonder why.

If you really wish to become enlightened and get some of the reasons, I ask you to come to Hermann, Mo., and investigate the banking condition of our city. I feel sure that after you had acquainted yourself with the true facts and learned of the deal we received from the State banking authorities, you would no longer marvel or ask why the bankers voted No. Our banking situation is in a deplorable condition. We have made every endeavor to correct and improve this situation in a legal and honest way, but have failed in every attempt.

An Economic Outcast.

ALTHOUGH just punishment may be given to the man who shot a father and son (the son fatally) in a recent jewelry store holdup, that will not restore a lost life, nor prevent such happenings in the future; nor will the building of bigger penitentiaries solve the problem.

The man who perpetrated this crime did it for only one purpose—to obtain money. Had society not failed in its duty, this man could have been reared in a decent environment. However, under our present system, which places profits before everything else, this individual, like millions of others, became an economic outcast. According to relief statistics in St. Louis, more than 60 per cent of all Negroes in the Beaumont district are on relief rolls.

FIGHT FOR PROCEDURAL REFORM.

One of the most important tests of candidates for the Legislature is their attitude toward reform of Missouri criminal procedure. As is well known, much of Missouri's criminal law was lifted from English procedure of a century ago when drastic penalties for minor offenses caused the creation of numerous safeguards around accused persons. Under present conditions, what once were proper safeguards have now become the means by which criminals, defended by tricky and unscrupulous lawyers, escape punishment. In every criminal trial that is held in this State, the law gives accused persons numerous advantages and makes successful prosecution of wrong-doers exceedingly difficult.

This situation has emboldened criminals, increased crime and demoralized prosecutors. In 1925 some of the better elements of the legal profession formed the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice and instituted a survey of Missouri's criminal procedure, the first of its kind in the United States. The results of the survey were published by the Macmillan Co. in a 600-page volume that attracted wide attention. Out of the studies of the investigators was distilled a sheaf of legislation designed to modernize and improve procedure, and to eradicate the many abuses now prevalent.

It might be supposed, since the State pioneered in this field, that it would also pioneer in the practical application of procedural reform. At the 1927 session of the Legislature, the Missouri Association presented its program of legislation, only to see it fail of passage. It was said at the time that the defeat was due to legislative pressure and to the Legislature's lack of time to give proper consideration to the subject. At the 1929 session, the program was again presented. It then became clear that a very hostile opposition to the bills had arisen among many of the lawyer-members, including some of the most powerful figures in the Legislature.

It may be asked why so obvious a reform as the revision of criminal procedure to protect society against malefactors should be opposed. It is because we elect to the Legislature lawyers who make their living defending criminals and who find the present antiquated system to the advantage of themselves and their clients. Such lawyers have been numerous in every legislative session. In 1929, with the exception of one or two measures, such as the establishment of a State police force, they were successful in slaughtering the Missouri Association's program. Most of the massacre was performed at secret committee meetings.

The program was a very comprehensive one, dealing with nearly every phase of the legal process. It provided for an equal number of jury challenges for the State and the defense, instead of the present system of giving the defense a marked advantage in selection of juries. It transferred, in several classes of cases, the power to fix punishment from jury to Judge, thus relieving juries of a responsibility they often lack courage to assume. It gave Judges the power to decide whether defendants charged jointly should be tried jointly or separately, instead of making severance mandatory. It made the failure of a defendant to testify a proper subject of comment by the prosecutor, instead of the present system by which such comment constitutes reversible error. It made more difficult the changing of venue, a favorite device of criminal lawyers. It attacked the present power of prosecutors to dismiss cases at will, giving Judges discretionary power to refuse the entering of a nolle prosequi. It sought to end bail bond abuses.

These are merely a few of the proposals. Many can readily be understood by the layman. Many others are technical and of significance chiefly to those who understand the intricacies of criminal practice, and the methods used by criminal lawyers to defeat justice. On the whole, the program would have made Missouri too hot a place for many of the criminals who now operate here.

A typical instance of legislative opposition to the Missouri Association's program occurred March 5, 1929, when two of the most important measures were considered by the Senate Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence. By the votes of Senators Buford, Donnelly, Bringes and Brogan, the committee declined to permit the bills to reach the Senate floor. We quote from a news report:

> The executive session of the committee at times was rather stormy and at times ludicrous. When the doors of the committee room were closed to outsiders, Senator Bates of St. Louis called up the bills.
> When the vote was called for on the first bill, Senator Buford said: "Those in favor say aye, those opposed say no, the noes have it."
> No vote was cast. Buford then left the room and the bill was put to a vote, there being four for favorable report and three against it. A moment later, when Buford returned to the room, he said the bill should be delayed as "some parties wish to be heard against it," but he was unable to name them. The vote to report was reconsidered and then beaten.

Such is the type of statesmanship Missouri has been tolerating. It is within the power of the voters to send to the Legislature men who will not murder a great reform, who will not put the interests of their criminal clients against the interests of the State, who will not encourage murder, kidnaping and robbery, who will not keep the State lashed to forms of procedure which are relics of the eighteenth century. Shysters are bad enough in the courtroom. When they are able to dominate the Legislature, it becomes time for a public uprising against them.

At the primary and election this year, the people will have an opportunity to send to Jefferson City a Legislature which will end the seven-year fight for reform of criminal procedure.

PIONEER.

It sounds incredible, but we have it on the authority of the Manchester Guardian that Prof. Harold J. Laski invaded the sacred Muscovite precincts of Bolshevism and actually exercised the right of free speech. He has not been placed before a firing squad; he has not even been sent to Siberia. On the contrary, he made his Communistic audience like it. Perhaps he did not succeed in penetrating "the dogmatic certitude of the Communist mind," as he expressed it, but at least he indulged himself in what in Russia is the rare luxury of speaking out in meeting.

When we Americans contemplate Russia, Italy, Germany and the other dictator-ridden European countries, where political discussions are held in whispers and behind closed doors, if they are held at all, we should rise and give three lusty cheers for Article I of the Bill of Rights. On consideration of the tragic plight of millions of European citizens, one gets a new conception of that freedom of utterance which is the basic right of every American. In introducing free speech to the Russians, Prof. Laski is like the man who first ate an oyster—he is brave.

MAY WE SPEAK OF THE WEATHER?

Mark Twain said that if any public official were responsible for the weather, he would not remain in office long enough to serve his first term. It is not given to human beings to "unscrew the inscrutable," as the old colored minister termed it; but it is given us to know science, and science really knows a great deal about the weather.

For instance, let us take the great drouth in the Southwestern United States. The meteorologists have discovered by examining growth rings in the trunks of trees that the Southwestern United States has sometimes been without moisture for periods ranging from five to 20 years. This method of measuring rainfall in the past was discovered by an English scientist, and our American meteorologists have found it as sound as a nut. Thanks to this yardstick, we know now when it has rained and when it has not rained all over the United States as far back as trees remain to tell the story. Since there are trees in the sequoia forests of California that were full grown when Julius Caesar was assassinated, this is a fairly complete record.

During the recent dust storms, the Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy at Rolla collected some of the dust. It was found to contain feldspar, mica and other elements peculiar to the soils of the Dakotas; but these were not the first dust storms we have had in the United States. Much of the soil structure of the Union has been due to dust storms.

We have no means of knowing the significance of such a great natural phenomenon as that which now afflicts the Northern Hemisphere. It may mean nothing more than that nature is enjoying a caprice. Or it may mean that she is beginning one of her great transformations. The Mongolia which poured the hordes of Genghis Khan upon Europe was not always the desert it is today. It was made a desert by those shifting air currents which carry moisture. They one time played across Northern Africa, to make it a watered region and the chief habitat of man in the Western world. When they shifted across the Mediterranean, they took man with them. They turned Africa over to the archeologists. When the Mayas built the great city of Chichen-Itza, in Yucatan, that region was favored by a condition of nature which made it vastly more habitable than it is today. The great air currents which make the land habitable altered their course, and Yucatan was delivered to the chicle hunters and the insects.

From the beginning of time, man has wandered over the face of earth seeking the fertile and habitable ground necessary to his subsistence. The great exodus of the Indian tribes out of the Southwestern United States, a primitive culture which left its ruins throughout Arizona and New Mexico, was caused by the failure of moisture. More than one scientist believes that much of the region east of the Rocky Mountains is to become desert. Year after year, the sand encroaches upon the grass. Year after year, the habitable fringe is pushed farther back. It may mean nothing, but——

We are not ordinarily forbidden to talk about the weather because it is a little and a hollow topic. We instinctively avoid it because it is much bigger than human comprehension. We are in a way its creatures, and to a degree we live or die by its whims. Time and again, the weather has sent whole nations packing.

Ours is the task of making habitable an ever-changing planet, one whose inexorable law is "Root, hog, or die."

BRITISH RENTAL BARGAINS.

Harry L. Hopkins, director of Federal relief activities, who is visiting England, will study methods in use there for possible adoption in America. One thing Mr. Hopkins will find in England is a tremendous movement for new housing for workers, consisting mainly of cottages. The remarkable thing about the British plan is that these cottages will rent for between $8 and $12 a month. In New York City, mass housing schemes call for rentals of about $11 per room per month. One official has stated that this could be reduced to $5 per room per month if investors would be content with a return of 2 per cent. In St. Louis, a mass housing project will rent apartments at $19.50 per month and up, including heat, water, gas and electricity. Elsewhere in the country, rates will be about the same.

If Mr. Hopkins can find out by what economies the British bring housing costs to their amazingly low level and can put some plan of the same sort into effect in this country, his trip will have been highly worth while.

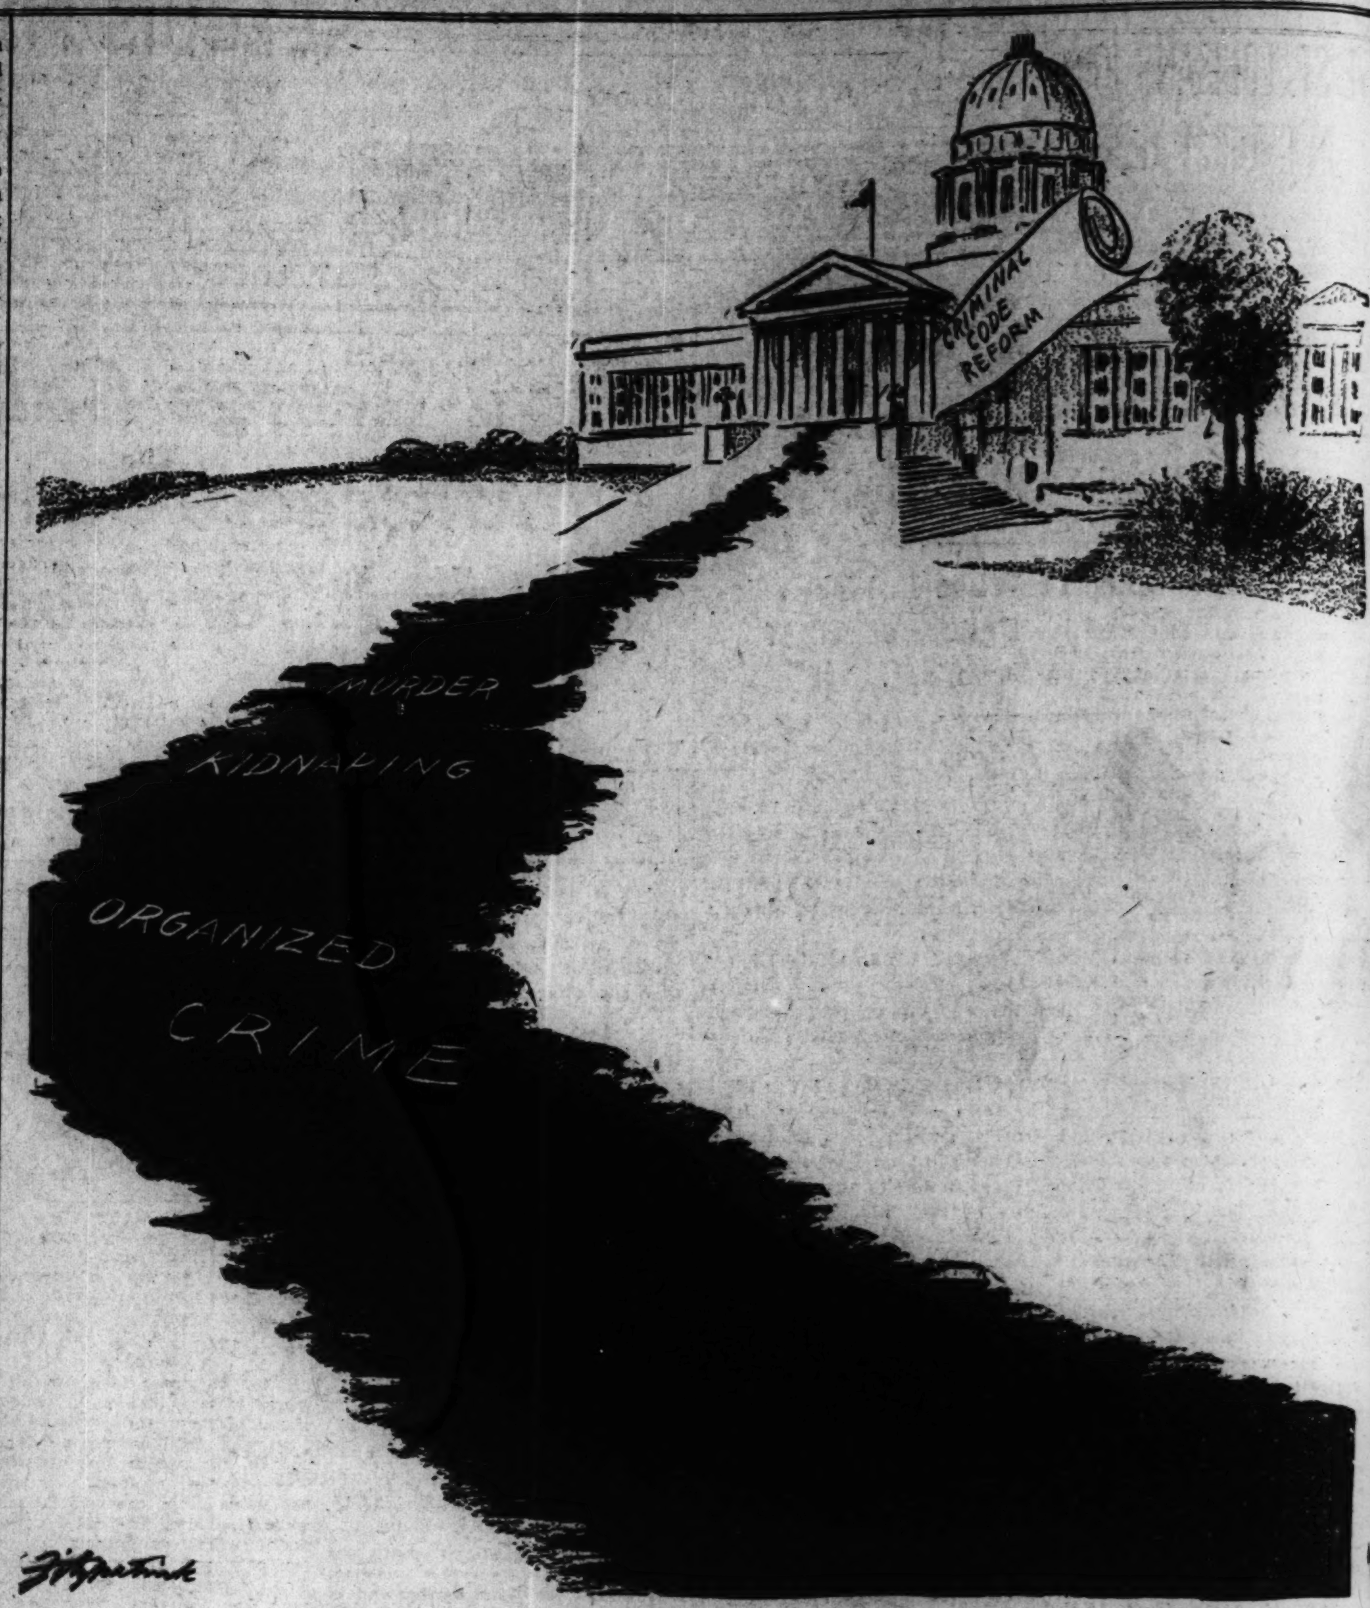
DON'T OVERLOOK THE HOUSE SEATS.

The bitter fight for the Democratic nomination for the senatorship now held by Roscoe C. Patterson should not be permitted to obscure the need for careful consideration of candidates for Missouri's 13 seats in the national House of Representatives.

With the primary yet to be held, it is known already that at least four of the present delegation will not sit in the House in the Congress which meets in January. Two of the veterans, Representatives Cochran and Milligan, will be lost to the lower branch through their entry into the Senate seat contest. Three other sitting members, Representatives Ruffin, Wood and Dickinson, the latter being the oldest man in Congress, are opposing one another in the new Sixth District, their residences having been thrown into the same district by the last Legislature's revision of the congressional districts.

The remaining eight members of the present delegation are seeking to succeed themselves, but in only two instances (Representatives Cannon of Elsberry and Shannon of Kansas City) are they without opposition. Some of them are meeting with lively resistance, and it will not be surprising if the primary causes several retirements to private life. Add to this the hurdle of the general election, which even the Democrats concede will lessen the majority strength, and it would seem that the Missouri delegation probably stands to be altered further in November.

Other things being equal, a sizable turnover in a state's House delegation temporarily weakens its importance, in that the new members must begin at the bottom in the committee system. That, however, is no argument against needed replacements. Here, then, is another reason why Missouri should give closest attention to the present campaign. The primary determines the character of the candidates who will be voted on in November. Let every voter in every district go to the polls Aug. 7, fully realizing that fundamental fact.



THE TRAIL LEADS TO THE LEGISLATURE.

"Of Making Many Books"

JOHN G. NEIHARDT

A Distinguished Novel

PRIVATE WORLDS. By Phyllis Bottome. (Houghton Mifflin Co., New York City.)

TO SAY that the scene of "Private Worlds" is laid in a psychopathic hospital would naturally give the impression that Phyllis Bottome has written a morbid novel. But to add, what is true, that the resultant mood of the book is the opposite of depressing and that even in details there is no morbidity in the handling, is to indicate a depth and breadth of understanding in the author that is rare among contemporary novelists.

The action of the story is concerned only incidentally with the patients, whose private twilight worlds, nevertheless, serve as a revealing background for the psychological complexities of the technically sane principal characters, who also have their own "private worlds," not always perfectly adjusted to the general world of conventional realities.

Dr. Jane Everest, a maiden lady in the thirties, has, for five years, been as another self to Dr. Alec Macgregor, assistant director of the institution, and while each has greatly depended upon the other in their professional duties, there has been no conscious relationship between them other than that of trust and mutual aid.

Into this busy world of theirs, to which, apparently, they are perfectly adjusted, a man and woman enter to throw the whole scheme of things out of balance, though neither is, for some time, aware of the disturbing forces. Macgregor marries, and Sally, his naive and joyous child-wife, shares her husband's trust and admiration of Dr. Jane.

At the same time, a new superintendent of the institution, Dr. Charles Drummond, is appointed, and Macgregor, embittered by the loss of the post which he had hoped to receive, loses his grip on himself, and, wholly out of pique, enters into a flirtation with the beautiful and treacherous sister of the new superintendent, whose shady past includes a trial for the murder of her husband. Meanwhile, Dr. Jane is falling in love with Drummond, and he with her, though neither as yet is able to admit the reality of the developing situation.

The psychological complications that are developed as a result of Alec's flirtation, Sally's secret response thereto, the unacknowledged feeling that is growing between Dr. Jane and the superintendent, and the hatred of Alec for the latter, become so involved that they can scarcely be sketched, but they are handled by the author with such subtle insight and comprehension that the situation becomes as intensely dramatic as though the scarcely conscious forces at work were visibly at grips in the objective world.

The climax is reached when Alec, returning home late after an evening with Myra, which he has determined shall be the last, finds his wife on the verge of death. An immediate operation is necessary, and while the formerly hated Dr. Drummond performs it, a profound change takes place in the husband's attitude. He not only comes to realize the depth of his love for Sally, but also the depth of the love that has grown up between the new superintendent and Jane.

There now comes a notable scene, unlike any other this writer can recall. Dr. Drummond, aware of his love, but denying it to himself out of fear, discharges Dr. Jane on the ground that her influence with Alec is bad for Sally; but while Jane is packing late at night to leave in the morning, Alec reveals to Drummond what the real situation is, and the result is, of course, a happy ending all around.

But, surely, seldom in fiction has there been a courtship so strikingly original and so convincingly described as is that of the rather dour bachelor, Drummond, and Jane, the intellectual maiden lady.

Vanity, fear, and the misunderstandings incidental thereto, create the "private worlds" of the principal characters, as of the psychopathic patients in the background. These serve as prisons for their creators until the walls are broken down and they are freed to share the larger world with others. Or better still, these "private worlds" may be likened to the short-circuiting of personality, and the ultimate release to the restoring of the long circuit, the frictionless flow of the impersonal tide of life. "If I lose myself I save myself" could well have been chosen as a text for this tale.

In every way, this is truly a distinguished novel.

VITALITY. By Boris Sokoloff. (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York City.)

DR. BORIS SOKOLOFF is known throughout the world as one of the foremost authorities on cancer, to the study of which he has devoted many years in the laboratories of great medical institutions of two continents. He was formerly professor of experimental medicine at Lesgaft's University, and member of the Institute of Science, at Petrograd. In this country, he has worked as a guest at the Rockefeller Institute, at the Cancer Institute of Columbia University and, some six years ago, at our own Washington University. At present, he is associated with the International Cancer Prophylactic Institute.

His scientific works, some written in German, some in French and some in English, are highly regarded in the medical world, and in addition he is the author of several notable volumes of fiction, at least one of which, a volume of short stories, is based upon his personal experiences. For Dr. Sokoloff, in addition to his career as a student of biological problems, has known life in high moments such as only a few in a generation ever know. As a close associate of Kerensky, he was one of the outstanding leaders of the Russian Revolution, and certainly one of the wiser leaders, as at least one reader of Trotzky's great "History" has inferred.

After the fall of Kerensky and the triumph of the Bolsheviks, he experienced some all-but-incredible adventures during the civil war that ensued. It might be supposed that the latter aspect of his life matters little in considering him as a scientist; but it matters a great deal, for it is the philosophical outlook of the man, the deep humanness of him, that distinguish his approach to the mystery of life from that of shallower men who have hoped to explain that mystery by regarding it only in its purely mechanistic aspects.

Dr. Sokoloff prefaces the present study of vitality by emphasizing his conviction that the life force reveals intelligence in its operations—and this, surely, is a long way from the position of the old cocksure "materialist" of the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

It would scarcely be fair to the author to attempt a sketch of a work that is the result of long and patient research. The whole must be read; and no one who is interested in the maintenance of his vital energy and the postponement of old age will find the book in the least dull; for he will find it much more than the elaboration of a theory.

The purpose of the study is to explain the origin of lactic acid in the living organism and its function of neutralizing the poisons produced by the system. It is Dr. Sokoloff's belief, based upon many experiments, that auto-intoxication is the prime factor in the aging process; and by way of illustration, he considers from the medical viewpoint the lives of various great men, notably Goethe and Napoleon.

In conclusion, Dr. Sokoloff makes the following statement, which accurately presents his approach to the subject:

"This book is not an outburst of optimism. It is profoundly realistic. It has pointed out all the weaknesses of the human organism, and all the difficulties which hinder us from preserving our vitality. But, while remaining deeply realistic, this book attempts to show, almost with awe, the amazing, nearly miraculous potentialities in human bodies, our great possibilities, never yet fully exploited, because of our lack of knowledge in the use of self."

FIRST CHILDHOOD. By Lord Berners. (Farrar & Rinehart, New York City.)

THOSE who enjoy intimate revelations of character with, perhaps, an occasional touch of well-bred malice, should find no little delight in this suavely frank account of the author's childhood experiences at home and at his first school. It is not an exciting book in the least, but it reveals unobtrusively an extraordinary intelligence and a sense of humor as deep as it is quiet.

Lord Berners, now 51 years old, was for many years in the diplomatic service and has published a number of musical works, including an opera. The amusing character of the book seems to grow largely out of the discrepancy between the author's unfailing dignity of manner and the irreverence with which he depicts even his most irreproachable characters. For instance, his formidable grandmother is described thus:

"The appearance of Lady Bourchier was not unlike Holbein's portrait of Bloody Mary, with a touch of Charley's Aunt." The lace cap the lady wore, with its "two large melancholy black bows on it," always made him think of "crows perching on a Methodist church." In fact, all her clothing was a bit queer, and her dresses "appeared to possess the faculty of increasing or diminishing in volume, like the sails of a ship. It was rumored that, concealed beneath her skirts, there was an elaborate system of strings and pulleys for raising her petticoats off the ground whenever she walked in the garden. Whether this was the case or not, I imagine nobody ever ventured to probe."

FIVE ST. LOUISANS JOIN IN CHURCH APPEAL

Members of National Committee for Religion and Welfare Recovery.

Five St. Louisans are members of the National Committee for Religion and Welfare Recovery, which yesterday issued "a call and a program for strengthening and undergirding the moral and spiritual forces of the nation."

They are: Walter W. Head, president of the General American Life Insurance Co., chairman of the national committee; the Rev. Loren M. Edwards, pastor of Grace Methodist Church; F. M. Rogers, general secretary of the National Benevolent Association; the Rev. Jay T. Stocking, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church and chairman of the Commission on Missions of the General Council of Congregational and Christian Churches; and Aaron Waldheim, capitalist.

St. Joseph Man a Member.

One other Missourian on the committee is John C. Horning of St. Joseph.

The committee describes itself as "a co-operative educational movement in the interest of all religious, philanthropic, cultural and character-building agencies." It does not propose any new federation or agency but seeks moral and financial support in retrieving losses of the last four years.

In its call, the committee expresses gratification at evidences of the nation's economic recovery but asserts that "the great scientific, economic and social development of the times may prove of doubtful permanent value, unless there can be commensurate development of moral and spiritual resources."

Great Slump in Income.

As to finances of religious and character-building agencies, the call says:

"The income of religious and private character-building institutions decreased from approximately $1,101,000,000 in 1929 to $435,000,000 in 1932, a drop of more than 60 per cent in four years' time. Financial support continued to fall off in 1933 and a further decrease is threatened in 1934. From this drastically reduced income must be paid irreducible fixed charges, interest, insurance, rents, etc., leaving tragically inadequate support for active, progressive, constructive, statesmanlike ministry. Coincident with this devastating decrease in income has been an almost unprecedented increase in calls for service. The very forces that reduce the income increase the demands. The result is a vicious circle.

"Federal, state and municipal funds to the extent of approximately $15,000,000,000 are being made available for industrial and Government relief agencies. None of these Government funds is available for churches and private philanthropy, but the very creation of these funds from taxation makes it more difficult to secure gifts for church and private agencies. During these four years of depression the church has been a most loyal and invaluable ally of Government and general relief agencies. Every nation-wide financial drive, whether it has been a Red Cross Roll Call, a Community Chest Campaign or an NRA appeal, has sought and received the generous, almost indispensable cooperation of the churches in reaching the public."

S. A. Spirit Shattered.

Whether Hitler goes through with his promise to Thyssen and Von Hindenburg to disband the S A. (Sturmtruppen) or not, it is evident that the esprit de corps of that once-powerful organization is shattered. Leaderless, with the Supreme Storm Detachment Staff dissolved and most of its officers dead, the various groups do not know where to turn. The new group leaders have made many "examples" and the average storm trooper is now glad to get out from under the brown shirt. Once that was an open sesame—a badge which enabled him to solicit funds, terrify shop keepers and do much as he pleased. It gave many Communists free meal tickets and a comfortable place to sleep although deep in their inner consciousness they cherished the hammer and sickle rather than the swastika emblem. Until he was designated as Capt. Roehm's successor Commander Victor Lutze was almost an unknown. To suppose he will be able to reorganize the troopers, and rekindle their former enthusiasm and fanatic fervor is permissible, but almost preposterous.

It is in the S. S. or Gen. Goering's personal body guards that Hitler's only hope lies in breaking the grip which the Reichswehr has over him. But Goering is not anxious to break that grip—for Hitler. It would interfere with his "succession plans." Eventually the fight may narrow down to Hitler and his Reichswehr "prompters" and Goering and his S. S. troops and Secret Service organization. The Reichswehr has the organization and arms, but the S. S. —which doubles the 100,000 regular army in numbers—is a formidable unit. With its rival, the S. A., out of the picture it may easily become more arrogant than the Fascist Black Shirt Militia of Mussolini. Besides Gen. Goering holds the Air Force of Germany in his palm and that alone can become a dangerous weapon, either against Hitler or the Von Papen group.

While Goering stands strong with the monarchists and the Industrialists, and many land owners and ex-aristocracy, he is a bitter enemy of Von Papen. The feud is personal, however, and may be arranged. Goering is said to have had Von Papen, as well as his associate Von Tschirsky, on the list of those to be shot. His men succeeded in removing only Von Bose, the propaganda secretary of Von Papen and his private secretary Edgar Yung, from the scene.

His threat, uttered at the Leipzig trial, when Torgler was acquitted, that if the court did not do its duty, he personally would see that Torgler was taken care of, also seems to have been fulfilled—unless it really is true that Torgler died a "natural death" in prison.

Men Behind Hitler.

While Hitler now keeps the outward appearance of holding power, behind him move Von Papen and Gen. Goering—two implacable enemies. And behind them stands Generals von Fritsch—the real power behind the throne—and Von Hammerstein, and Gen. von Blomberg, rulers of the Reichswehr. And behind the Reichswehr have always been—at least thus far, the industrialists of the Ruhr, Saar and Rhineland and the Berlin capitalists.

In the offing, however, still remain the disillusioned and resentful German masses. Again the watchword is heard:

"Fuhrer, Fuhrer, give us bread, lest tomorrow we turn Red."

And the answer that is being given them is:

"Heute rot? morgen tot." Today Red?—tomorrow dead!"

The ignorance of the general public in Berlin, and also in the provincial capitals, of what has happened and is happening, is abyssmal. News these days travels by word of mouth in Germany. Everytime a story is repeated it is exaggerated. Finally it becomes fantastic.

The people are still being told that the country was threatened by civil war, yet there never was any evidence of it before the "clean-up." They are asked to believe that a counter-revolution, with the overthrow of their demi-god, Fuhrer Hitler, would have broken out all over Germany on Saturday had not Hitler and Goering moved silently and relentlesly on Friday night. Yet they know that Group Leader Ernst was preparing to sail for the Madiera Islands on a vacation, Capt. Roehm was on sick leave and in bed when captured, Gen. von Schleicher was working in his flower beds and the terrible Heines was indulging his sadistic instincts (if Goebbels official communique is true).

S. A. Is Apprehensive.

In the Nazi press every effort is being made to reassure the apprehensive Brownshirts (S. A.) that everything will soon be all right. Their "vactaion" of a month is to be temporary, during which time the new General Staff will reorganize the Storm Troop detachments and weed out traitorous leaders. But most of them know better. They see ahead a long hard winter with no Brownshirts to open the pocketbooks of the fearful housewives, from whom they solicited funds, or warm barracks to house them. The "Voluntary Labor Camps" is the best that they can envisage at the moment.

"Schwindel, alles ist schwindel," commented a middle-aged woman who conducted a fruit stand near the hotel, when asked what she thought of recent happenings. For most of the common people it is beginning to take on the aspect of a huge swindle.

Hitler, they say guardedly, has been in office a year and a half. He has carried out none of his promises. Things have been getting worse instead of better. They would not mind that so much if he had attempted to put his theories into practice. The Totalitarian state was scrapped; the land reforms failed to materialize; the persecution of Jews did not appeal to the average German and the treatment accorded the Catholic Church and the quarrel with the Protestant bishops made many enemies.

Then the greatest complaint against Der Fuhrer, who nevertheless still remains much of a demigod, is that he sold out his closest comrades to the Capitalists.

The genesis of the break between Hitler and Gregor Strasser, for example came in January, 1933, when Strasser's scheme of calling a general strike throughout the Reich and a march on Berlin similar to Mussolini's march on Rome, was turned down by Hitler, who at the moment was in negotiations with Herr Thyssen and other Industrialists. Had Hitler followed the tactics of Strasser and his group he would have taken over the Government without any obligations to Big Business and Von Papen's clique.

NEW POLITICAL PARTY SEEKS MIDDLE COURSE FOR CUBA

Former President De Cespedes Hopes to Draw Leftists and Rightists Into Centrist Group.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, July 21.—In an effort to reconcile Cuba's warring political factions, former President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes has begun a centrist party which he hopes will draw to its fold both leftists and rightists. With a platform based on the idea that a "sound, sane, centrist party is the political salvation of Cuba," De Cespedes has just finished a tour of the eastern provinces of the island.

Whether De Cespedes will be a candidate for the presidency in the December elections has not been announced.

Speaking in all the important towns of the interior, De Cespedes called on Cubans to put patriotism above political or social prejudices. On his recent trip, from Matanzas to Oriente, he expounded as the idea on which his centrist party is based: "That Cuba's ship of state should not be steered to the right or to the left; that a center course is the best. Both rightists and leftists have in turn carried the country to the brink of the abyss."

LLOYD GEORGE CALLS HITLER DEED MASSACRE AND READS A MORAL

rupt country. The killing of Gen. von Schleicher and Ernst Roehm will not help the Nazi Government to deal with that situation. Unemployment must go up and food supplies go down. There are large land tracts in East Prussia upon which Hitler could quarter hundreds of thousands of the jobless. But those lands belong to the Junkers. Will they let go? So far they have resisted and defeated every endeavor to colonize those woods and wastes. Are they likely to change their minds now that their army has achieved unchallenged power?

If they remain obdurate—and they are just the type—then the Hitler Government is doomed.

"Conspirators" Gone But Problem Remains.

Whatever may have been the moral indiscretions and delinquencies of Roehm and his coadjutors, that was not the cause of their sudden dispatch to another world. Nazi-ism had got stuck. Its powerful patrons, the men on the right, were forbidding the only economic action which would help the problem of unemployment and distress. The "conspirators" wanted to move on. The Junkers, financiers and industrialists who stood in the way became alarmed and called upon Hitler to remove this menace from the Left. The leaders of advanced ideas were shot; the forces behind them have been demobilized and intimidated. But the problem remains. Hitler has not the means to solve it. He has closed the door of opportunity and set the Reichswehr to guard it. But they are also guarding the chancellery and keeping a vigilant eye on its occupant.

NRA AGAINST FARE REFUNDS TO BUYERS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 21.—A 45-year-old trade promotion practice, that of repayment of railway fares of buyers visiting the wholesale market of St. Louis, was frowned on today by the NRA.

The NRA refused to grant St. Louis merchants an exemption, holding that a distinction could not be made for a single trading area.

The case was brought before the NRA by the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce in behalf of its membership and that of the Merchants' Transportation Association.

Robert L. Houston, division administrator, cited the supplemental code of fair competition for the wholesale druggist trade, which contains the provision that the refunding of transportation charges shall be considered an unfair method of competition.

The St. Louis merchants asked for the exemption on the plea that the St. Louis area suffers a disadvantage at present because railroad rates to Chicago, a competing market, are lower than from many points in the St. Louis trading area to St. Louis, due to the Century of Progress Exposition.

'NEW DEAL' MAY BE LAST HAND IN OLD GAME, SAYS H. G. WELLS

a conviction that for a statesman he is quite exceptionally the right man in the right place. His last book is entitled "On the Way," and the standard criticism is to ask "Whither?" The standard answer is to say that he doesn't know. But the exciting thing about him, as about Stalin, is that he, too, has more of the appearance of having modern objectives, however incompletely apprehended, than anyone else in the world. If he made or sought to make for others or for himself a more definite statement of the socialist cosmopolis that is dawning upon us, he would not be where he is. They say he is open to every breeze of suggestion, but could there be any better leader than a responsive leader in a world of changing aspects? No doubt the winds of Washington blow from all points of the compass.

"Steering East by West."

It is a little perplexing to the inquiring visitor to hear one minister apparently in love with the mysticism of Mr. Belloc's Distributive State and another full of planned collective employment. At times one feels that the Federal Government is steering east by west. But, anyhow, the President broaches things. He is, they allege, a subtle politician, a man who can put things over and through. But no one accuses him of putting things over and through for base or unworthy ends. Broaching things, bringing them out of the dim light of speculation and suggestion into range with practical reality, seems to be one of the great services that the United States, through its conspicuous, audible President, may do for the whole world.

Congress, it has been said, embodies the present sectional interests of America, but the President belongs to the future and mankind. Wilson broached (however ineffectually) the idea of a world superstate; Franklin Roosevelt broaches the idea of evolving without any catastrophic destruction a scientifically planned economic system out of our present profiteering jumble. It is quite effective criticism to say that both cosmopolis and planned economy are premature—that the world is unprepared for them; that there are no educational and cultural substratum, no adequate blue prints, no civil service class with the necessary morale, for the carrying out of these vast preparations. But everything must be premature at first, and the role of every great leadership is primarily preparatory. If the necessary means are not ready, then it is high time they were got ready. In the past it seemed to Europeans that, locked in their constitution and their tradition of business individualism, the Americans were totally destitute of political imagination, that their politicians were bound to be party politicians forever and their economic life a scuffle to make money. Their mental stirrings, now, their imminent awakening, under the stress of economic failure and strange opportunity, to the demands of the great future before our race, are —because of their visibility, audibility and material importance—the outstanding events of the present time.

"Last Hand in Old Game."

The New Deal may change many things in America, socialize this and modernize that in labor conditions and financial method, and still be no more than the last hand played in an old game.

The stirring up of men's minds, the expansion of the political imagination, the accumulation of ideas and courage for bolder fundamental changes which have accompanied it, are something more permanent and important. In Britain and France there may soon be a new deal also. Russia has a new deal every five years. Below all these processes the great effort of the world-state gathers form and possibility in men's minds.

A time is coming when we shall all be saying, "To the devil with parties and divisions and nations," and sweep and spill the worn old decks of cards aside and put all the tables together.

The past 15 years is a record of industrial and economic storms and stresses unparalleled in the history of the world since the great devastations of pestilence in medieval times. Everywhere, in the absence of any general scheme with any general appeal, there is a desperate resort to insulation, to salvage through an artificial self-sufficiency, involving lower standards of life, greater exposure to local accidents of shortage and a dwindling capacity to sustain material welfare. The social irritations and anxieties of this continual economic pressure between communities, supply all the driving forces needed to precipitate the accumulation of war possibilities, and make still more imperative the demand for an organized world intelligence and world will, to override these tragic and necessary consequences of our present patchwork management of the common interests of mankind.

First Channel Flyer Looks At Aviation 25 Years After

Louis Bleriot Finds Planes of Today Embody Same Principles as One He Used July 25, 1909.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 21.—Louis Bleriot, who flew the English channel 25 years ago, believes the future of commercial flying lies in planes of the present-day type, perfected in motor and line.

"We must conquer the wind," he said. "The greater the speed the greater the risk from air pressure."

The planes of today, he said, follow the principles he successfully tested on the historic Sunday morning of July 25, 1909.

"There isn't much to say about that flight, as I remember it now," said Bleriot. "It was all over in half an hour, but within it I had a difficult 10 minutes. That was when I was between the sky and the water, with both the French and English coasts lost to view.

Blown Off Course.

"There was a light fog and the wind was blowing me off my course. I had no compass. So I gripped the steering rod between my feet and trusted to luck. After I got across the channel I found myself north of Dover and had to turn back.

"If I had fallen into the sea, I doubt if I would have survived, for I was using crutches, because of an accident several weeks earlier at Douai.

"The Government sent a torpedo boat and a torpedo-boat destroyer to pick me up in case of accident, but the plane soon outstripped them. I could see clearly a submarine which was submerged in the channel.

"In landing the plane was damaged, but I wasn't hurt. Journalists and English officials greeted me."

Bleriot showed a photograph, which pictured him in a pre-war automobile beside Lord Northcliffe, who donated the cup and the $5000 which constituted his reward.

10 Crashes in Tests.

Bleriot had smashed 10 crude planes in test flights before he accomplished his channel hop.

"I must confess that I am proud," he said, "that the plane in which Codos and Rossi twice flew the Atlantic is of the same mechanical conception as that in which I flew the channel.

"The airplane, of course, is still far from its final form. I envisage the day when aquatic autogiros, for instance, will fly the Atlantic. The autogiro principle would eliminate the present difficult take-off of a seaplane from the water.

"Stratosphere flying is possible, but is far in the future and is unlikely to be used for passenger service. If something went wrong while the plane was in the stratosphere, if the cabin cracked for instance, the occupants would be lost.

"Except for sport flying, perhaps the next generation won't see much greater speed or altitude from airplanes. Lindbergh and I agree that a speed of 155 to 160 miles an hour is the best for regular commercial flying, including that over the ocean."

Bleriot has not flown the channel since 1929, on the twentieth anniversary of his famous hop. He has not piloted a plane for ten years.

His health has been poor lately—he is 62 years old—but if it improves, he intends to visit Canada in August. If he does, he hopes also to visit the United States and see Col. Lindbergh, who owns a piece of the propeller of Bleriot's channel-crossing plane, exchanged for a strip of fabric from Lindbergh's "Spirit of St. Louis."

CHILEAN NITRATE INDUSTRY TAKEN OVER BY NEW FIRM

Sponsors Say It Can Supply All Demands, and Has Metal Mines Also.

By the Associated Press.

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 31.—Cosack, the former Government-owned nitrate corporation and political football, has been taken over by the newly former Nitrate Company of Tarapaca and Antofagasta.

The new company was created at a stockholders' meeting in Valparaiso, which effected the liquidation of the old Compania Salitrea de Chile.

The firm has 90 plants strung along Northern Chile from Pisagua to Taltal, five of which are working and 15 of which are reported as ready to work, with good installations and large reserves. Its sponsors say it is able to supply all demands for potash nitrate and has copper, gold and silver veins to mine also.

CITY BIRTH RATE OFF, INCREASE IN DEATHS

Natural Reduction of 409 in Population for First Half of 1934.

A slight decline in the birth rate, and a substantial rise in the death rate during the first half of 1934, combined to effect a natural decrease of 409 in the city's population, a condition which, if maintained for the rest of the year, would be unique in the city's history.

The Health Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics found, in a survey of its records for the past six months, that there had been 6176 deaths and 5767 births. The birth rate, 13.7 per 1000 of population, declined but .2 of 1 per cent from last year, but the death rate rose from 12.9 to 14.7, a difference of 13.5 per cent.

Infant deaths have increased by 36 per cent, deaths of mothers in childbirth have nearly doubled, nearly twice as many have died of pneumonia, and fatal accidents have increased by more than 50 per cent, the records show.

The infant death rate for the first half of this year was 67.8 per 1000 live births, compared with 49.5 last year. Among Negroes the infant death rate was 106, and among white people, 61.3. The death rate for mothers, 4.4 a year ago, has increased to 8.4. For Negro mothers the rate this year has been 15.1, and for white mothers, 7.2.

Pneumonia has caused 668 deaths so far this year, cancer, 681, and tuberculosis, 280, the figures for the last two being only slightly more than in the first half of last year. Deaths from diabetes, 143, showed a decline of 10.

The bureau recorded 23 deaths from heat exhaustion during May and June of this year, compared with only four in those months of 1933.

Fatal accidents increased from 238 in the first half of 1933 to 364 this year. Included were 80 automobile accidents, 10 more than in the first half of 1933.

Homicides totaled 70, compared with 64 in the corresponding period of 1933, and suicides, 94, compared with 100.

BRANCH LIBRARIANS FAVORED BY BOOK BORROWERS IN JUNE

Sixty-six per cent of the total number of books issued by the Public Library during June were taken out at the 14 branch stations of the library. The total issued was 226,328, with 149,584 being taken out at the branch stations.

The branches always gain in circulation during summer, the library said, because patrons want to avoid coming to the hot downtown district.

Favorites among the books include, "I Went to Pit College," by Lauren Gilfillan; "Men Against the Sea," by Charles Nordhoff, and James Norman Hall; and "Unfinisher Cathedral," by T. S. Stribling.

Huge Reproductions of Jungle Animals in 'Live Power' Parade

Standard Oil Co. Caravan Will Traverse Streets Here Next Friday and Saturday.

An unusual parade will be held in St. Louis next Friday and Saturday afternoons when the Standard Oil Co.'s "Live Power" show will traverse the city streets, rain or shine.

The chief feature of the parade will be reproductions of jungle animals, three to four times the size of the originals and mounted on big circus trucks.

The apparent "live power" of the animals is due to special mechanical effects, which cause their heads, legs and bodies to move. Circus parade music will be provided by three sound trucks in the long procession.

The entire parade will be on wheels. All of the floats are reminiscent of the Mardi Gras in New Orleans, the huge, seemingly alive animals taking the place of the grotesque figures of the Southern city's annual festival.

The Standard Oil Co. has three of these parade caravans, routed to cover the key cities and highways of Missouri, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska and Colorado. The parade was devised to call national attention to the company's big, free wild animal show in the Red Crown ampitheater on the Chicago Century of Progress Fair Grounds.

Among the animals represented in the parade will be the big jungle cats, elephants, kangaroos and others.

A crew of 75 men accompanies and operates the parade, including mechanicians, truck operators, sound effects experts and circus experts.

The animal reproductions were built by experts on wild animal life, among them noted artists and sculptors. Each is mounted on a base which is an exact reproduction of the soil and rocks of the animal's habitat.

The Standard Oil Co. ordered the replicas from a concern in Omaha that specializes in this kind of work. Wild animals from Africa, India, Sumatra, Brazil and Australia were used as models.

Effort was made to make the reproductions perfect in the minutest details. As a result, the parade is said to have marked educational value in addition to its spectacular effects from the entertainment viewpoint.

The hours and routes for the parades follow:

Friday, 10 to 11:15 a. m., Seventh and Chouteau in Chouteau, to Grand to Laclede, Laclede to Newstead, Newstead to Olive.

Friday, 1 to 3 p. m., Newstead and Olive, in Newstead to Washington, Washington to Twelfth street, Twelfth to Olive, Olive to Lindell, Lindell to Newstead, Newstead to Olive.

New Sealed Cooling System Now Built Into All Hupp Cars

A new development, now being installed on all Hupmobile cars, eliminates the need of constant addition of water to a car cooling system. This new development is known as "Sealed Cooling" and its name best describes it.

The chief difference between the sealed cooling system and the ordinary water circulating system is that the overflow pipe of the former is closed and its action governed by a unique dual valve arrangement, and the ordinary filler cap is replaced by a special cap containing this valve.

One of the two valves releases fluid or vapor to the overflow pipe when internal pressure is above 3½ pounds per square inch. The other prevents the formation of any undesirable vacuum within the system.

The former and larger valve is the key to the success of the system. Since it seals the cooling system, the boiling point of water is automatically raised from the normal 212 degrees Fahrenheit at sea level to approximately 225 degrees. Therefore, the loss of water through the formation of steam passing out through the overflow pipe is reduced to a minimum.

The constant addition of alcohol as an anti-freeze is greatly reduced because, if the temperature rises beyond the boiling point of alcohol, pressure within the cooling system is automatically built up through the formation of vapor, with the result that the normal boiling point of alcohol is raised.

Pontiac First Car To Traverse Streets Of Mackinoc Island

Mackinac Island, Michigan, saw its first motor car when a new Pontiac automobile was escorted under guard of Fort Mackinac soldiers over the mile long route from the dock where it was landed to the lobby of the Grand Hotel.

With the three hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the island by the French explorer, Jean Nicolet, as a background of pageantry, the 30-year-old regulation of the Michigan State Park Commission, forbidding a motor driven vehicle to be run on the streets of Mackinac Island, was modified for the first time so that the Pontiac might take its place in the celebration of progress.

The motor vehicle ban was only partially lifted, however, as the gas was drained from the car's tank and it was hauled up the long hill by four black horses lead by coachmen in red livery.

Autos Using More Gasoline.

The average motor vehicle in the United States used 591 gallons of gasoline during 1932, as compared with 538.5 gallons in 1927. This increase in consumption, it is said, is particularly significant when it is considered that the mileage per gallon of gasoline is greater in most cars than it was a few years ago. The higher consumption figure indicates that car owners are using their vehicles more and are traveling longer distances.

St. Louis-Wisconsin Tour

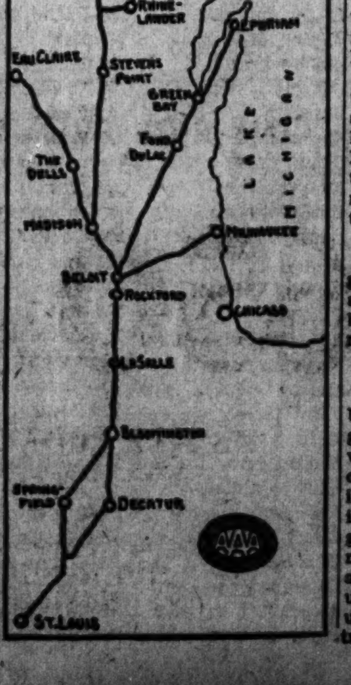
SCENERY of varied appeal, and lakes by the hundreds and thousands, all of them attractive as vacation objectives, await the motorist in Wisconsin.

There are excellent camping facilities throughout the State as well as a multitude of resorts, while the hotels in the Wisconsin towns are at least as good as in Missouri and Illinois towns of similar size. Roads are generally good to fine, with the main routes paved and in excellent condition.

Scenery in Wisconsin varies from the rugged, hilly Wisconsin River region in the Southern part of the State to the Dells and the relatively level lake section with its woods, its shimmering water and its roads winding through a wild country.

Principal routes to and into Wisconsin are shown on the accompanying map, which was prepared by the touring department of the Automobile Club of Missouri.

Leaving St. Louis, one goes north, either via Springfield or Decatur, to Bloomington, then via La Salle and Rockford to Beloit, where one can branch off to Milwaukee or can continue to Madison. At Madison, there is choice of routes to the Dells and Eau Claire, or north to Stevens Point, Rhinelander, Three Lakes and Minocqua, all centers of interesting lake country.



Chevrolet's World Production Totaled 98,147 Units in June

World production of Chevrolet cars in June totaled 98,147 units, making the company's production for the first six months of this year 525,093 units, or nearly 50 per cent greater than in the first half of 1933, according to an announcement by officials of the Chevrolet Motor Co.

Despite this high production, there is still a shortage of Chevrolet cars in the field, officials said. In June more than a dozen trainload shipments were sent as many key cities in an effort to catch up on unfilled orders. Plans call for duplicating these shipments in additional cities this month.

Chevrolet's production maintained a steady pace in early July. Figures released by company officials today showed that domestic and export production in the week ending July 11 totaled 23,089 units, a better daily average than in June.

Chevrolet's sales continued their advance in June, breaking all monthly records since May, 1931, and achieving the highest June total since 1929, officials of the Chevrolet Motor Co. said.

Quebec Highways Dustless.

Upward of $300,000 will be spent this year to keep Quebec's 30,000 miles of highways free of dust. More than half of the Quebec highways system, penetrating all parts of the big province, is comprised of improved roads, but even in remote sections where gravel routes lead to the big fish and game, calcium chloride applications serve to settle the dust.

Japan Poor Car Market.

The market for privately owned passenger cars in Japan is almost negligible because of the lack of good roads and relatively low income per capita. There are now about 112,000 motor vehicles in use within the Empire.

New License Rules Favored.

Because of the alarming increases in automobile accidents, agitation for drivers' license and financial responsibility laws in Illinois is being strongly reinforced. For a decade rural Illinois has fought such legislation.

La Salle Wins Third Position in Its Price Class, Oliver Notes

LaSalle has not only set a new vogue in automobile design, but has established a record performance in sales by winning third position in its price class of 11 competitors within the few months since it made its first appearance, according to Guy W. Oliver, president of the Oliver Cadillac Co., distributor of Cadillac and LaSalle cars.

Stream-lined after the manner of the fastest racing cars on the American track by Harley Earl, director of the General Motors Art and Color section, LaSalle has a body, built by Fleetwood, with the luxury and riding comfort of a fine custom-designed limousine.

A LaSalle was selected by the officials of the Indianapolis track to act as a pace-maker in this year's 500-mile speed classic, on Memorial day. The pace-making LaSalle led the 33 racers around the track for a racing start at 85 miles an hour.

WHAT!
THEY WON'T ACCEPT OUR CHALLENGE?

Can it be that competitors looked at the Hudson and Terraplane list of 73 official A. A. A. speed, acceleration and hill climbing records, including every major mountain climb in the United States?

Can It Be That They Didn't Want YOU to See How Other Cars Perform in Competition with Hudson and Terraplane? Anyhow, the fact remains—

NOT ONE COMPETING CAR ACCEPTED THE HUDSON AND TERRAPLANE CHALLENGE!

The deadline has passed on Hudson and Terraplane's wide-open challenge to competing cars.

1. To climb the toughest hill in this vicinity faster in high gear! 2. To accelerate faster to 50 miles an hour from a standing start! 3. To go farther on five gallons of gas!

But there were no takers.

Lacking competition, we went out and made these tests for ourselves, with stock cars from our floor. The results are in our showroom for you to see! The cars are here for you to drive!

In ordinary driving, you don't check speed with a stop watch—or measure economy in pints of gasoline. But you do want to know what you're getting in power, acceleration, endurance, low fuel consumption.

These are the things that have carried Hudson and Terraplane not only to the top of their own price classes, but out in front of cars costing far more. We'll gladly prove it, and you can easily check the proof.

Just ride—today—in these cars! Then let owners tell you of the RUGGEDNESS of these cars, of their low upkeep cost, long life and the scores of extra features you can't get in other cars at anywhere near the price. There's a Hudson or Terraplane waiting here for you to drive—today.

NOW YOU BE THE JUDGE! DRIVE THESE CARS! DRIVE THE OTHERS! COME IN!

Truck Fleet Owners Guests of Ford Co. at Fair in Chicago

Their Trip Sponsored by Ford Dealers in St. Louis Metropolitan Area.

Forty-eight fleet owners, among them executives of concerns operating the most passenger cars, trucks and commercial cars in Missouri and Illinois, are in Chicago today inspecting the huge Ford Building at A Century of Progress Fair. They were taken to Chicago in special railroad cars on the Wabash Railway on Friday and will return this evening.

The trip was sponsored by part of the Ford dealers in the St. Louis metropolitan area. In Chicago, the fleet owners are guests of the Ford Motor Co.

When they arrived in Chicago Friday evening, they were met at the train by Ford courtesy cars and taken to their hotel quarters. Saturday morning, the Ford courtesy cars transported the fleet owners to the fair grounds, where they were met by Ford Motor Co. guides. Small groups were then escorted through the Ford Building, where production of Ford parts is a feature attraction.

At luncheon, the fleet owners met D. J. Hutchins, commercial division manager of the Ford Motor Co., who had come over from Detroit to be host.

Hutchins told the group of the Ford Motor Co.'s interest in hauling problems and its efforts toward materially reduced transportation costs. He pointed out that the full floating axle and specially designed truck motor of 80 horsepower had given the Ford V-8 truck and commercial units a wider acceptance than ever before.

Accompanying the fleet owners to Chicago were M. N. Johnson, St. Louis manager for the Ford Motor Co.; J. T. Rechtin, assistant manager, and several other officers of the local branch.

Tourists to Spend Billions.

Expenditures by motor tourists in the United States in 1934 will exceed any year since 1929, according to a prediction of the American Automobile Association. In a preliminary survey of the outlook for recreational travel this year, if the current trend continues, motor vacationists will spend during the year some $3,000,000,000.

Goodyear Factories Running Four Shifts Six Days a Week

How the New "G-3" Tire Is Made—215,000,000 Tires Made by Company.

Factories of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. at Akron, O., are running night and day, six days a week, with four six-hour shifts making the new G-3 tire.

Goodyear dealers in all sections report material sales increases since the advent of the new tire—hence the factory activity. The tire, the company's engineers claim, gives 43 per cent more non-skid mileage, with a flatter and thicker tread, wider riding ribs, more center traction and more non-skid blocks.

Tires are not stamped out by a huge machine on the order of a doughnut mold. A visit to the Goodyear factories reveals the many interesting operations necessary to build a tire.

How Tires Are Made.

Three elements in a tire—rubber, fabric and compounds—meet and merge at different stages in the process. Much of the rubber for the Goodyear G-3 and other tires is grown on the Goodyear plantations in Sumatra. It is shipped in bales which are cut into chunks in a machine known as a "pie cutter." Large cylinders make these chunks and the compounds one integral mass ready for the tire fabric.

Much of the fabric is made in the company's textile mills from cotton grown on the Goodyear plantation in Arizona. After a warming process, the fabric is run through the triple rolls of a calender where the compounded rubber is worked into it, emerging as rubberized cloth. An air bag is inserted in the newly-built tire and it goes to the "pit," or vulcanizing room.

Has Made 215,000,000 Tires.

After rigid inspections and machine wrapping, the new tire goes to one of the 60,000 Goodyear dealers and distributers scattered all over the globe.

Constant, careful inspection at every step is one of the outstanding features of the process. No tire with the slightest flaw is ever allowed to get by this corps of inspectors.

The 24 hour humming of the Goodyear plants is adding constantly to the company's outstanding record of 215,000,000 tires built since its organization in 1898—millions more than by any other manufacturer. Of this output 56 per cent was made in the last seven years.

A train of 110,000 freight cars, 830 miles long, would be required to ship all of these 215,000,000 Goodyear tires. Laid end to end the tires would reach more than 100,000 miles, or four times around the Equator.

Self-Cooled Seats For Cars Distributed by Oliver-Cadillac Co.

Something new for motoring comfort is the "self-cooled automobile seat," the distribution of which in this territory has been taken by the Oliver-Cadillac Co.

The seat, which comes in sizes to fit any seat in any car, really is self-cooled. It consists of frames of coil springs wound around cylinders of felt and covered substantially.

The frames are dipped into water and the excess water shaken out, then placed in the covers, and the seat placed on the car seat.

There is no water leakage, and evaporation cools the seat so that one occupying it does not perspire and is always cool. The seat rides very comfortably.

Last Part of June Best for Sales of Buicks Since 1931

Sales of Buicks in the last 10-day period of June totaled 3547 cars, the highest in any 10-day period since Dec. 31, 1931, which was abnormally high due to the introduction of new models. The previous high 10-day period was the last 10 days of May, 1931.

Each of the last four 10-day periods has exceeded the previous one in sales, W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager of Buick, announced, contrary to the usual seasonal decline to be expected at this time of the year.

New Grunow Sets Viewed by Dealers.

NEW Grunow receivers, including several exceptionally powerful all-wave sets, were shown to 350 dealers Friday at a meeting at the Norwood Hills Country Club held by the Brown Supply Co., the Grunow distributer.

A feature of the new Grunow models is a "signal beacon," a device to make simple and easy turning of short wave and distant broadcasting stations.

The Grunow factory also has developed a special "doublet" aerial which makes distant reception much easier and surer, and materially reduces interference and fading effects. This and the all-wave sets were demonstrated Friday on foreign stations.

The new sets range from table and mantel types to an 11-tube all-wave model of exceptional power and selectivity. This has an auditorium speaker and a cabinet of matched woods in modern styling.

Fred A. Wiebe, general manager of the Brown Supply Co., presided at the meeting, and Norman S. Brown, president of the firm, also spoke.

Descriptions and explanations of the special features of the new Grunow receivers were given in detawil by Dr. J. D. Jordan of the Grunow factory technical staff.

H. T. Stockholm of the Grunow sales and merchandising department, who is widely known in this region, discussed sales prospects and advertising plans of the Grunow company.

Two-Way Police Radio for Boston Tested Successfully.

A MOBILE two-way ultra high-frequency radio system for the Boston police was demonstrated the past week at Schenectady, N. Y., by engineers of the General Electric Co. The "Prowl" car demonstrated is a light sedan, with no external evidences that it is radio-equipped. The short wave transmitter, with which occupants of the car talked to Police Headquarters, was installed in the rear trunk. A French-type telephone was installed on the instrument panel, where it could be used by the passenger or the driver. When the car was called by headquarters and the instrument was lifted from its hook, the transmitter, on a different wave length, began to function immediately. From this point on the procedure was as simple as in a telephone conversation.

ANOTHER transmitter was located at "headquarters." From this point it was possible to carry on a running conversation with the cruising car as it drove about the city.

A temporary one-way system operating on medium high-frequency has been installed in Boston for police use. Later this will be replaced with the new system. Only one precinct will be equipped with two-way communication at first, but it is planned to equip the other precincts as the system is adjusted to operating conditions in Boston.

THE Boston transmitter will be located at headquarters, and will be connected with precinct or division houses by telephone line. Car transmitters in different divisions will use different wave lengths, but the receivers of all cars will be tuned to the headquarters wave. The receivers in the division houses will be tuned to the car transmitters in their respective divisions.

In the case of division houses remote from the center of the division, a special pick-up receiver on the other side of the division will be installed, and this will be connected to the division station by telephone line.

CONVENTIONAL medium high wave lengths for police service have been used for several years, and there are nearly 200 of these systems in operation. Medium high frequencies, however, have certain drawbacks. The bands are crowded, there is interference at night and the antenna installations are awkward and expensive. They do not lend themselves to two-way communication, which most police officials consider desirable.

The communication range of ultra-high frequency equipment, such as that planned for Boston, is normally limited to a few miles, and increasing the power of the transmitters beyond a certain value does not extend this range, since the signal is propagated somewhat as a beam of light and is projected off into space a few miles from the transmitter as a result of the earth's curvature. Where greater coverage is required in connection with county and state police work, a medium high frequency system must be used.

Salon Cars on 133-Inch Wheelbase With Custom Bodies and Dual Ratio.

In addition to its new sixes and straight eights, Auburn has brought out a refined line of 12-cylinder salon models, which are distributed by the Southwest Automobile Co.

Engineering features of these multi-cylinder models are dual ratio, X-plus-A frame construction, improved L. G. S. free wheeling, silent and constant mesh transmission gears and custom-type bodies.

Powered with a 160 horsepower Lycoming engine on a 133-inch wheel base chassis, these big, luxurious salon models are designed primarily for the owner who desires an automobile that is faster, smoother, more flexible and more richly finished with individuality.

The powerful 12-cylinder "V" type engine, coupled with dual ratio, makes possible unusual performance and speed, yet the car is exceptionally economical in operation, equal to most eights and many sixes.

These salon twelves may be driven at speeds in excess of 80 miles an hour as free of vibration as in the lower driving ranges. This is due to the solidity and rigidity of the X-plus-A chassis frame, which eliminates any twisting or weaving, and to the airplane-type tubular strut cowl bracing, all-alloy springs, air-cushioned engine mountings and the smoothness of the Lycoming engine.

The exterior appearance of the Salon Twelve models in individual, yet retains many of the Auburn characteristics. The radiator shell is of a distinctive design with a grid treatment of stainless steel horizontal fins and vertical bars in the background.

The windshield is the one-piece, slanting "V" type with a narrow center post and frame finished in chrome. This type windshield affords unusual visibility.

Rear top quarters and back panel are gracefully curved, all metal and with lines tapered with an equal grace.

Indicative of the quality which Auburn has built into its 1934 models of this series, is the luxuriousness and richnes of upholstering, appointments and hardware.

Airflow De Soto Stock Cars Break A. A. A. Class Records

Coupe Does 85.98 M.P.H. for 10 Kilometers; Sedan, 74.74 for 2000 Miles.

A stock Airflow De Soto sedan and coupe have just broken 29 American Automobile Association speed records in their class and three closed-car records, regardless of class, it is announced.

The coup set new class records from one mile to and through five miles. The sedan established new records from 10 miles through 2000 miles.

The sedan was the same car that made a transcontinental A.A.A. economy record of 21.4 miles to the gallon of gasoline. It was the same type of car that won the first prize for beauty in the aerodynamic class at the annual Concours d' Elegance at Monte Carlo, Monaco.

The speed tests were made around a five-mile course on Muroc Dry Lake on the edge of the Mojave Desert, in California. At times during the tests, the temperature climbed as high as 118 degrees. The Airflow car sused Mobilgas, Mobiloil and Goodyear G 3 tires. American Automobile Association officials timed the tests with electrically-controlled devices after they had checked the cars and approved them as standard stock cars. Harry Hartz and Tony Gulatto alternated at the wheels of the two cars. The records were made from flying starts.

The coupe set records of 86.06 miles per hour for the one kilometer; 86.29 for the one mile; 85.05 for the five kilometers; 86.23 for the five miles and 85.98 for the 10 kilometers. The records were Class C division marks for closed cars of from 183 to 305 cubic inches displacement.

The sedan made all of its records on a 2000-mile run. The records included: 80.88 miles per hour for 10 miles; 80.93 for 100 miles; 76.23 for 500 miles; 76.23 for 1000 miles; 74.74 for 2000 miles and 75.24 for 3000 kilometers. These bettered previous class marks 10 to 17 miles per hour.

In this 2000-mile run, the Sedan attained a higher average for the 1000 miles, 2000 miles and 12 hour running time than any closed stock car ever made in an A.A.A. test. The three records were: 76.23 miles per hour for 1000 miles; 74.74 for 2000 miles and 76.07 for 12 hours. The sedan made the 2000 miles in 26 hours, 45 minutes.

Both the coupe and the sedan had the new automatic overdrive transmission now available on De Soto models.

NEW ST. LOUIS "PRO" FOOTBALL TEAM IN EIGHT-CITY LEAGUE

CLUB HEADED BY AL HAYES TO PLAY SEVEN GAMES AT HOME

By Lloyd A. McMaster

A new St. Louis professional football club, with membership in the American Football League, a new organization of Southern cities, was announced yesterday.

Members of the league in addition to St. Louis are Kansas City, Memphis, Louisville, Dallas, Charlotte, N. C., Tulsa and Oklahoma City.

Under the corporate name of the St. Louis Professional Football Club, the company which will operate the new team has as its president W. Alfred (Al) Hayes, former Washington U. quarterback; Bronson Barrows is secretary-treasurer, and its vice-president and general manager is James W. (Bud) Yates.

Announcement of the new promotion was made by Yates, who formerly operated independent professional elevens here and who recruited the Battery A Gunners of 1931, but who was not connected with the Gunners in 1932 and 1933.

Hayes and Barrows are associated in the insurance business. Names of other stockholders in the $10,000 company were not made public.

A schedule of 14 games is to be played, seven games at home and seven on the road. The dates have not yet been charted, a schedule meeting being arranged for this week. The season probably will open the last week in September.

Ten Players Under Contract.

Ten players are under contract to play with the St. Louis team, according to Yates, who said no coach had been signed, but 15 applications were being considered. No arrangement has been completed for use of a park.

S. A. Godman of Memphis, who brought the independent Memphis Tigers to St. Louis for games the past two seasons, organized the new league and is its president. Each team has posted $1000 forfeit money, and pays regular dues.

The home teams will guarantee the visitors $1000 per game, with option of a percentage of receipts. Some of the clubs plan to play some night games.

Operators of other clubs include minor league baseball club owners, among them being Tom Watson, head of the Memphis Chicks of the Southern Association. At Kansas City, the franchise holder is Leroy Andrews, who at one time had a club there in the National League, and who was associated with Benny Friedman in operating National League clubs at Detroit and New York, Andrews coaching. He again will coach the Kansas City team in the American League.

For referees, each club will submit four suggestions to the president of the league, who will make selections from the lists, and the referees may work at home or away.

Manager Yates expects to attend the Chicago Bears-All Stars game in Chicago in August to recruit players. Selection of the coach probably will be announced this week, and the coach also will aid in organizing the playing personnel of the team.

Metcalfe to Compete.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's world champion in the sprints, will see action here tomorrow in the annual track and field carnival sponsored by Division 13, Ancient Order of Hibernians.

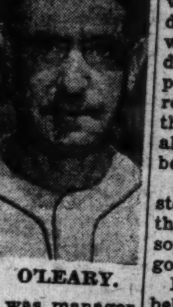
Fighting Tigers of 1907 Fought Opponents, Police, Spectators and Even Each Other, O'Leary Says

By W. J. McGoogan.

That short, weather-beaten first base coach of the Browns is Charley O'Leary, a name that may not mean much to some baseball fans, although it has been in the chronicles of the game for the past 30 years as player, manager and coach.

Charley was a member of the roughest, toughest, fightin'est crew that ever won the American League pennant—the old Detroit Tigers of 1907-'08-'09, when they won successive championships.



O'LEARY.

Later Charley as a coach was connected with six New York American League teams which won flags and of a Chicago Cub title winner. Three times he was with the world champions, the New York Yankees of 1923, 1927 and 1928.

Charley finished his active playing career with the Cardinals in 1913 when Miller Huggins was manager and it was then that he formed the friendship with Huggins which later led to his employment as coach of the Yankees when Hug took charge.

But of all the clubs in the majors and minors with which O'Leary was connected it takes only a short conversation with him to convince a listener that his first love, the Detroit Tigers, was his greatest.

His fingers are gnarled from hard years on the infield, but he says "in those days when we broke a finger we put a piece of cigar box on it, wrapped a piece of tape around it and went out and played.

Those Battling Tigers of 1907.

"Any member of the Tigers would have been ashamed to get out of the game for anything less than a broken leg. Why those guys Cobb, Crawford, Davy Jones, Claude Rossman, Charley Schmidt and the rest of them were the toughest I ever saw on any baseball field. They would fight with spectators, with the police or even among themselves.

"Schmidt, the catcher, a prize fighter, was so fond of battle that he carried a fighting dog with him to entertain him when he couldn't find a scrap of his own, which was seldom.

"Cobb, of course, was the storm center of the outfit. Ty was always in a fight with somebody. Sometimes he won, but not when he fought Schmidt.

"But on the ball field that gang was one. All for one and one for all. If some one of the opposition had to be cut down, the first man in position to do so was expected to cut him down and if he didn't do it, it was too bad for him.

Tobacco Juice and Iodine Cure.

"Things like cuts didn't bother us. When we got cut somebody would squirt tobacco juice on the wound put some iodine on it and that was that. We didn't have trainers or doctors, nothing but a bottle of iodine and we used plenty of that.

"We were not the only hard fighting team in those days, though. Believe me the Browns had plenty of them who were no angels. Jess Burkett, Jack O'Connor, Jack Powell and others. And do you remember the great race of 1908 when the Browns gave us such a battle with George Stone, Hobe Ferris, Williams, Wallace and that outfit fighting down to the last ditch. They always used to have the ropes strung here with crowds of 25,000 and 30,000.

"This was a pretty hard town on visiting ball players, so was Philadelphia and so was Detroit. When we rode to the parks in horse drawn busses many a time we were pelted with vegetables, eggs and rocks. We frequently had to leave the park under police escort. But all that changed when the players began to dress at the grounds.

"And another thing we didn't stop at all the best hotels and get the treatment we get today. We sopped where we could and let it go at that.

Like many old timers, Charley believes that generally speaking the old days were best so far as playing the game was concerned. But he thinks that chief change in baseball, aside from the doing away with the deliberate attempts of players to injure each other is, due to the ball itself.

New Ball Soon Discolored.

"Not that the lively ball makes so much difference" he said "but now you are always hitting at a new ball while we used to use them until they became black. We infielders always carried some licorice or some lamp black and as soon as a new ball was thrown out we would get hold of it and discolor it. Now if it has a mark on it out it goes."

Now Charley is hoping to see an American League pennant fly in St. Louis before many years.

"Give Hornsby the players he thinks he needs and he'll do it, too," he declared. "He knows what he wants and is trying to get it. I only wish we had had a better start this season."

CZECH SOCCER CLUB MAY PLAY IN GAME HERE

By Dent McSkimming

One of the strongest soccer clubs in the world, the S. K. Kladno, of Praha, Czecho-Slovakia, may appear here in an exhibition game early in September, it was learned yesterday. Phil Kavanaugh, in his capacity of secretary of the St. Louis Soccer League, is in communication with Charles Fencl of Chicago, who is booking games in the Mid-West for the Czecho-Slovak tourists.

"Fencl has offered us either Sept. 3, which is Labor day, or Sept. 8, a Saturday," said Kavanaugh. "We don't particularly like either date but we have continued negotiations and probably will come to some agreement."

The Kladno club, according to information supplied by Fencl, who is president of the Sparta A. B. A. of Chicago, is now far advanced in the European Cup championship, an international series involving champion teams of nearly all Continental European countries. In this series, Kladno defeated the Ambrosia Club of Italy, a team which placed six of its stars on the Italy all-star team which won the recent World Series at Rome in which a United States team competed. This victory over the Ambrosia club gives Kladno the right to top rank among European clubs.

Financial terms proposed by Fencl are not attractive, Secretary Kavanaugh said, and the tour sponsors have been asked to make a drastic reduction.

Gonsalves Returns.

Billy Gonsalves, America's leading inside left forward, returned to St. Louis yesterday after an absence of about three months. He was a member of the United States team which played in Rome and he stopped at his home in Fall River, Mass., on his return to America. "I don't know what the future holds for me," said Gonsalves yesterday. "I want to stay here and play with McNab, Nilsen and my other teammates of the old Stix club. We are all hoping that Jack Dwyer is able to sign up a new sponsor for the club soon."

MAX BAER NOT TO DEFEND HIS WORLD'S TITLE TILL NEXT YEAR

By Tom S. Andrews.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 21.—It is now definitely settled that Max Baer, the new world's heavyweight champion, will not enter into a title battle of any kind until 1935. He has so notified Madison Square Garden. Next year he will fight either at Miami, Fla., in February or at New York in the early summer.

Max already has arranged to box at a benefit of Mrs. Frankie Campbell, widow of the young man who died following a contest with Baer in California a few years ago, but it will not be a championship match.

When the title match is finally arranged it is a pretty good guess that his opponent will again be Primo Carnera, the Italian giant, unless something unforeseen should happen to Primo in the meantime.

There is a feeling in ring circles that Carnera will get his return match. If it should be held in Miami then it is almost a certainty that Baer would follow with another title affair in the summer at New York, providing, of course, that the Italian should be beaten in Florida.

Max has been making a bunch of coin doing stage and radio work, much more than he could gather in boxing, and it seems to be the life the "play boy" likes. Whether it will effect his fighting ability later on is another question. There also talk of Max working in another movie picture with himself as the star.

Other Work for Hamas.

Steve Hamas, the college youth, who made a lot of ring history for himself and his manager-Charley Harvey—was supposed to be the heavyweight who would get the next shot at Baer's title; but it is very uncertain now, and perhaps it is just as well, as Billy Brady, the theatrical man who piloted both Jim Corbett and Jim Jeffries into the championship, is thinking seriously of using Hamas in a show called the "Naval Cadet" that Jim Corbett appeared in 40 years ago.

Brady is a shrewd showman, and if he takes hold of the proposition, it is a good bet it will be a success, either as a legitimate stage production or as a movie. Mr. Harvey has turned down several splendid offers for Hamas to fight, feeling sure that Billy Brady will put the deal over. Hamas can get over $20,000 for fighting Art Lasky at Los Angeles, but even that seems to be no inducement just now.

Just as it seemed impossible to bring about a return match for the title between Barney Ross, lightweight and welter champion, and Jimmy McLarnin, former king, the New York Commission entered into the controversy and notified the managers and boxers of each side that they would have to reach an agreement forthwith or take a chance of being suspended and having their titles vacated.

As a result of this edict, Messrs. Pian and Winch, managers of Ross, and "Pop" Foster, pilot for McLarnin, got together with the moguls of the Madison Square Garden Corporation and ironed everything to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Ross preferred to meet McLarnin or the next welterweight in line for preference to taking on a lightweight contender first, as in the case of the latter he would be putting both titles in jeopardy. Negotiations have been closed whereby Barney and Jimmy will meet again in the ring for the welter title on September 6th, just following Labor day, and the distance will be the required fifteen rounds. It will be for the New York American Christmas fund, and the chances are it will be held in one of the baseball parks instead of the New York bowl at Coney Island.

Ross Gets Champion's Cut.

Under the terms of agreement Ross must defend his lightweight title against Tony Canzoneri, from whom he won it within sixty days after the battle with McLarnin for the welter crown.

It is understood that "Pop" Foster had been holding out for 25 per cent despite the ruling of the commission that the title holder has the right to 37½ per cent, and the challenger 12½ per cent. Then, too, "Pop" wanted $2500 training expenses instead of $1500, which the Garden wanted to pay. Just why the promoters should pay all training expenses was not explained. Usually the fighters charge a small admission to the training camp and, in that way, pay all training expenses.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—A decline in stocks and further gains in cotton and cereals this week stirred the mid-summer siesta of financial markets.

After showing indifference to the San Francisco general strike and outbreaks of labor violence elsewhere, the stock market finally shook off its inertia Friday and dropped back to about July 1 levels under an abrupt outburst of selling. The decline brought the first volume exceeding a million shares on the stock exchange since June 8. Turnover for the week increased to 4,168,115 shares compared with 2,806,494 the preceding week. The movement in stocks was the widest in more than a month and the Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 issues closed 3.9 points lower on the week at 75.

Although the performance of business has been none too reassuring lately, the decline in stocks was attributed partly to technical factors and to moderation of inflation sentiment, rather than to a revision of hopes for an autumn trade upturn.

Reports that the U. S. Treasury was planning large refunding operations in the fall was construed as likely to discourage inflation talk. Liquidation, in consequence, came into metal shares and other groups that had been in speculative favor on the prospects of inflationary action, including another cut in the gold value of the dollar.

New Commodity Top.

Spot commodity prices, as measured by the Moody Daily Index, moved to new tops for the year but the rise in that sector was due chiefly to strength in grains and cotton based on short crop estimates.

Reaction toward the end of the week canceled some of the recent gains in commodities, but wheat finished up about 2 cents a bushel on the week, corn 3 to 5 cents and cotton 15 to 35 cents a bale. December wheat sold as high as $1.04 a bushel in Chicago and all cotton months crossed 13 cents a pound.

In contrast with stocks and tending to confirm the impression of waning inflation sentiment, best grade bonds continued to sell around peak levels for recent years. At the same time the dollar was firm against leading foreign exchanges, after a slight dip at the outset of the week on the San Francisco situation, and by the end of the week small shipments of gold from Paris to New York were expected.

Steel, automobile and textile operations remained virtually unchanged as the summer lull was prolonged. Weekly statistics on carloadings and electric power output disclosed a further widening of the decline as compared with last year, when a belated spring and early summer increase in business was at its peak.

Final Session Lower.

While liquidation in stocks diminished, rallying power was limited in the brief week-end session and the market settled a little lower. Early selling, carrying over from yesterday's outburst of liquidation, took many issues to new low levels for the year, especially among rails. Later the market steadied as pressure lifted. Modest recoveries before the close left the Standard Statistics Co. index for 90 stocks only two-tenths of a point lower at 75. Volume totaled 619,970 shares, the largest for a Saturday session in more than a month, and compared with 194,330 a week ago.

Grains and cotton rallied briskly, indicating improvement in the technical position of those markets after the preceding decline. Wheat closed 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents a bushel higher and other cereals scored gains ranging as high as 1⅝ cents. Cotton recovered $5 to $1.05 a bale of its losses.

Bonds were steady. A slow rise in the dollar against the French franc made it profitable to ship small amounts of gold to New York from Paris.

Metal Group Rallies.

Metal shares showed the best rallying power, partly on covering by shorts who had sold earlier in the week. U. S. Smelting finished about two points higher and Cerro de Pasco, Howe Sound and Alaska Juneau recovered fractionally to more than a point. Homestake Mining dropped 15 points in a thin market. Rails were on firmer ground but new 1934 minimums were registered for New York Central, Pennsylvania, Southern and Great Northern.

The decline of liquor shares was extended, with National Distillers, Schenley and American Commercial Alcohol touching lowest prices of the year. Industrial leaders were little changed at the close.

Demand for steel was reported to be somewhat better than had been expected recently and a small gain in operating schedules of some Youngstown producers next week was forecast. Cram estimated automobile output this week held steady at 65,829 units, a decline of 803 from the previous week and 2882 above that of the corresponding period last year.

The British pound finished ⅛ of a cent lower at 5.04, and the French franc eased .00¾ of a cent to 6.59 cents. Dutch guilders were off .02 of a cent at 67.62 cents, and Belgian belgas were .01 of a cent improved at 23.33 cents. German marks, Swiss francs and Canadian dollars were unchanged at 39 cents, 32.59 cents and 101.37½ cents, respectively.

EXTREME RISE OF $1 A BALE IN COTTON PRICE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—The cotton market recovered part of the losses of the previous session during today's trading on buying influenced by steady Liverpool cables and continued unfavorable weather and crop advices from the Southwest. After selling up to 13.02 during the early trading, October reacted to 12.94 under renewed liquidation but firmed up to 13.05 later to close at 13.04. The final tone of the market was steady at a net advance of 17 to 21 points.

The opening was steady at 9 to 19 points higher and overnight reports of continued dry hot weather in the Southwest brought out buying that carried December up to 13.14 and March up to 13.29 during the first few minutes. The market encountered considerable realizing at that level and there also was scattered Southern and local selling.

This supplied the initial demand and sent prices off some 5 or 10 points from the best but the failure of the official weather forecast to indicate any material change in Southwestern weather conditions brought in additional buying later. December sold up to 13.30 in the late trading when the general list showed net gains of about 18 to 23 points and closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points of the best.

Part of the buying this morning was attributed to a more favorable view of the technical position following yesterday's decline, while the continuance of the drouth in Texas, led to expectations of more serious crop complaints from that section. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 71,000 bales against 135,000 last year.

WEEK'S METAL REVIEW

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21.—A steadily improving price situation in lead was the feature of non-ferrous metals market in the past week. Advances of $1 to $2 a ton in lead reflected steady day-to-day purchases, with buying on the advance approximately equalling the smelter ore intake. The demand was predominately for August shipment, with buyers apparently anxious to stock up against anticipated fall requirements.

No change of consequence occurred in copper, with the price holding at 9 cents for Blue Eagle electrolytic. A generally small consumer demand was complicated by reports that operations in the brass mills of the Waterbury, Conn., district have shrunk perceptibly. June statistics, however, showed a reduction of 36,300 tons in domestic refined stocks, or nearly double the reduction in May. Since June 1, 1933, U. S. stocks of refined have been reduced 228,000 tons.

Zinc continued flat, although prices held generally steady. While demand was negligible, producers are favored by the statistical position and are not disposed to press offerings.

Tin continued steady in a quiet market. Foreign exchange movements affected prices from time to time, but generally the schedule was unchanged. Demand was quiet, with buyers coming in only as needs demanded. Tin plate trade sentiment improved, reflecting indications that previous reports of large stocks in hands of can makers were exaggerated.

Seasonal inactivity continued in the steel trade. Ingot production for the country increased 1 per cent to 28 per cent, but the increases were spotty. Automobile demand was moderate, but manufacturers have covered requirements for the present and orders for production of 1935 models are not expected to affect production schedules until September, at the earliest.

Antimony held firm at the recent advance, with the market becoming quieter as buyers withdrew following the recent purchases.

NO DROUTH RELIEF IN SIGHT, WHEAT ADVANCES LATE

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market Saturday soft wheat was ½@1c higher but the half-cent advance was the outside price and the bulk of the day's business was done on a ¾@1c higher basis. The current receipts together with previous day's carryover amply supplied the trade but the demand was good and the session active with elevator interests in a more receptive mood. Advanced future levels acted bullishly on the traders. Hard wheat was 1½@2½c higher but there was not very much on hand. Corn was 1@1½c higher. The supply continued fairly large and the demand for the yellow good. The inquiry for the white grade was slow generally and discounts widened to effect sale. The clearance was good with mills, industries and shippers displaying fair interest. Oats were unchanged and although receipts were not large, they were sufficient for requirements. Rye was higher, the supply light and demand fair.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the exchange, Saturday, were as follows:

NO DROUTH RELIEF NEXT WEEK, WHEAT ADVANCES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 21.—Almost 2 cents a bushel rise of wheat values today accompanied an official forecast indicating that next week would bring no substantial relief from drouth.

Highest prices of the day were reached by wheat just before trading was ended. Increased volume of dealings went hand in hand with upturns of quotations.

Wheat closed firm, 1@1⅜ above yesterday's finish, corn 1@1⅜ up, oats ½@⅞ advanced, and provisions varying from 10 cents lower to 5 cents gain.

Nearly from the outset, all grains showed a tendency to climb, but it was not until receipt of the Washington weather predictions for next week that the wheat market went upward in earnest. Much of the new purchasing orders in the wheat pit appeared to originate Northwest, and this circumstance was deemed significant. Adding to the upward momentum of wheat values here was the fact that the Liverpool market displayed unexpected relative firmness, a development attributed to indications that yesterday's break in Chicago had been largely due to an unfounded rumor asserting big quantities of Argentine wheat sold to Europe would be hedged in this country and in Canada.

Record breaking high temperatures for season reported over practically all of the corn belt, with word that not a good rain anywhere had been witnessed, served to stimulate not only demand for corn but for all other grains.

Rural offerings of corn today showed a notable falling off. The movement of newly harvested wheat in the Southwest continued to recede, 10 terminal markets of that region receiving but 787 cars. Oats were governed by corn action.

Most deliveries of provisions went higher with grains.

HIGH-GRADE BONDS SHOW STEADY TONE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 21. — High-grade bonds displayed a steady tone in today's brief session, but some not so high issues followed the trend of the stock market and slipped lower. Government loans were mixed.

Transfers approximated $4,391,000, par value, compared with $3,865,000 last Saturday. The Standard Statistics average for 60 domestic corporate issues was unchanged at 86.6, but on the week it was off six-tenths of a point.

The continuation of the demand for prime investment loans carried a substantial number of them minor fractions to around a point higher.

Extension of the downward trend in some liens was reflected in declines ranging from fractions to a point in some issues.

The Government list was dull, but there was an advance of 3-32nds of a point in each of the two Federal Farm Mortgage bonds, carrying the 3¼s into new high ground at 102.24. Treasury issues and Liberties were quiet and showed little change.

The foreign section was dull. German Government 5½s declined 1⅛ points to 35.

Old Herbert Work New Here

"Rose of Algeria" to Be Seen in St. Louis for the First Time in Forest Park Tomorrow Night—Bartlett Simmons Joins the Municipal Opera Cast to Sing Tenor Role—Gladys Baxter to Have Leading Soprano Part—Story Offers Chance for Attractive Settings.

GETTING what seems to be its first performance in St. Louis, for there appears to be no record of its ever having been done here, Victor Herbert's tuneful operetta, "Rose of Algeria," comes to Forest Park tomorrow night to be sung by the Municipal Opera Company with Gladys Baxter in the leading role and with a new tenor in the principal male role—Bartlett Simmons, last seen here with Ed Wynn in "The Laugh Parade" a few seasons ago.

Surrounding the two is a cast which brings to the front the full comic resources of Municipal Opera, for it offers Harry K. Morton, Frank Gaby, Jack Good, Jules Epailly, Edith King, Barnett Parker, Nancy Welford, Leota Lane and Berta Donn to interpret the fun roles, together with Joseph Macaulay, the Haakon-Tennis dance team and many others.

"Rose of Algeria" abounds in melodies, among them the charming ballad "Love Is Like a Cigarette"; the choral number "We're Off to Algiers," both of which were heard in the Victor Herbert Memorial Concert in Forest Park last May; "The Boule 'Miche," "The Same Old Two," "Only One of Anything," "Twilight in Barakeesh,' "Bohemia, Good-Bye," "Little Bird of Paradise," the lilting popular "Ask Her While the Band is Playing," and the operetta's enduring hit-number, "Rose of the World."

GLEN MACDONOUGH, who wrote the librettos for "Babes in Toyland" and "It Happened in Nordland" collaborated with Herbert in the operetta, which was written as a starring vehicle for Lew Fields shortly after that comedian had parted company with his equally famous but more abbreviated partner, Joe Weber.

The work was presented with success in New York and since Municipal Opera was founded 16 years ago there have been many requests for its presentation here. It was announced for production at the beginning of the season of 1923. Parts of the score could not be located with the result that the plan had to be abandoned. Herbert, then alive, was appealed to, but even he would give no clue to the missing parts which had been mislaid among manuscripts of his more than 40 operas. Only recently were the lost numbers found and Municipal Opera at once decided to include "Rose of Algeria" in its repertory for the current summer.

ONE reason for that choice was the spectacular and out-of-door character of the opera's scenes and settings. A story of the Near East, of the struggles of France to maintain herself in her North African possessions, "Rose of Algeria" has that wealth of barbaric color which contributed so much to the success of "The Desert Song."

As the romance develops upon the stage, Zoradie, beautiful, willful and imperious, Sultana of the mythical desert tribe of the Barakeesh, has lost her heart to an unknown poet, El Mokrani. She vows she will only marry the man who has written those songs which are sung about the Arab camp fires of her dominion. Disguised as a dancing girl, she sets forth to find him.

France is threatened by a rebellion of the desert tribes. Zoradie's nomadic horde can turn the balance for peace or war. She delivers an ultimatum to the French Colonial office, declaring she will sign no peace pact until the mysterious poet is found. The Colonial office immediately issues orders to Gen. Petitpons, the French Commander in Algeria, to produce the poet and marry him off to the Sultana.

Among the General's officers is Capt. De Lome, his nephew, whom the General seized by the scruff of the neck, as it were, and lifted him out of a garret in the Latin quarter, where he was starving to death with the Muse as his companion. Once in the Near East Capt. De Lome has been so fascinated by the desert life that his poetic genius has celebrated it and his are the songs that are known as the Poet El Mokrani's. Meantime, the Captain has himself encountered Zoradie in her disguise and has lost his heart to her, believing that the Sultana is merely the dancing girl Miriam. Zoradie has refused his proposal of marriage, insisting that she will wed no one but El Mokrani.

Three American deserters from the French Foreign Legion appear. They have escaped from prison but are recaptured. Capt. DeLome, still ignorant of the identity of the woman he loves, suggests to Gen. Petitpons that they palm off one of the Americans upon the Sultana as the poet. Each of the three Americans thus sees a way to escape the death to which he is condemned as a deserter. A contest ensues as the three pose as poets. Since the General and Captain DeLome are unable to decide which of the three is the better—or worse—they take them all along to Zoradie, who herself must decide which is the authentic El Mokrani.

When Gen. Petitpons insists that France has done everything humanly possible and that Zoradie must pick one of the three for her husband and be satisfied, Capt. De Lome, who has just discovered that the Sultana and the dancing girl are one, reveals himself as the poet. The three deserters win pardon when Millicent Madison, an American girl, who is practicing medicine in the East, agrees to wed Gen. Petitpons if he will free them.

Broadway In the Doldrums

WHILE the Municipal Opera is keeping a lot of musical comedy actors working, Broadway is in its midsummer doldrums, with only nine shows current, which is a rock-bottom number, considering that the past winter season was one of the best in theatrical history since that old bugaboo depression appeared on the scene.

There are several interesting observations on this situation. For instance, only three of the nine shows are musicals, whereas in the past the summer attractions with songs and dances usually have outnumbered serious plays by two to one. The three musicals are "Roberta," "New Faces" and "As Thousands Cheer," all entertainments which have had considerable runs.

The phase missing this year is that unique brand known as the "summer musical." Heretofore there have been always at least a dozen shows designed exclusively to appeal to hot-weather audiences This summer there hasn't been a single one.

The reason for this is one of prosperity rather than poor business. These hot-weather revues and comedies once popped over the White Way horizon because outstanding librettists and composers had nothing else to do from May until September. Now they are almost unanimously employed by the Hollywood movie studios and therefore have no time to dally with the light entertainments that may last only a couple of months or so.

In the spendthrift days Flo Ziegfeld and Earl Carroll spent as much as $250,000 on one of their "Follies" or "Vanities." They were gambling that amount against whether or not their show would be a hit on New York's main street, and even though the show was a hit there was a chance they wouldn't take that much back in as net profit. On the other hand, a motion picture can be produced for the same amount and there are several thousand theaters in which the cinema producer may play to earn back his original investment.

Another point of this hot weather situation concerns the placing of cooling systems such as the movie houses have in legitimate theaters. Cooling systems cost a considerable amount. There are something like 65 theaters on Broadway and only about 10 are used all summer. So it is only logic that prevents the managers from installing 65 cooling systems when they know that only 10 will be utilized.

Crosby, Ross Sign New Air Contracts

Radio's two leading men singers, Bing Crosby and Lanny Ross, have just signed new radio contracts which permit them to continue their screen careers. Crosby's new agreement is for 39 weeks starting Sept. 18. All of his programs will be from Hollywood, where he recently completed "She Loves Me Not." Ross has signed for 70 weeks and he will do his part of the "Showboat" program when needed in Hollywood. He arrives in Hollywood within two weeks for "College Rhythm."

Wampas Baby Star Changes Film Name

Dorothy Drake, one of the 1934 Wampas Baby stars, and who was recently signed to a long term contract, will henceforth be known as Dorothy Wallace, the studio announces. Miss Wallace is the daughter of Grace Wallace, author and screen scenario writer.

THE WEEK'S NEW FILMS

By Colvin McPherson

WELL, that leaves us "Grand Canary" at the Fox and "Stamboul Quest" at Loew's. While they do not exactly provide hearty movie fare, they enable the seasoned theater-goer enough to piece out two nights of the week. Three things combine to make "Grand Canary" a good picture. They are, in order, a splendid performance by Warner Baxter, as good as anything he has ever done; an exceptional casting for minor parts, and splendid photography. If the plot is no stroke of genius, there still remains little to complain about. The story, taken from a popular novel by the same name, varies the pattern of "Arrowsmith," but is greatly like its predecessor. A physician in Liverpool (Baxter) develops a new serum, which his medical rivals allow him to try on three patients too late. All three die and in the hubbub, Dr. Leith is branded as a murderer. A friend sends him away on a trip to the Canary Islands to brace up. The boat is a kind of "Grand Hotel," where each character has some equally strange pattern of life himself. Baxter's fellow passengers, however, have one thing in common—a desire to help him pull himself together. The touchstone, of course, is applied by a woman, Lady Mary Fielding (Madge Evans), who is going back to the islands to a man she doesn't love. The result is that the doctor on shore misses his boat and hearing of a yellow fever epidemic in the interior, goes to try his hand. Lady Mary falls ill and he attends her. Only after he had brought her back to health with his serum, does he consider the dying hundreds. He turns out to be a whale of a success and we see him returning to England to a banquet of the Medical Society. Lady Mary straightens out her tangle and comes on the next boat. Baxter lives up to every minute. Others perfectly cast are Marjorie Rambeau, Zita Johann, H. B. Warner, Roger Imhof, Juliette Compton, Barry Norton and Carrie Daumery. "She Learned About Sailors," for some reason, is on the same bill. "She" is Alice Faye and Lew Ayres is the principal increment in knowledge. From Shanghai to Honolulu to Los Angeles, with some rather hilarious fun at times.

Spy Fever.

"STAMBOUL QUEST," Myrna Loy's first starring vehicle, tries to retain her original triumphs as a siren, all the while edging into the picture of an intelligent woman with normal emotions. Myrna is Fraulein Doktor, a celebrated German spy. The implication is that she is somewhat superior to the notorious Mata Hari, since she sends Mata to her death early in the narrative. Myrna's dish is just that—counter espionage, spying on spies. Her principal assignment, in this instance, is to Constantinople (Stamboul in the Turkish geographies) to get one Ali Bey, a Turk who is quite willing to have Britannia rule the waves as long as he can have an account in the Bank of England. Myrna is all set to go when a nice young American (George Brent) falls across her path and even pursues her to Constantinople. He is excess baggage, of course, but she manages. That's where the normal emotions come in, like new temperature records. She gets Ali but through a mix-up, imagines she has sent the young American to his death. That damages her mental equipment and she is hors de combat from then on, until we see her in a convent, looking day after day for the lover who finally does arrive. A sentimental prologue and epilogue rather spoil an interesting story.

Notorious but Nice.

YOU never heard of Sophie Lang? Well, she is such a clever crook she could steal the Statue of Liberty's torch right out of her hand. That is, if she cared for torches. She really prefers jewels and in this week's adventure, which started at the Ambassador, lifts plenty of "ice." It is no trouble at all for Sophie (Gertrude Michael) to outwit police but along comes the most famous crook in Europe (Paul Cavanaugh) and Sophie attempts to show him how crooking is really done in America. No sooner done than she discovers she is carrying the torch for Paul and a merger of "Hands Across the Sea" is on the way. Alison Skipworth is a delightful old reprobate again and Leon Errol a detective. His scene where he pretends to take an order in French from customers in a fashionable restaurant is Errol most enjoyable. The story ends, of course, with a manifestation of affection between the sexes. The owners all get back the jewels and everybody is happy. The film, which was shut out when the Ambassador closed suddenly, will soon be on view in the neighborhood houses.

Lila Lee Is Back.

ONE delight of seeing movies is to come across something good where it is least expected, to find in a picture not ballyhooed some of the better elements of motion picture making. The case in particular is "In Love With Life," which had only a brief existence at the Missouri two days ago. The picture would not be on this reviewer's list of the 10 best pictures of the year unless a sudden drouth falls on Hollywood. All said and done, however, it has many excellent qualities. The theme is that of a daughter who ran away from home and broke her wealthy father's heart. She is forced to come back eventually, bringing a youngster whom the father will accept, without his mother. The father intends to show his daughter what it meant to lose her. He does not count in the boy's affection for his mother, which eventually upsets the apple cart. The elderly gentleman is Claude Gillingwater, the daughtre Lila Lee and the boy Dickie Moore. The outstanding part in the picture is that of Onslow Stevens, the boy's tutor. Despite a rickety plot and shabby acting by one of the principals, the picture does retain a human, a very human quality. At the Missouri also was "Shadows of Sing Sing," which has this set-up: A police official's son loves a racketeer's sister. Racketeer is murdered. Son is tried. These speeches from the show are typical: "You've said enough, dad." "Now get hold of the kid's gun." "I'll have a showdown with him." "I didn't do this. I just came to see him." "There's one chance in a million." "I instruct the jury to return a verdict of not guilty." "That was the most remarkable defense in my experience!" You said it, brother!

Now Harlow's Film Has Title Difficulties

Taking titles in out of the wet has become quite a fad with the Hollywood producers. The studios tried to confer some honor on St. Louis by calling Mae West's latest film—first known as "It Ain't No Sin"—"St. Louis Woman." St. Louis ducked that one and a new name is still being looked for.

However, Hollywood is determined to fasten something on the Middle West, and it is announced that Jean Harlow's newest picture, "Born to Be Kissed," a title which ran afoul of the censors even before they saw the film, is to be released as "The Girl From Missouri."

New Attractions for The Park Highlands

Al Katz and "His Kittens," who recently concluded extended engagements at the 400 Club in Paris, Young's Pier at Atlantic City and the Rainbow Gardens in Chicago, open a week's engagement on the Forest Park Highlands' ballroom this afternoon. Harry Lange's Commanders will feature late hits in their new free entertainment offering and Virginia Hill, whose ensemble has been augmented by more girls, has arranged a modernistic program of dance numbers for the 9 o'clock evening show.

Gibson Girl Ballet Prepared for Film

The "Gibson Girl," epitome of feminine beauty in the early part of the century, is to be immortalized on the screen.

For the theater sequence in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," LeRoy Prinz, dance director, is preparing a "Glow-worm ballet." Ten girls, selected purely for their resemblance to the type created by Charles Dana Gibson, will gyrate to the strains of the famous Lincke music.

Shirley Temple to Sing New Film Tune

Shirley Temple will sing again in "Now and Forever," in which she's being featured with Gary Cooper and Carole Lombard. The be-curled 5-year-old has started rehearsing "The Grasshopper and the Frog" on the test stage—and hopping around to show how the big, bad froggie goes.

Gary Cooper, Wife Leave on Vacation

Having completed "Now and Forever," with Carole Lombard and Shirley Temple, Gary Cooper and his wife, the former Sandra Shaw, have gone to New York for a vacation trip with Mrs. Cooper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shields. They plan to cruise the East Coast in the Shields' yacht.

F & M Close Two Theatres

Ambassador and Missouri Go Dark for Several Weeks While the New Operators Make Some Necessary Repairs—Reopenings Set for August 4, Leaving the First Run Movie Field for the Time Being to Loew's and the Fox—Stage Shows Will Come Back.

By H. H. NIEMEYER

TWO more St. Louis movie palaces have folded up, for the first move Fanchon and Marco made upon taking over the operation of the Ambassador and Missouri yesterday morning was to close the houses, for repairs, leaving the first run summer field to the Fox—also an F. and M. theater—and Loew's. It is announced that both places will be reopened on Aug. 4, but there is a belief that the Missouri may not be lighted up again until Labor day. Harry Koplar, associated with Allen Snyder, who recently acquired the two houses along with the Grand Central, is to be the manager of the theaters when they get going again. Koplar, Snyder and Fanchon and Marco found that considerable repairing was necessary at the Ambassador and Missouri, the houses having run down during the last year, while the receivers have not felt like spending much money on upkeep.

The move marks the end of any Skouras Brothers' connection with the St. Louis movie field. The Skourases, now extensive operators on the West Coast and in New York, have been running the Ambassador and Missouri for the receivers. They formerly operated both houses for themselves.

There are no plans for reopening the Grand Central at present and the St. Louis Theater is also to remain closed for the time being.

In connection with the temporary closing of the Ambassador and Missouri it may be said that Warner Brothers have tied up the picture situation here to such an extent that there are not enough good films in the immediate offing for the Ambassador and the Missouri. Coupled with this situation is the hot weather and the fight of the Better Film organizations which have kept attendance down to the lowest figure in years and Fanchon and Marco decided that now was the time to get their new houses in order and prepare for a couple of "grand openings" next month.

BY that time F. and M. expect to see the film question ironed out. As it now stands Warner Brothers control their own pictures and at an early date, will come into the rights, for St. Louis, of the Paramount and RKO outputs. Warner's has just closed their first run house here, the Shubert, and are holding back their pictures for another gala opening when the weather cools off. What they will do with the products of three big studios, if they refuse to sell to the Ambassador and Missouri, remains to be seen, maybe in both.

Snyder and F. and M. are going ahead and spending a lot of money, however, with the idea that they will get their share of good pictures. It is reasonably certain that around Labor day, stage shows will be back in either the Fox or the Ambassador.

It is quite likely that Warners will take over the old Orpheum downtown and get it in shape as a first run house for a Labor day opening. Even then they will not be able to use all of the Warner Paramount and RKO pictures for the Shubert and the Orpheum cannot place that many films.

At all events Fox and Loew's, in a short time, will have a strangle hold on the first run business here.

SO theaters may come and go. Close up and reopen but the oft-quoted rule that the screen life of the average top-notch player is limited to five years does doesn't apply to Henry B. Walthall. He was a picture star even before he reached the topmost heights in "The Birth of a Nation" and D. W. Griffith made that picture more than 20 years ago. Throughout the succeeding years Walthall has seen stardom slip away—but he has kept working all the time.

Playing the role of a Confederate soldier again, this time as a veteran of the Civil War, in "Judge Priest," the Will Rogers starring picture adapted from Irvin S. Cobb's stories, Walthall believes he has the best part that has come his way since he appeared on the screen as "the little colonel."

Walthall was born at Mallory Station on the Coosa River, in Shelby County, Alabama, and until he was 15 was tutored at home. Following the Spanish-American war in which he served as a private—he says he and Francis Ford are the only surviving privates, that everyone else was at least a General—he elected to become an actor and after some amateur theatricals near his home, he went to New York and made his debut as an extra in "Secret Service" at the Murray Hill theater.

Four years with Henry Miller in "Under Southern Skies," "The Great Divide," "The Faith Healer" and other plays were succeeded by his first screen work, in 1909.

ONE day Walthall went to the Biograph studio in New York, looking for an actor for a tryout play. He offered the job to James Kirkwood, then playing in pictures for Biograph, but Kirkwood turned down the offer. In turn Kirkwood introduced Walthall to D. W. Griffith who offered him a job. Walthall accepted and appeared with Kirkwood in the one-reeler, "The Convict's Sacrifice."

When Griffith went to Los Angeles way back in 1910 to make pictures, Walthall accompanied him. In those days all scenes were filmed outdoors. When the sun failed to shine, there was no work. In that year Griffith made the first two-reeler, "Ramona," with Mary Pickford, Walthall, Frank Grandon and Kate Bruce.

In 1913, came "The Birth of a Nation," completed in the unheard of length of 13 reels. It played a year in New York, in Chicago, in Los Angeles and other cities and still enjoys rivivals.

In 1917 while working for Essanay in Chicago he met and married Mary Charleson, an actress. They have a daughter, Patricia, who made her first appearance before a camera in "Judge Priest."

WATCHES JEWELRY

Wanted

ANY OLD GOLD

Three Reasons why you should sell your old gold to H. SPARBER & CO., St. Louis' Largest Gold Dealers, 119 N. 7th, 2d Floor, Room 28.

1st. We are buying many thousands of dollars' worth of scrap gold weekly from public, jewels and dealers. The reason for this is because we are paying top prices.

2nd. Every article is assorted, tested and weighed in front of your very eyes.

3rd. For plated articles that are considered insignificant by others we accept and pay generously for them.

Bring us a small or large lot of gold or plated and silverin rings, watches, chains, dental bridge work and crowns, also spectacle frames; in fact in any form broken or otherwise. You will be surprised at the amount of cash you will receive for articles you consider obsolete.

REMEMBER, you are welcome to come up to our establishment and get our estimate, which we are glad to give free. You will be treated fairly and courteously whether you sell us or not.

Don't be misled. Always remember to sell where you get a good price.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN

NO MAN WHO WANTS TO WORK NEED BE LISTED AS "UNEMPLOYED."

WILL TAKE ON A LIMITED FEW

MEN WHO NEED EMPLOYMENT AND WHO WISH TO TRY TO SEE IF THEY CAN DO THIS WORK. THOSE WHO QUALIFY CAN MAKE $35 TO $50 PER WEEK IMMEDIATELY. WE WILL FURNISH FULL EQUIPMENT WITH NO DEPOSIT REQUIRED.

If you are out of work and honestly seeking gainful employment—if you're ready to face the fact that "soft" jobs can't be bought—if you're ready to take on honest work and forget that you were once manager of this or that, or a banker, or a $10,000.00 or $5,000.00-a-year man—

If you're ready to plant your feet on the ground and take your head out of the clouds—

If you're ready to look stern facts in the face—

In other words—if you are ready to acknowledge that what you really need is an opportunity TO MAKE A DECENT LIVING—

Then come in for a personal interview. We have a job in for you that will last as long as you are willing to work. We want only married men, with a clean record, who are of an age and in a condition of health that will enable them to work every day—and plenty of hours each day. Must have a car.

This work—if you are selected, we'll thoroughly train you in it—should pay you to start $30.00 to $40.00 a week while you are learning and working to prepare yourself for the larger earnings made by qualified men in our branches throughout the entire country. This company is a large national corporation with unlimited resources and has just completed the biggest six months in all its history. 1934 will be our FOURTH SUCCESSIVE RECORD SALES YEAR.

Most of our men never had any selling experience. These men were once unemployed. Not today. They are facing their families with checks, not with alibis. They are not seeking sympathy, nor are they feeling sorry for themselves. They are now permanently connected. Their future is bright and their opportunities to make real money were never better.

Come in Monday morning for personal interview and then if you feel qualified to do this work, hear the story from their own lips. Hear them tell what they think of the "Electrolux Forward" idea. Apply Monday morning, 9:15 to 1:15, at 512 Paul Brown Bldg., 9th and Olive Sts.

PART SIX ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, JULY 22, 1934. PAGES 1—10F

Price Is Not Announced—Shoe Company Buyer Plans to Build Home in Overhills.

L. E. REYNOLDS BUYS 18 ACRES ON GRAVOIS

River Bluff Holding, Chimney Rock, in Jefferson County, Acquired by George W. Oakes.

By Berry Moore.

Edgar E. Rand, buyer for the International Shoe Co., has acquired 15 acres in Overhills, west of the Price road and south of the Clayton road, in Deer Creek village. The sale was made by Mary Potter Love, Inc., for former United States Senator George H. Williams and D. D. Walker Jr., developers and owners of Overhills. The purchase price was not disclosed. Eligible for pretentious estates, available acreage in this section of St. Louis County has a high valuation.

Rand is having plans made for a residence on a handsome scale. The new residence will be grouped with the homes of David Walker Sr. and David Walker Jr., which have set a rather high standard for the Overhills development.

The purchase is situated just north of "The Stables," a joint estate of Andrew Johnson and Bradford Shinkle. Overhills was originally part of the old Von Schrader farm on the Von Schrader road. It lies just south of the Bogey Club, with the Log Cabin Club and the Gates Williams estate on the west. Bridle paths of the Bridle Trail Association extend through it.

$1500 an Acre.

An adjacent 45 acres in which the Von Schrader heirs were interested was sold in partition in 1928 for $1500 an acre. This figure, real estate men contend, however, was no criterion for the value of the land, since it was knocked down under the hammer, in a forced procedure, with only the published legal notice serving as an advertisement.

Mary Potter Love, Inc., recently appointed exclusive agent for Overhills, disclosed negotiations for other available sites in this area on behalf of persons with ambitious estate plans.

Sales in other sections of St. Louis County reflecting a revival in the demand for acreage holdings were a noteworthy feature of the week in real estate.

River Tract Sold.

An 18-acre tract on the north side of Gravois road at Sappington, has been acquired by L. E. Reynolds, through the V. C. McKenzie Co. It extends through to the Eddy and Parke roads. The Eddy and Parke road frontage of 558 feet will be reserved for country homes, while the Gravois road frontage will be developed for business purposes. Reynolds is secretary of the Utility Employes' Savings & Loan Association of the Union Electric Light & Power Co.

A tract of 33 acres on the Mississippi River bluffs at Montebello Station in Jefferson County, has been purchased by George W. Oakes, superintendent of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co. of Crystal City, Mo. Beautifully wooded, the tract is a part of the May V. Davis holdings for whom it was sold. A six-room bungalow is built on solid rock overlooking the river. The place is known to Jefferson County and to old steamboat men as Chimney Rock, deriving its name from a rock formation resembling three huge chimneys rising from the side of the bluff, and reaching to a height of 150 feet. Cornet & Zeibig handled the transaction.

The southeast corner of Delmar boulevard and Channing avenue has been purchased by Harry Sokolik, head of the Sokolik Packing Co., through John Grether & Co. Occupied by old three-story brick residences, the site has a frontage of 125 feet on Delmar by a depth of 124 feet, 8 inches to the alley. Grantors to the title were Ottorino and Theresa Dallavalle. The corner portion of the property, with 90 feet on Delmar and 75 feet on Channing, is sought by an oil company, which has plans for a super-filling station. The remainder, comprising approximately 8750 square feet, is wanted by an out-of-town concern with plans for an L-shaped building, with a frontage on both Delmar and Channing.

Sale of the property at 2814 Olive street, consisting of stores, and flats, with a garage in the rear premises, to an investor represented by the Dubinsky Realty Co. for the account of the Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Bank, is announced by the Ralph D'Oench Co. The name of the purchaser is withheld pending the execution of the deed.

Wabash Leases Building.

The Wabash Railroad Co. has acquired a lease for a term of years on the five-story building at 310-12 South First street, between Clark avenue and Spruce street. The lease was arranged by the Mullin-Walters Realty Co. Rental provisions were not disclosed.

The building will be used for the storage of records and supplies. Comprising 25,000 square feet, it has a frontage of 50 feet on First street, with a depth of 110 feet. It is equipped with elevator and is of fireproof construction throughout. A switch from the Missouri Pacific Railway tracks, which traverse First street, serves the premises. The lessor was the Ramming Realty Co. The building was formerly occupied by the National Candy Co. as a factory.

PARK & TILFORD, IMPORTERS, TO OPEN ST. LOUIS BRANCH

Park & Tilford Import Corporation, New York, one of the largest importers of wines and spirits, has leased quarters for a branch at 418 Olive street, in the Bank of Commerce Building. The new St. Louis branch is under the management of Edward C. Flynn, who will direct sales in this territory, formerly handled by Tony Faust Sons, Inc.

Among the well-known European wines and spirits represented in the United States by Park & Tilford Import Corporation are: Vat 69 Scotch whisky, Martell cognac brandy, Booth's gins, Marie Brizard French liqueurs, Heidsieck & Co. dry monopole champagne, Harvey's ports and sherries and others. In the domestic field, the firm distributes Park & Tilford ryes and bourbons and Park & Tilford California wines.

PRESIDENT APARTMENT HOUSE AUCTIONED OFF

Bondholders' Committee Offers $125,000 Bid, Which Trustee Accepts.

The President Apartments, a 10-story structure at 4615 Lindell boulevard, was sold at foreclosure yesterday at the Civil Courts Building. It was auctioned by J. Sydney Salkey, trustee and special master, who received one bid of $125,000, made by Arthur Fels, representing a bondholders' protective committee.

Wilbur B. Jones, attorney for the committee, said the purchase was made for the benefit of bondholders who deposited their bonds and concurred in reorganization plans. There is a total of $425,000 bonds outstanding. About 98 per cent of the holders deposited their bonds with the committee, Jones said. It was estimated non-depositing bondholders will receive about 30 cents on the dollar of their investment.

The property was owned by the Apartments Holding Co., a subsidiary of the Central States Life Insurance Co. Foreclosure was ordered by Circuit Judge Green, it being alleged default had occurred in the payment of principal and interest due on some of the bonds.

C. I. T. CORPORATION LEASES THIRD FLOOR OF BUILDING

C. I. T. Corporation, subsidiary of the Commercial Investment Trust of New York, which recently acquired the business of the Midland Acceptance Corporation, has leased enlarged quarters on the third floor of the American Paint Journal Building, 3713 Washington boulevard. The lease was arranged by the Ralph D'Oench Co.

The D'Oench concern also reports having leased to Sonotone St. Louis Co. of a double store on the ground floor of the American Paint Journal Building, at 3715-17 Washington boulevard. The lessee is a subsidiary of the Sonotone company of New York, makers of bone construction hearing aids for the deaf. The St. Louis office is in charge of James Merrill.

Exchange Dinner Dance Tuesday.

The Entertainment Committee of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange, headed by Arthur C. Hoehn, has announced a dinner and dance for the Exchange members, their office and sales forces, for Tuesday evening, at Meadowbrook Country Club. Charlie Agnew and his nationally-known radio dance orchestra, featuring Ann Lincoln and Dusty Rhodes, together with a floor show by the Meadowbrook ensemble, will furnish the music and entertainment.

The BLIND GOLFER who GOES AROUND in 83

LONDON.

THERE is a man in London who never makes the worst mistake that a golfer can and often does make. He never prematurely lifts his head to see where the ball has gone. The man who is thus faultfree is Captain Gerald Lowry. And the reason why he never commits that horrible offense against golfing technique is a simple one. He could not see the ball if he did lift his head. He does not see the ball when he hits it. He is stone blind.

It sounds fantastic, but it is true. Captain Lowry is on the way to becoming a really good golfer. He does a round now in 83 or 84, and the "pro" at his club expects to make a six-handicap man out of him in the end. But this enthusiasm for golf, which is his latest hobby, is but a part of his passion for exercise and sport as an essential to physical and mental well-being.

"If the joy of hard exercise means much to those who possess their sight," he told me, "it means so much more, both mentally and physically, to a healthy blind man for finding, as he does, the relaxation so essential to both welfare and happiness. Today, for example, I have taught myself to swim and dive and have increased my speed in running far more than before fate deprived me of what is considered the greatest gift of man—sight. In addition, I am able to box."

But before telling any more of how Captain Lowry conquered the handicap of blindness, it is well to know how he met that fate. When the British declared war on August 4, 1914, he was a young man of 23, a Lieutenant in the Special Reserve of the Royal Irish Rifles. He managed to get himself transferred to the regular battalion and landed with it at Havre on August 14. On Sunday, August 23, his outfit went into action and from then on he was in almost continuous action, including the terrible and gallant retreat from Mons.

Finally came the fatal day of October 26. Up to that time Captain Lowry had come through the campaign without a scratch. He was in a trench on the Aisne. He looked over the top and a German sniper got him. The bullet entered his temple behind the left eye and went out by the opposite temple, destroying en route the optic nerve, but not damaging the eyes themselves. His men pulled him down, and as they bandaged his head he lost consciousness. In the brief moment before then he did not know he was blind. He was taken to London more dead than alive and the surgeons saved him. But when, after weeks in hospital, they at last took the bandages from his head and held a strong light before his face—then he knew. His physical recovery, other than his sight, was assured, and from that moment began, also, his mental recovery: his building up of a new mental balance and outlook and the development of that philosophy through which he has made his life a success.

"I cannot honestly say," he said to me, in speaking of the first realization of his blindness, "that I was as much upset as one would expect to be—the subconscious mind supplying me instantly with the power to accept a condition I could not remedy and pointing out the futility of indulging in sentimental regrets. And I imagine this is one of the great compensations that nature supplies to the blind, which makes them, as a body, the most naturally cheerful one could meet. My mental suffering was not so much the knowledge that I had lost my sight as the dread of becoming entirely dependent upon others for the whole of the rest of my future life. This was, indeed, my first real step towards beginning life all over again, for I now definitely decided to scrap all reflections upon what I could have done had I possessed my sight and to make my own way in the world, if that were possible.

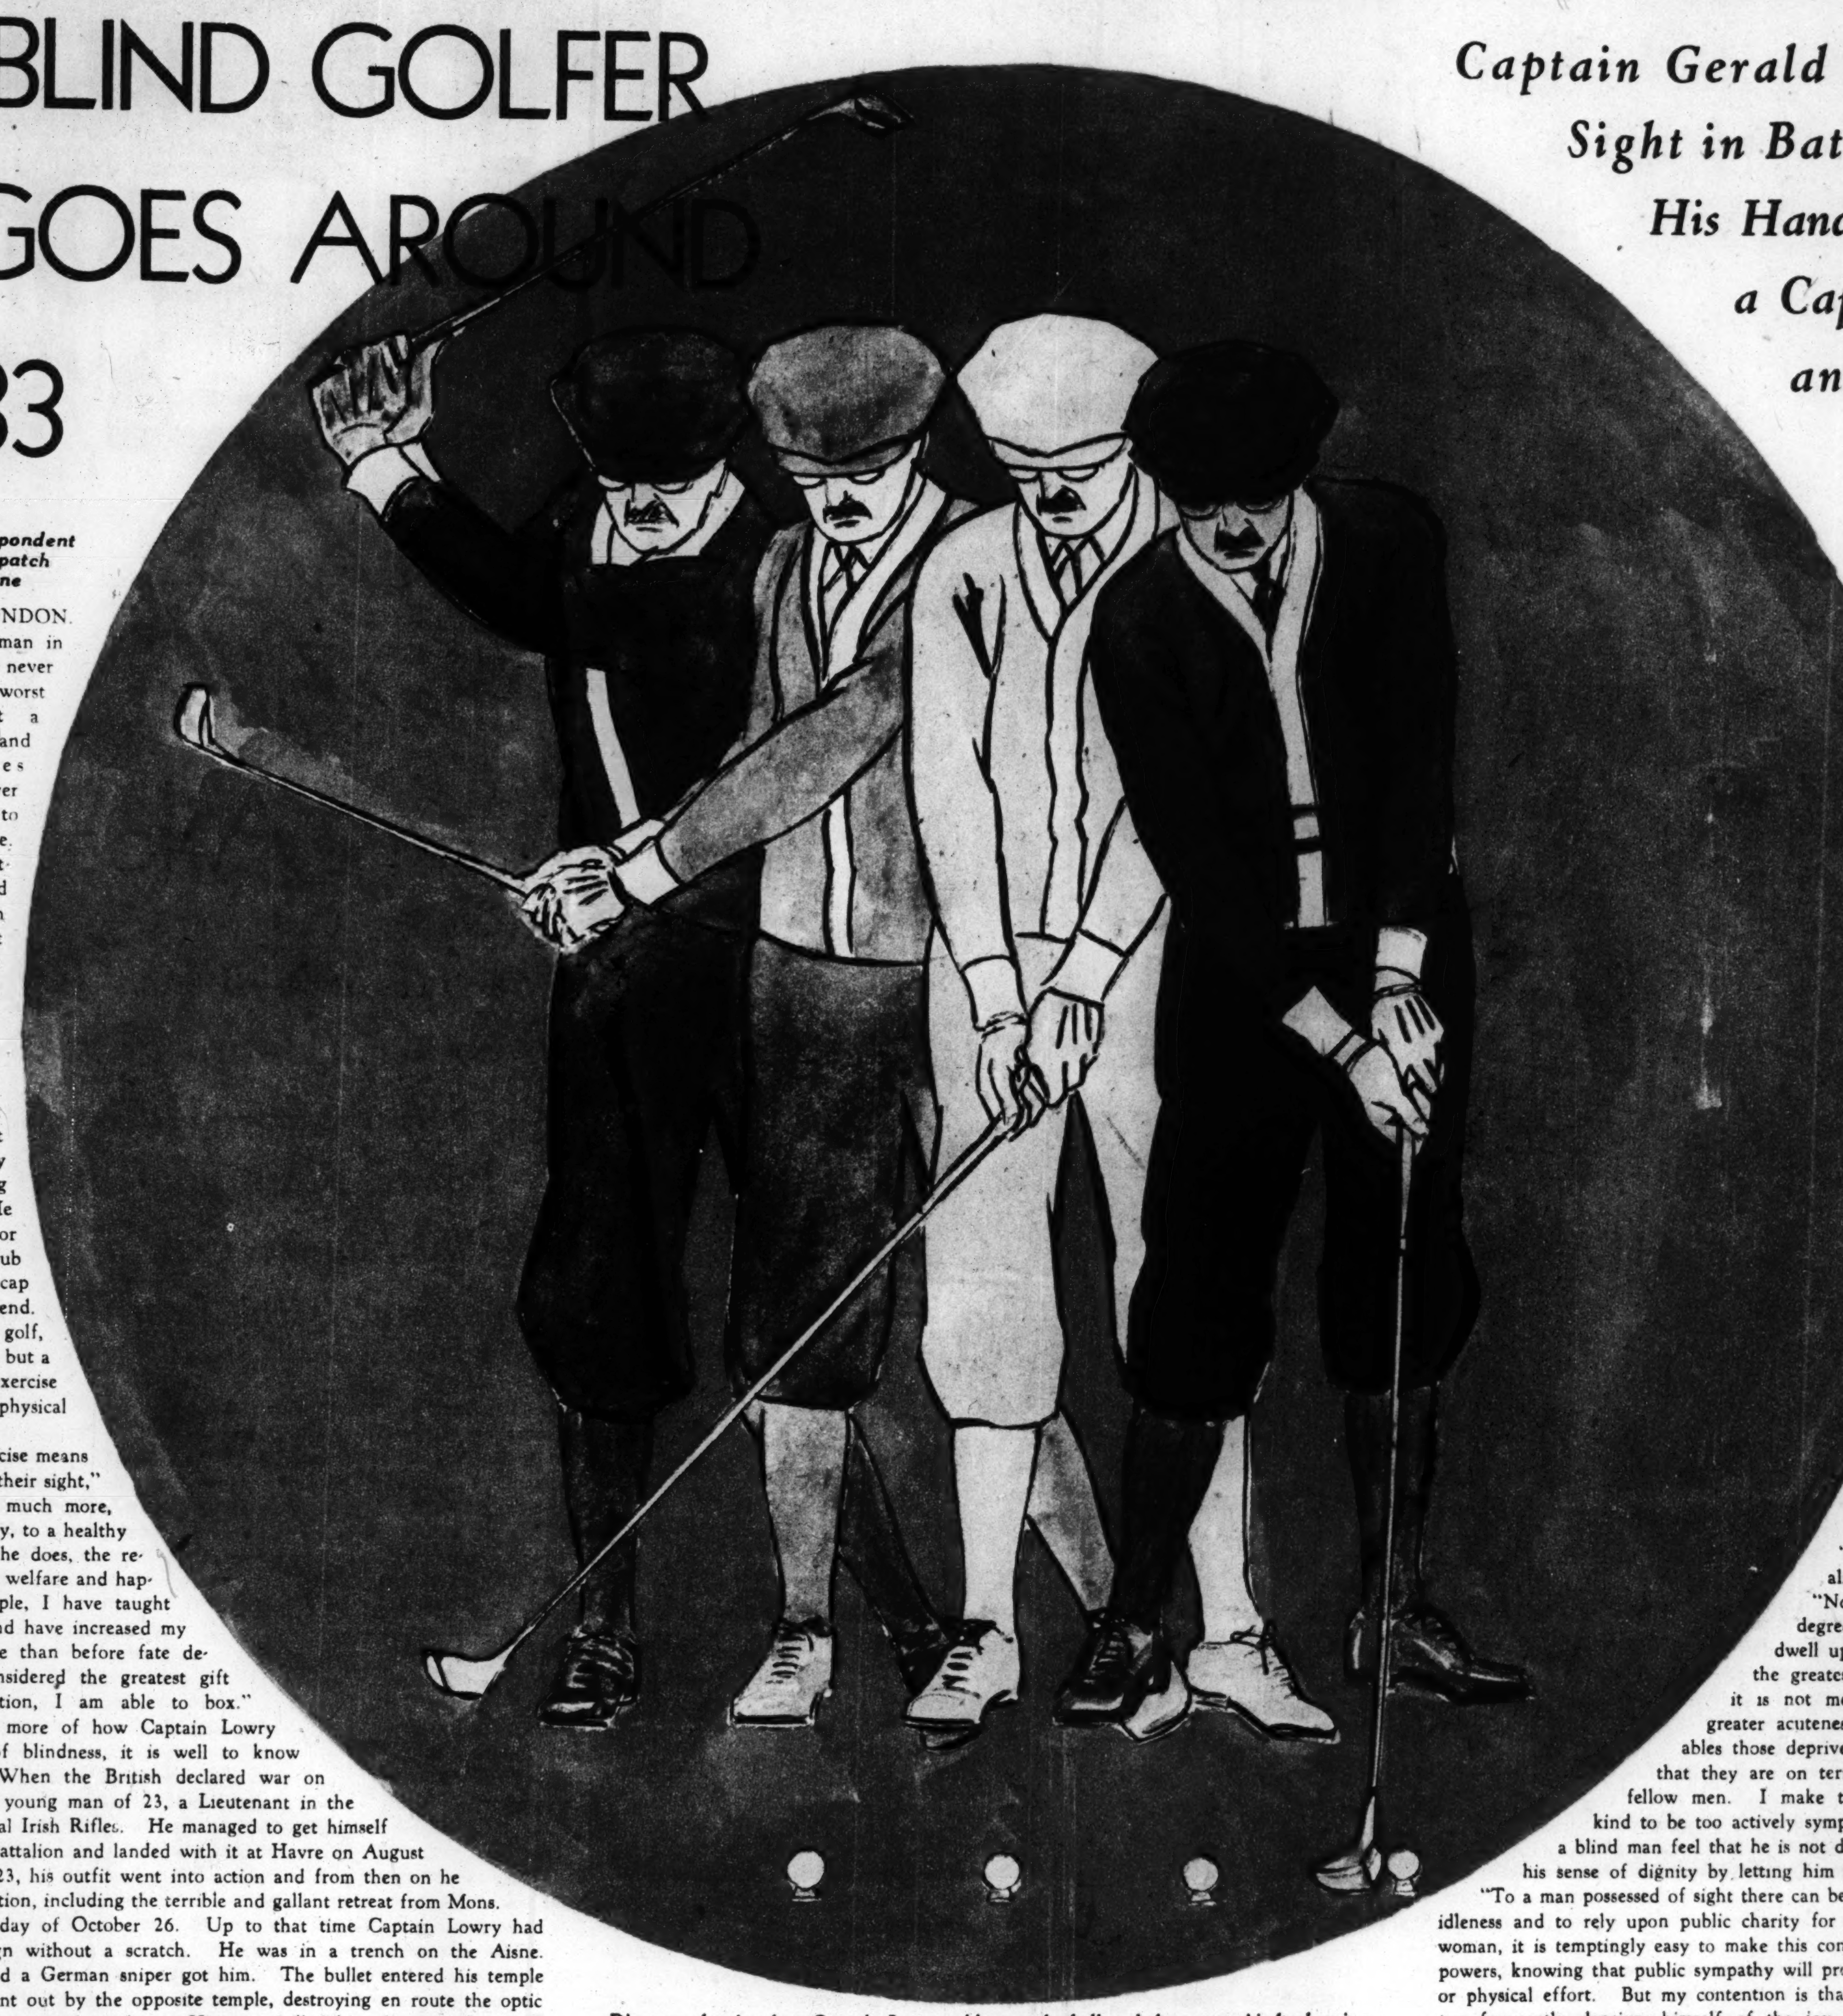

Diagram showing how Captain Lowry addresses the ball and then starts his back swing.

"What handicapped me most was the feeling of impenetrableness in the blackness around me. This was at first both stultifying and dreadful, but as my strength, mental and physical, returned, the interest of my new life became more and more absorbing, especially so when I commenced to realize how the brain, developing and exercising other senses, quickened, as it seemed, all my perceptions and enabled me, as it were, to visualize things about me. This proceeded to such a degree that, as time went on, there became a gradual lessening of the sensations of blindness, so that when sitting in a room, instead of feeling that earlier weight of darkness, I found a quite normal, natural feeling developed. This arose from my mental ability to sum up the atmosphere of the room and the position of the windows, the door, the mantelpiece and the furniture—showing that the visualizative center of the brain was becoming readjusted and was acting without the mirror of the eyes.

"Another sense was slowly commencing to develop, although it was not strong enough for some months to be of any real value—and that is what the blind call the 'sixth sense,' or sense of pressure, which enables the blind to know instinctively when they are in the proximity of large articles of furniture or other obstacles. I am able to box by that sense of pressure—atmospheric pressure, if you like—caused and varied by the presence of my opponent and his movements. To the latter I react immediately, sometimes so quickly that I am able to deliver a very unexpected punch. So, also, when I am swimming, I 'feel' my approach to the end of the pool almost to the inch.

"Now, I have developed this sense to such a degree that it has become subconscious. If I dwell upon this important sense it is because it is the greatest compensation possible to the blind, for it is not merely an increased delicacy of touch, or greater acuteness in the other senses, but it actually enables those deprived of their sight to feel within themselves that they are on terms of equality with their more fortunate fellow men. I make this clear because I often feel it is unkind to be too actively sympathetic to blindness, for it is better to let a blind man feel that he is not different from other people and to preserve his sense of dignity by letting him be self-sufficient and independent.

"To a man possessed of sight there can be nothing more unpleasant than to fall into idleness and to rely upon public charity for sustenance, and so, with a blind man or woman, it is temptingly easy to make this condition an excuse for not developing one's powers, knowing that public sympathy will provide the necessities of life without mental or physical effort. But my contention is that, by accepting such charity, a blind man too frequently deprives himself of the joy of independence and the happiness and dignity which is far more than anything charity can provide. If a blind man can attain a state of independence he can be as happy as any person possessed of sight and become quite as useful a member of society, providing he engages in that work which both interests him and does something to benefit humanity."

That is Captain Lowry's philosophy of a blind man, and this is how he applied it: Upon his recovery from his wound he first learned to use the typewriter and employed his newly developed skill in writing to his friends. Then he took up massage, a year later qualified in the Institute Examination of Chartered Societies as a masseur, and a year or so later began practicing that profession at a London hospital.

"Without wishing to be considered egotistical," he said, "it was at this period that I first commenced to feel that I possessed a certain power to soothe my patients and that, not only was the work full of interest to me, but that nature had provided me with the gift of being able to help those I treated in no ordinary manner."

Later he began the study of osteopathy in London, obtaining his degree in 1925, and two days later he sailed for the United States for further study in that work there. On his return to London he began to practice as an osteopath and has built up a large and successful practice. Thus he has applied the philosophy of work and independence which he preached. But to return to his newest love

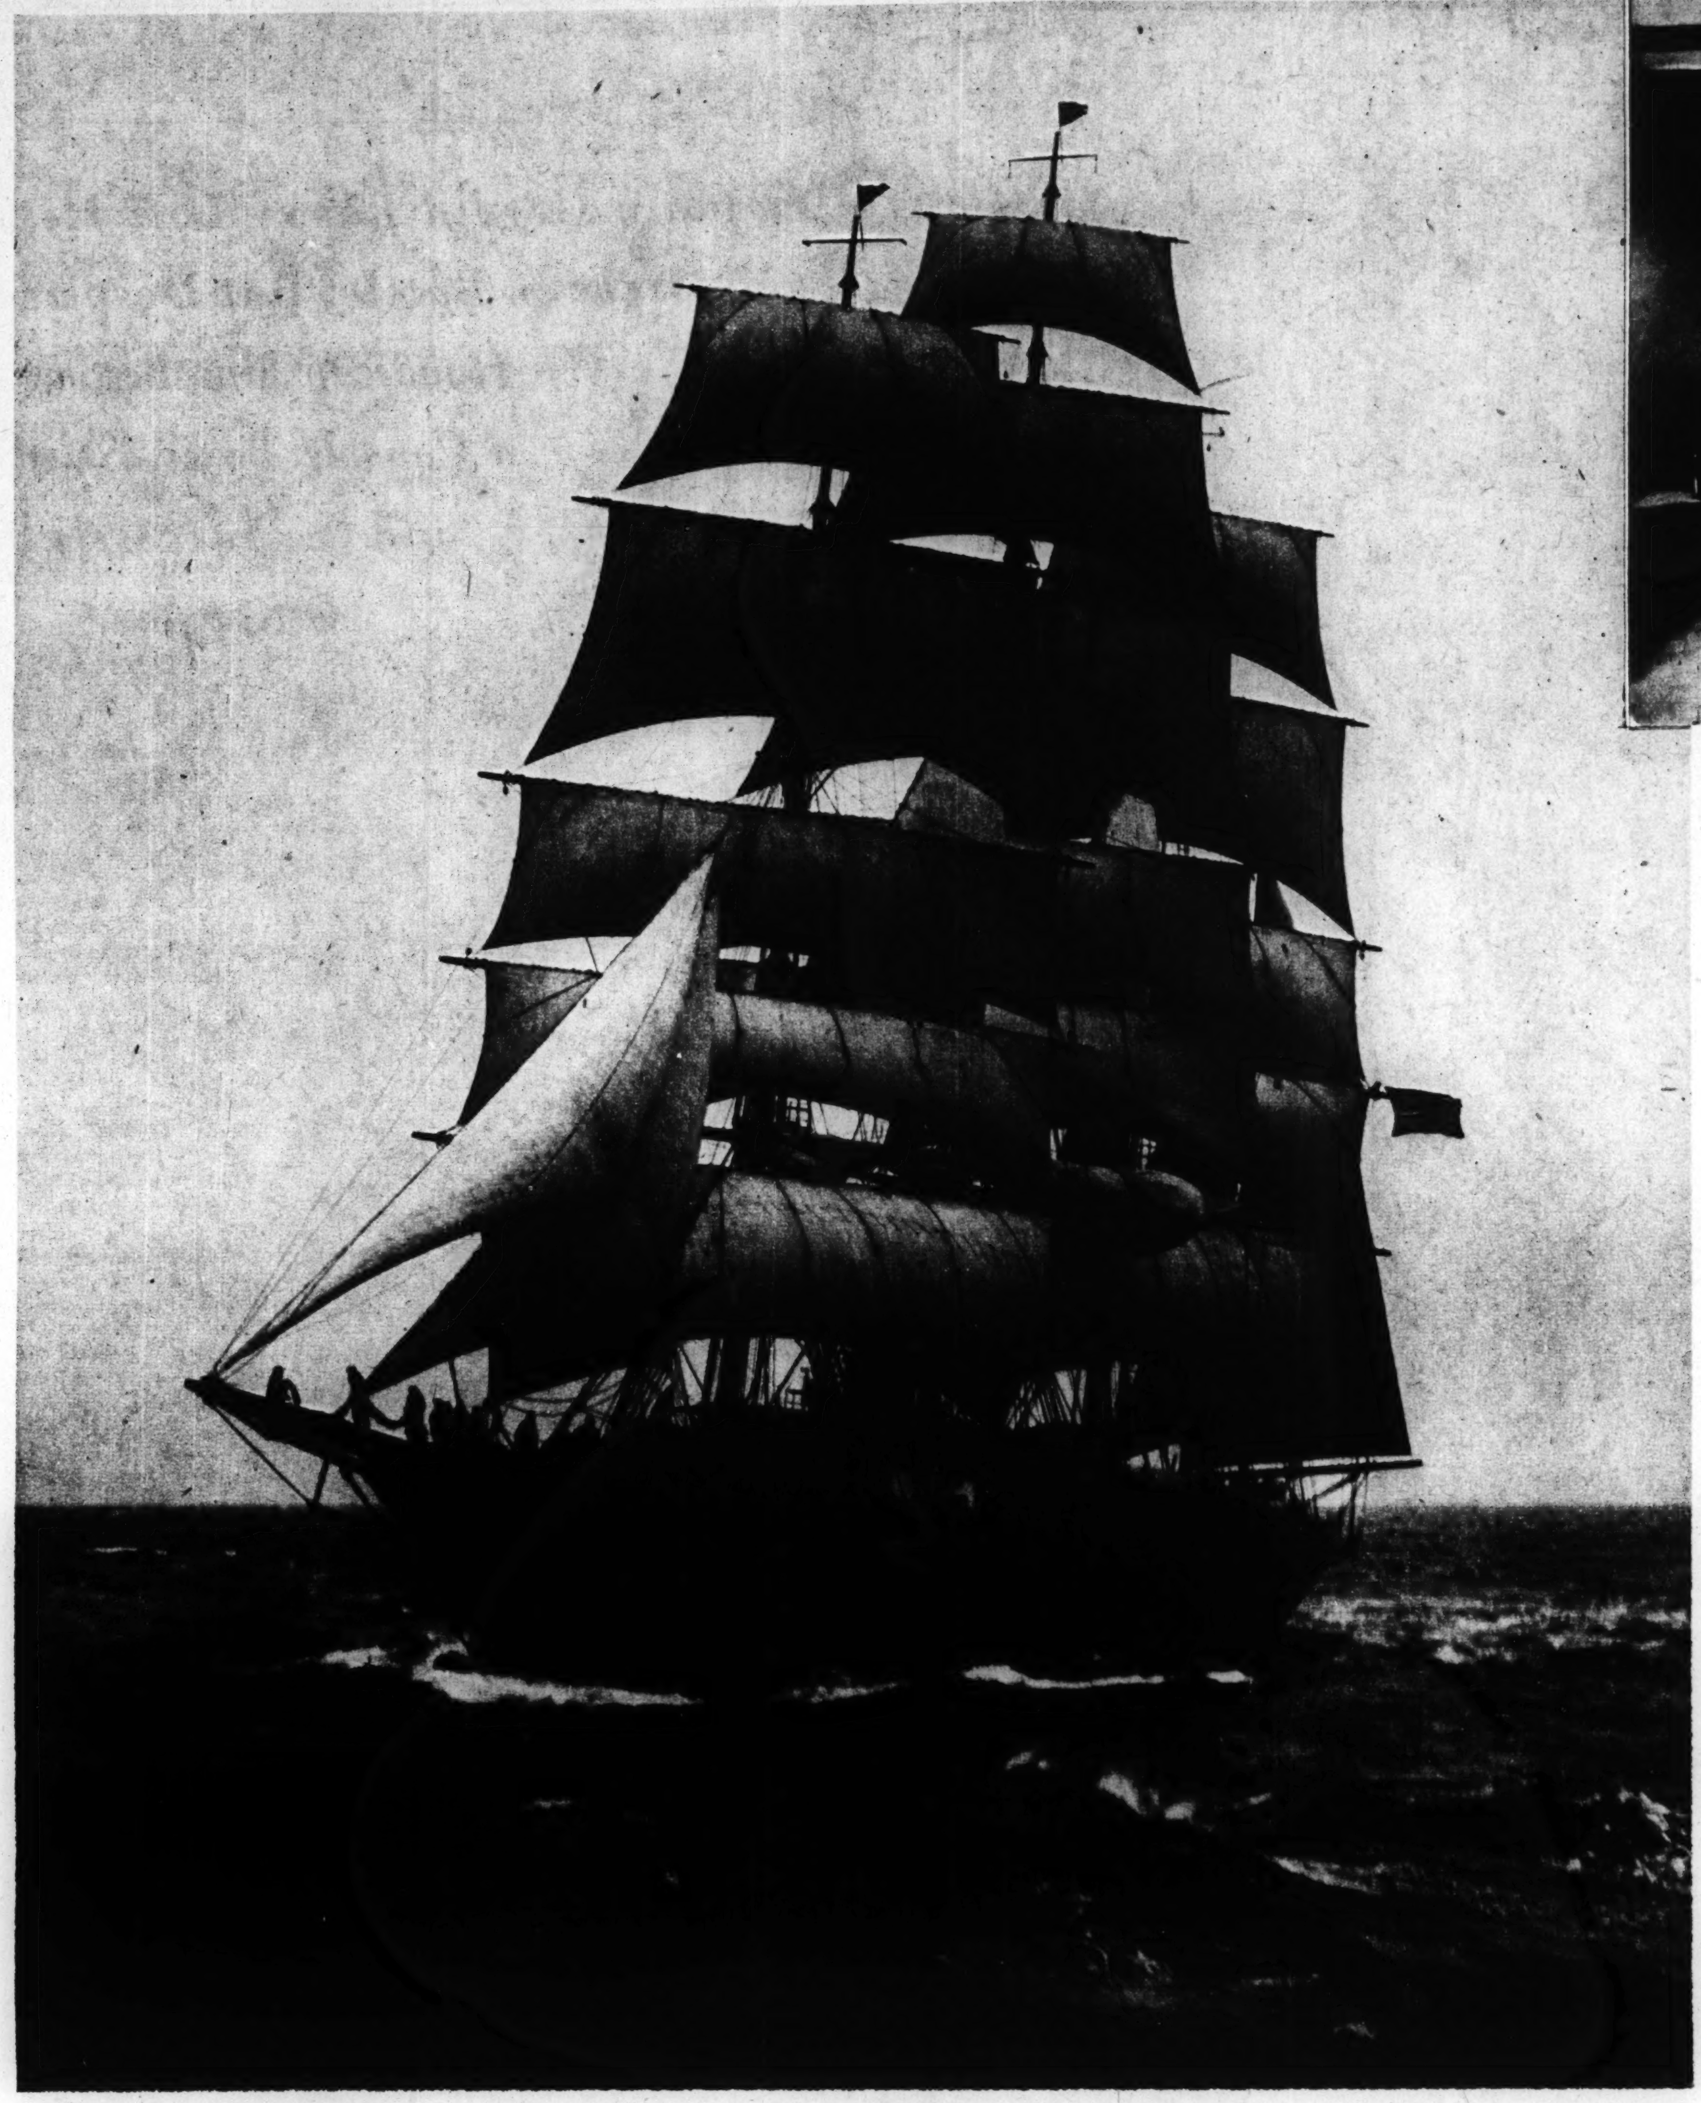
The smoking room of the "Savarona" with teak walls and cream-colored ceiling.

The Finest Yachts Afloat

The 'Hussar'—Which Is Now Taking Its Owner, Edward F. Hutton, Into the South Seas—Has a Complete Power Plant and Also Spreads 54,000 Square Feet of Sail, and the 'Savarona' Is the Last Word in Luxury.



The "Hussar."

By JACK ALEXANDER

A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

NEW YORK.

THE most unusual yacht afloat, and one of the finest, is the Hussar, which is owned by Edward F. Hutton of New York. She can discard her power plant, spread 54,000 square feet of canvas and hit a clip many steamers cannot touch. But the palm for beauty and tasteful elegance of appointments goes by unanimous award of yachtsmen to Mr. and Mrs. Richard M. Cadwalader Jr. of Philadelphia, owners of the Savarona.

Mr. Hutton is chairman of the board of the General Foods Company and an uncle of Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani. The Cadwaladers are of a distinguished American family, which dates back to colonial America. The owners of the palatial Savarona have retired from the financial field and now devote most of their time to simply being Cadwaladers, which is no mean task in itself.

But even such an arduous social duty must be lightened immeasurably by the beauties and conveniences of such a gem as the Savarona. Experts agree that never did a more harmoniously lovely thing grace the seas. Marie Antoinette (if she could have) would have gloried in the staterooms and salons of the slim, white craft. As for the Hussar, she is a shiny, black-hulled bark and, under full sail, a recreated image of the old, full-breasted American clipper ship. Both the Savarona and the Hussar are practically unsinkable. The Savarona is now tied up in Hamburg, where she was built. The Hussar is carrying the Huttons on a cruise that covers the South Seas, the Galapagos Islands, Hawaii and, lastly, Alaska, where the passengers will endeavor to pot a few polar bears.

If the Hussar were cut in two in a collision, the halves would float. If the bottom were sheared off by coral, there would still be no cause for immediate alarm, because Cox & Stevens, Inc., designed her for just such emergencies. And William Francis Gibbs, in planning the Savarona, provided 11 water-tight bulkheads, so arranged that any three adjacent compartments may be flooded without sinking the yacht. The watertight doors are hydraulic and may be operated from the bridge. Each of the fourteen staterooms has a private escape stairway to the deck. The Savarona is fitted also with screen bulkheads to prevent the spread of fire. In the engine and boiler rooms there is a carbon dioxide fire extinguishing system and a sprinkler system protects holds, dry stores and trunk rooms. In general, both yachts live up to the safety and utility specifications required of the fastest Atlantic liners. Blohm & Voss, famous Hamburg builders, constructed the Savarona. The Hussar was built at Kiel, Germany.

All the furniture for the Savarona was made especially in France of French walnut. The manufacturers almost wept when told they had to paint over the luxurious finish but this had to be done to protect the wood from the sea air. Non-corroding copper screws had to be used also. Almost every piece of furniture is of one French period or another, a trend favored by Mrs. Cadwalader. Morgan Cromwell Wells, decorator, spent more than a year abroad superintending the embellishment of the interior.

In the owners' stateroom the walls are of light peach, the moulding powder blue and the ceiling light cream. The sitting room draperies are peach silk trimmed with blue taffeta. In the

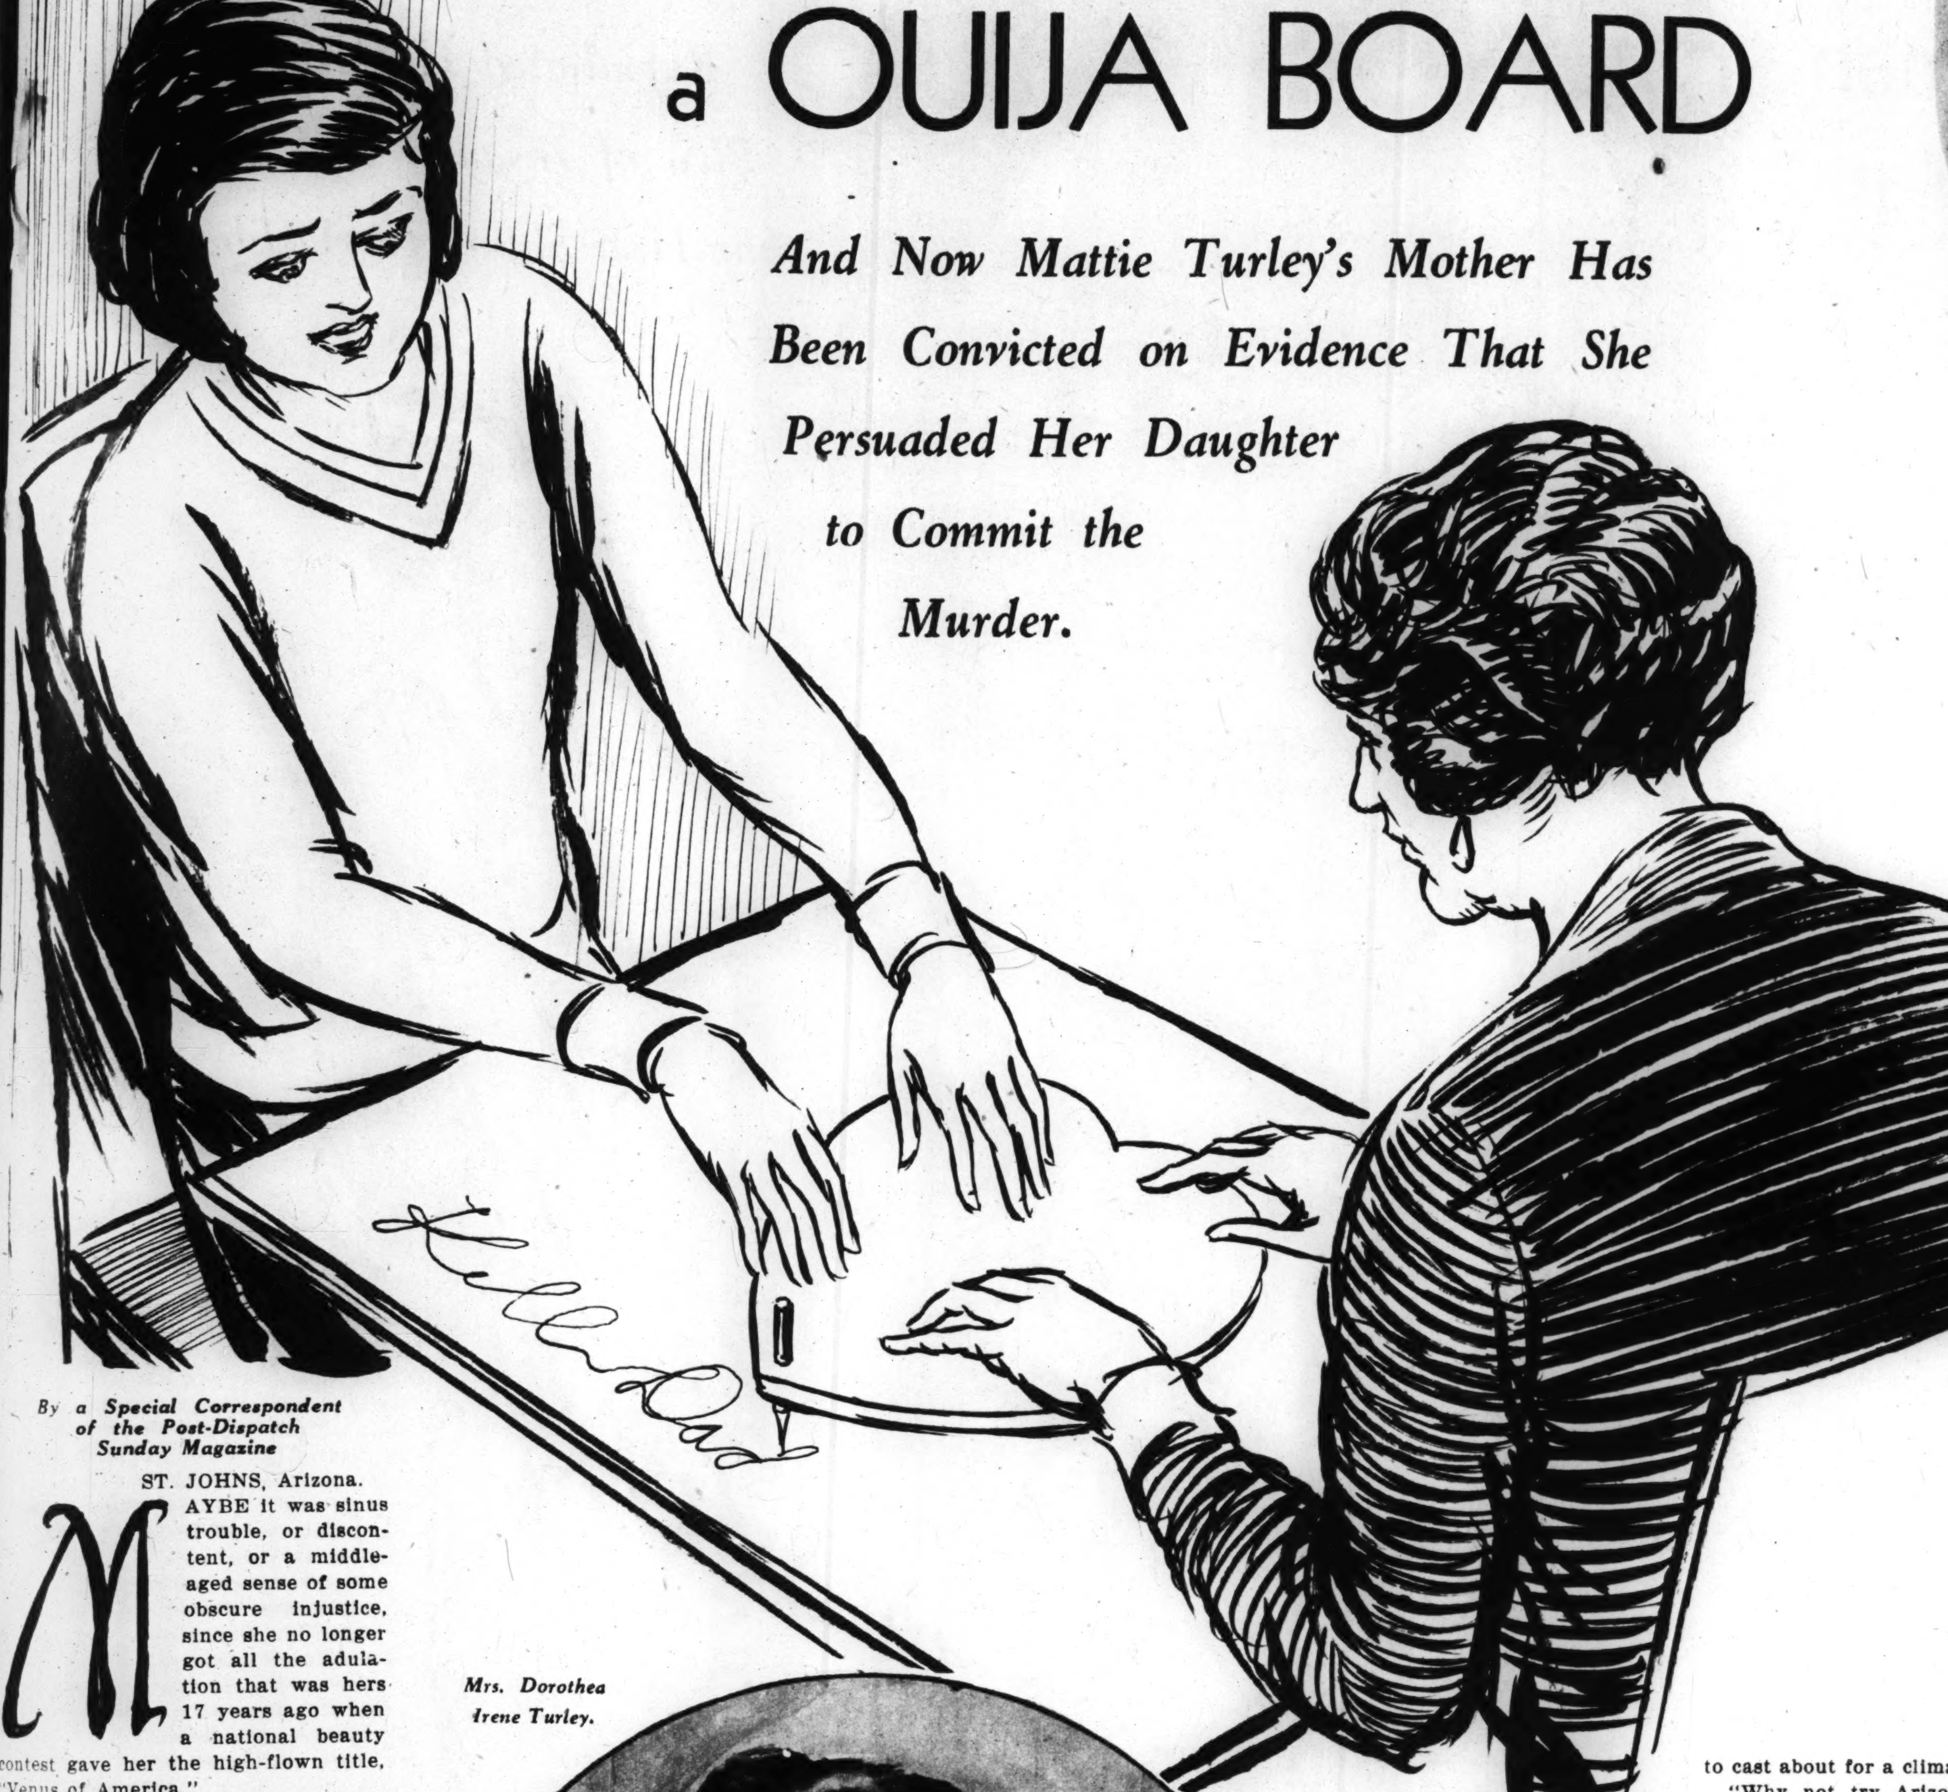
KILLED HER FATHER by 'ORDER' of a OUIJA BOARD

And Now Mattie Turley's Mother Has Been Convicted on Evidence That She Persuaded Her Daughter to Commit the Murder.



Mrs. Turley, when she won a national beauty contest in 1917.

ST. JOHNS, Arizona.

MAYBE it was sinus trouble, or discontent, or a middle-aged sense of some obscure injustice, since she no longer got all the adulation that was hers 17 years ago when a national beauty contest gave her the high-flown title, "Venus of America."

It's not unheard of for a woman to contrive her husband's death, even less so for her to wish it. And there seemed to be nothing new in Mrs. Dorothea Irene Turley's grudge against her husband.

But certainly the means was amazing—as extraordinary as the charge, "intent to kill," under which Mrs. Turley has just been convicted. The jury was told that Ernest J. Turley was fatally shot in the back by his 15-year-old daughter, Mattie, who had been "ordered" to kill him by a ouija board in the hands of her mother.

At various hearings the child testified she and her mother had been on "petting parties" together; that, while the ouija board had her father out on a wild goose chase for "buried treasure," her mother and "a young cowboy" were much together, and that her mother had told her the "spirits" must be obeyed.

Mattie, a comely girl with dark hair and great dark eyes, said at the trial of her mother that the "order" of the ouija board was followed by a "command" of the cards. She and her mother cut the "fortune" cards, she said.

"Mother was the queen of hearts. The cowboy was the king of hearts. The king of diamonds was father—and the ace of spades meant death for him. The ace of spades was drawn."

On the next day or so—last November 15—she went hunting with her father, she related, and her mother said: "Remember, don't fail me." The child explained on the stand: "I was supposed to shoot Daddy," and added that when they returned from the hunt she apologized, "I am sorry I failed."

Three days later the chance came again. She stood in the corral, holding a shotgun her father had given her, as he started toward the house with a pail of milk. She raised the gun, and her heart failed her. But, she said, she thought "how much it would mean to mother," and raised the gun again.

Turley, who was 46 years old, died on the day after Christmas at the Navy Hospital in San Diego. He was a chief gunner's mate of Naval Reserves. Mrs. Turley, whose attorney announced after her conviction he would seek a new trial, is 38 years old.

Mrs. Dorothea Irene Turley.

The penalty for "intent to murder" is five years to life in prison. The daughter was sentenced to six years in the Arizona Girls' Correction School at Randolph, and in her first month has established a reputation as a tractable young person with a determination to equip herself for a new start in life when she is released, at 21.

During the course of the investigation, which extended over six months, a young fellow identified by the County Attorney as the "handsome cowboy" in question also was brought up for a hearing. But he was released for lack of evidence. His name was Kent Pearce, and he had all the outward appearance of a movie-type cowpuncher, big hat, neckerchief, tight pants, bowlegs and all. A very frightened young man, he denied any untoward associations with Mrs. Turley.

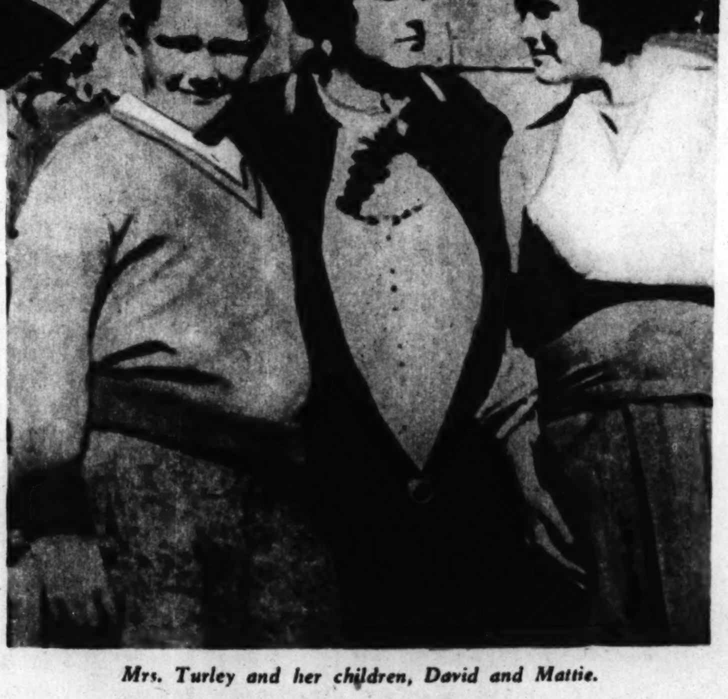
It was at Crestwood, New Jersey, in the hectic war year of 1917 that a newspaper chain concluded its national bathing-beauty contest. This chain had set out to find the "American Venus."

More than 50,000 entries came in—exquisitely beautiful maidens from every corner of every state. The judging could not have been easy, but in the end Dorothea Irene Kelynack of Astoria, New York, who had been singing on the stage after studying music abroad, was declared as nearly perfect as a girl could be. She tallied, it was announced, to the fraction of an inch with the proportional measurements of the classic Venus de Milo.

Dorothea received many hundred offers of marriage. She typified all that was desirable, to quote from the most reserved of them. A young man of the United States Navy, Ernest Turley, wooed most ardently of all. His dash and brilliance won her, and they eloped.

The daughter, Mattie, was born to them in Boston in 1918. Next year a son, David, was born, and in 1921 the family moved to California, settling at Coronado. Everything seemed rosy for the next decade, but poor health then began to claim its toll. Also, the adulation that Dorothea had known was now denied her; Turley's Navy salary was not quite in keeping with her "American Venus" style.

Sinus trouble caused Mrs. Turley so much suffering that the family began to cast about for a climatic change.



Mrs. Turley and her children, David and Mattie.

"Why not try Arizona?" a friend suggested. "The air is high and dry and delightful."

It was true and, besides that, Arizona's expansive mountains offered a fine vacation outing, anyway. Son David and daughter Mattie especially were elated. They demanded of Daddy if they would be allowed to go fishing and hunting; David hinted that, with a real gun, he might even bag a mountain lion.

They chose a spot high in the White Mountains. They couldn't possibly have picked a more romantic one. The only neighbors were cattle ranchers. One of them stalked up the first day they arrived, knocked at their ugly rented cabin, and said he understood they were newcomers and if possible he would like to have a job.

"We will let you know," smiled a very pretty woman in answer. "My husband is away from the house just now. What is your name?"

"It's Kent Pearce," the cow hand answered. Then his face, too, broke in a wide, appreciative smile.

Maybe it was the isolation, maybe it was the illness, maybe it was the longing for applause and admiration that girlhood days had known, but something in Mrs. Dorothea Turley began to breed discontent.

They had come to Arizona in August of 1933, and by September she was having frequent seances with her ouija board, seeking whatever comfort its "spirits" could give. One day she found some odd-picture rocks nearby, designs scratched by prehistoric Indians which even archeologists could not fathom now. She consulted the ouija board about them.

The board informed her that the rocks covered buried gold! Therefore she prevailed upon a rather disgruntled husband to do extensive searching. He dug and dug, even used dynamite, until his back was breaking. Eventually she went to the ouija again, and the board admitted, so Mrs. Turley said, that some mistake had been made. Turley never quite forgave her.

Often she and her husband had little spats and quarrels. Twice, it was revealed later, she even threatened his life. "Every time I look at you I want to kill you!" she screamed at him in a rage one time.

ON ANOTHER occasion, the trial testimony showed, she inquired of her husband about his life insurance, learned that he had two policies totaling $5000, and asked him how she could collect it if ever occasion arose. On still another occasion, she and Mattie asked him one day how far away Mattie's gun would kill a deer. He told them about 20 yards. They, of course, never mentioned to him the ouija board seances which pointed to his death.

On the night of November 17, 1933, a skunk got under the Turley cabin and had a fight with their cat. The noise and odor so disturbed them that they could sleep no more that night. They maintained a watch, but the skunk wouldn't come out.

They kept the watch up all next morning. After lunch, however, Mrs. Turley and David said they would go to the village store for groceries to have a dinner that night in honor of David's birthday.

"You stay with Daddy, Mattie, and help him catch the skunk," Mother suggested.

"I won't catch him, but I might shoot," Mattie replied. The two drove

MADRID.

AGAIN a mortal has attempted to create a perfect being and, having failed, has again destroyed that being. Dona Aurora Rodriguez has devoted the last 18 years to making her daughter, born of a "eugenic" union out of wedlock, all that she hoped of humanity. For 18 years she seemed, certainly to herself, to be achieving it. But when "imperfection" arose, the thought of failure was more than she could bear, and now she must spend the next 26 years in prison for the murder of her daughter, "The Red Virgin."

The flaw was love. The girl had a college degree at 13, but when she fell in love, the mother felt that all her passionate devotion had been vanquished by some insidious strain of depravity.

They tried to call the mother crazy, but she rebelled against acquittal on such grounds. Her recent trial was a stirring fight, not against the charge of murder, but against the implication she had acted from any but the most conscious and deliberate motives.

Her shrewd, grim old eyes flashed, her fingers crushed a nosegay of faded red carnations as she rose for her final tirade in the closing stages of the trial. She pointed at her attorney, who had sought to make the best defense possible in the circumstances.

"He has made out an abominable case," cried the fierce old woman. "He has tried to prove that my slaying of my beautiful child—she was only 18—was conclusive evidence of insanity. I am not mad."

And she took up each of the arguments he had advanced on her behalf and declared them false. She had known exactly what she was doing. Let them call her a cold-blooded killer, if they would, but not an unfortunate lunatic. She had seen nothing else to do in the wreck of her high hopes, no other way but to wipe the slate clean and start anew toward a perfect race, even though that meant the death of the one person she loved.

Twenty years ago, Dona Aurora decided to become the mother of a super-child. To this end she sought the "perfect man." She found a well-built, intelligent Englishman, chaplain, she said, of a large British liner, and by him she had a daughter.

She named the baby girl Hildegart, "Garden of Knowledge." She well deserved the name.

Her training was taken in hand as soon as she could lisp, and, under her mother's tuition, she developed into a prodigy. She was brought up without hearing any "Mother Goose nonsense," for the mother had very decided ideas on her training and development.

A measure of the mother's ability can be gleaned from a summary of the child's accomplishments.

At two months she could sit up alone.

At six months she could talk and recognize colors.

At thirteen months she could converse in polysyllables.

At seventeen months she could read.

At three and a half years she could use a typewriter, spell and play simple airs on the piano.

At four she learned the Latin declensions and conjugations and excited the attention of the linguists with her conversation in Esperanto.

At six she spoke French, Italian, German, Russian, as well as being able to converse in Arabic. She was also writing little stories and poems, and had become quite proficient as a dancer.

At eight she was rather well versed in Greek, Roman and Indian mythology.

At eleven she was in college, from which she graduated in two years with an A. B. degree, and then entered upon the study of law.

At seventeen she took a law degree.

At the time of her death—June 9, 1933 — she was studying medicine, with prospects bright for her graduation before reaching her majority.

She was an expert chess and bridge player, could ride and fence, played a remarkable game of tennis. She drew her own illustrations for the books she wrote. She played four musical instruments. She could cook, sew, crochet and knit.

Educators in every part of Spain were amazed when they questioned Hildegart. Countless parents, listening to Dona Aurora Rodriguez on the lecture platform, and seeing with their own eyes the wonders she had wrought, crowded up to her to learn how they could make their own children such well-informed, well-rounded and healthy persons.

The physical well-being of Hildegart was never for an instant sacrificed to mental prowess. Everything that she learned was taught in some stimulating fashion, so that it never became wearisome. When she was in her cradle her mother rocked her to sleep to the soporific rhythms of Virgil's opening lines in the Aeneid. Soon the infant learned them. Weights and measures were learned by playing at storekeeper with her dolls; observation, by trying to see how many objects in a shop window she could remember after she had passed by.

On the witness stand, seeking to convince the court and prosecuting officer that she had good reason to kill her daughter, Aurora Rodriguez said that from the hour of her birth Hildegart had lived on a special diet. The mother explained that the child was allowed "only those foods which would develop her brain."

UP TO the age of 12, Hildegart had no choice as to literature. Her mother chose all her books. With a watchful and never-relaxing vigilance, the mother supervised her social life. Nobody who might combat Dona Aurora's influence was allowed to see the child.

Hildegart wrote several books, including a treatise on sex, and quite a few pamphlets on politics. In Madrid, known as "The Red Virgin," she was a member of the Spanish Socialist Party. Some of her ideas were set forth in an article entitled, "Cain and Abel," in which a mother was defended for the murder of her daughter and Cain was praised as a man who could love or kill with equal forthrightness.

Hildegart's star was at its zenith when, Dona Aurora related on the witness stand, the mother discovered that the father, the "perfect man," was accused of having betrayed his own niece. She developed the obsession that he had passed on his frailty, and her eugenic love child had inherited from him a strain of depravity. And then, according to witnesses, she discovered her daughter had been the willing partner in a romance.

Pretending to have left Madrid for Barcelona to address a meeting of Socialists, Dona Aurora returned unannounced to her home. She found Hildegart listening with rapturous attention to the earnest pleadings of a young attache of the British diplomatic corps.

His plea seemed innocent enough—only that she become his wife and flee with him to England. But, after listening behind some shrubbery in the outdoor garden, as the lovers sat beside a pool, Dona Aurora slipped away and purchased a pistol. For the next two days she busied herself with target practice on the outskirts of Madrid.

The girl had begun to find her mother's restrictions irksome. She was quite agreeable to her fervid wooer's suggestion that she become his wife and settle down in another land. She was beginning to resent the social ostracism to which she was subjected by the more formal families of the Spanish capital.

ALL Madrid knew the secret of her birth, and no longer did she take pride in it. Of course, she was welcome among the radicals and the intellectuals, but now she yearned for recognition by those who regarded the conventions imposed by position.

Dona Aurora felt her hold on Hildegart was slipping away, and her work had come to naught. She thought she should not allow a creature, thus short of her ideals, to live. And she was quite satisfied with her target practice.

At dawn that June morning a year ago, the mother crept silently into the room where Hildegart lay sleeping peacefully and pumped three bullets into the girl's heart.

Thus the "female Svengali" destroyed the "Trilby" she had created. And the story of the mother's cruel revenge, as revealed in court, was in spots not unlike that which Du Maurier wrote. Indeed, there was quite a resemblance between Hildegart and "Trilby."

When the mother was arrested, she said:

"I am not repentant. This tragic bit of business had to happen. I wrote the 'Cain and Abel' article—as I wrote many others which appeared under my daughter's name—and when Hildegart signed it she signed her own death warrant."

When the accused mother appeared in court a few days ago she browbeat the court prosecutor for two hours and defended anarchy, free love and atheism. While proclaiming passionate love for her daughter she insisted that she had good reason for shooting her and would do so again a thousand times in the same circumstances.

Despite attempts to keep her to relevant matters, she kept harping on the conduct of her daughter's sweet-

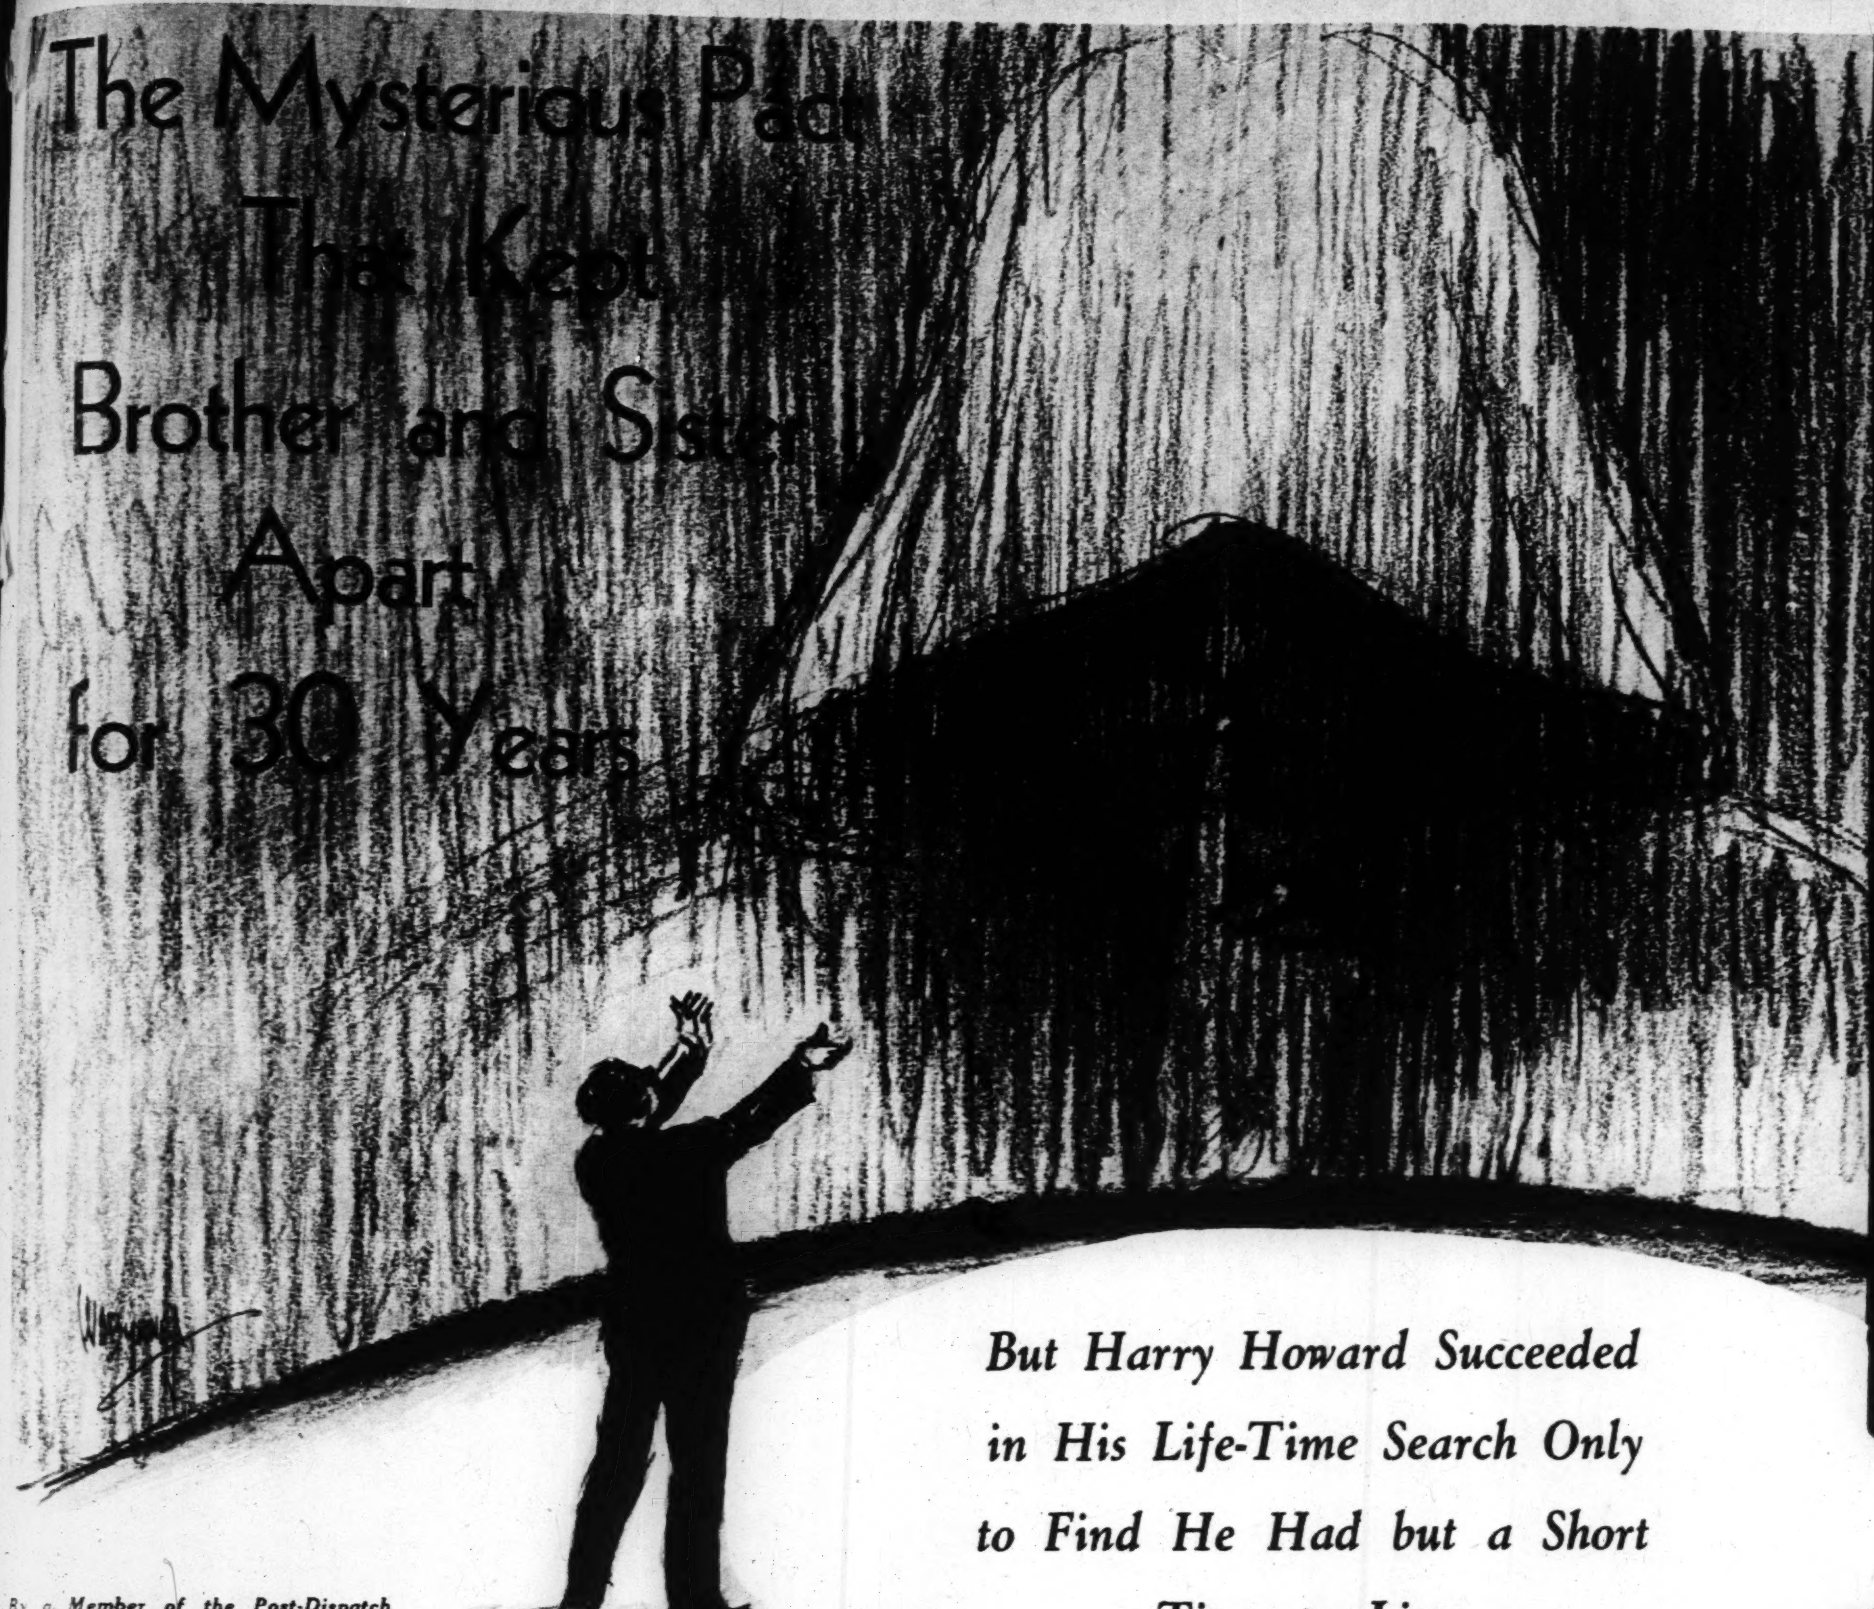
The Mysterious Pact That Kept Brother and Sister Apart for 30 Years



But Harry Howard Succeeded in His Life-Time Search Only to Find He Had but a Short Time to Live.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

MEMPHIS, Tennessee.

HOW two estranged parents made a curious pact never to see one another again, and thereby managed to prevent a meeting of their two children for more than three decades, was called to the public attention for the second time when Harry Stewart Howard died not long ago in Chicago. The unusual story of Howard's almost lifelong search for the sister he had not known since infancy lost little of its pathos by the fact that the long, often frustrated hunt was eventually successful. For though the brother and sister were acquainted for three years, they saw one another only for two 10-day periods. And even when the interminably delayed meeting had been arranged and Howard came here to Memphis to see the sister he had spent so long trying to find, they both knew that he was incurably ill and couldn't possibly live more than four years at the most. Just as they had come to know one another and had conceived a deep mutual affection, Harry Howard died. The last chapter of their story seemed, like everything else about it, to have been prearranged by a malign fate.

Harry Stewart Howard and his sister, Nell Stewart, were the children of a theatrical impresario and a singer in Atlanta, Georgia. The father, J. Talmadge Stewart, was the son of a prosperous real estate dealer, an Englishman. He was a tall, handsome fellow, with penetrating, steel gray eyes and a romantic instability of temperament. His wife, a Spanish girl, is said to have been very lovely and gifted with an unusually sweet voice. Though years later Stewart spoke with regret and sentimental affection of his wife, telling his daughter that Catherine Stewart was the only woman he had ever loved, the marriage was not a happy one. After the births of their two children there was a divorce, apparently attended by circumstances of extreme bitterness on both sides. There was no contest, however, over the possession of the children. Harry, the elder, went with his mother to Chicago; Nell stayed in Atlanta with her father—but not for long. Talmadge Stewart was given to extensive traveling and spent little of his time at home. His daughter was cared for entirely by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Stewart, in Atlanta.

Although there is no certain proof, it seems from the ensuing happenings that a pact of complete separation was made as part of the divorce; that Catherine and Talmadge Stewart swore they would never have anything to do with one another or allow their children to meet. Nell was never told of the existence of her brother and was led to believe that her mother had died. Until many years later she persisted in this delusion. After a time she ceased to see her father altogether and was, to all intents, an orphan—though both parents were living up to about five years ago.

"He must have been a fast liver," she says now, referring to her prodigal father. "He liked to lead a gay, careless life. He spent so much time abroad that he could hardly call himself an American citizen. And while he never treated me unkindly, he was always thoroughly indifferent."

At the age of 19 Nell married Dr. C. W. Stephens, a promising young dentist from Mississippi. Their marriage has been a pleasant one. Dr. Stephens is a thrifty, energetic man and is considered one of the most capable members of his profession in Memphis. The Stephenses have three children, the eldest, Marguerite, being almost 21 years old. They live in a handsome suburban home in the prosperous new residential section known as Hein Park.

IT WAS there, some nine years ago, that Mrs. Stephens received a mysterious telephone call, the first sign—though she did not then recognize it as such—her mother was still living.

"I'm from Chicago," said the voice of a woman at the other end of the line. I was just passing through Memphis. . . . No, I won't tell you who I am. But I have a message from a person who is very near and dear to you—someone who thinks of you constantly and prays for you every night. I won't tell you who it is, but I'll give you this clew: Go downtown and buy the phonograph record, 'Sweet Spirit, Hear My Prayer.'"

Without any further explanation the speaker hung up. Mrs. Stephens, thoroughly mystified, as might have been expected, went to several department stores and music shops before she was able to locate a copy of the record. It had been made 10 or 12 years before, and was no longer regularly on sale. Even when she found it, the song gave little further information. The name of the singer meant nothing to her. But later she was to discover that the singer and the author of the curious telephone call were the same person—her mother.

Mrs. Stephens thinks now that her mother kept an eye on her during her entire life.

Despite the fact that she never saw her mother, Mrs. Stephens has an old friend in Memphis who knew her and had sung duets with her. She recalls that Catherine Stewart was a sweet, attractive woman, with large eyes, remarkable for their melancholy depth, and a fine voice. After her divorce she married a Chicagoan named Howard. To him she bore two daughters, whom Mrs. Stephens has never met.

Meanwhile, the son Harry was growing up. He had taken his stepfather's name at the time of his mother's second marriage. When he was 14 she decided to tell him of the existence of his father and sister. His curiosity aroused, he was instantly determined to find them, but she made every effort to dissuade him and withheld any information she may have possessed regarding their lives and where they lived. Her refusal to help him was, however, only part of the barricade which fate seemed busy erecting between Harry Howard and his sister. He had married six months before the United States entered the World War. He enlisted, served in France, was seriously wounded and was decorated.

When he returned to Chicago to resume his work as auditor, he was no nearer finding her than he had been before. That he was eventually able to do so came about through a coincidence.

It happened at a funeral Howard attended in Chicago at which an old Atlanta friend of the Stewarts was also present. This friend detected a family resemblance and asked him whether he were Harry Stewart. When he answered yes, she told him of his father and he learned for the first time that Talmadge Stewart was living in Atlanta. At the first opportunity he went South to continue his search. That he was able to meet his father was, however, of little use in locating his sister. Talmadge Stewart, by this time a weary, impoverished old man, refused point blank to give him any information as to her whereabouts. But by means of newspaper clippings and old records Howard was able to find the trail by himself, though it took several years to do so.

It was the night after Christmas in 1929. The Stephens family were having a gay party around the hearth of their Hein Park home. The phone rang. A maid came in to say the call was long distance from Chicago, "for Nell Stewart Stephens." Rather bewildered, Mrs. Stephens' second daughter went to the phone, but returned in a moment to say the call was for Mrs. Stephens herself. So the mother picked up the receiver and heard a man's voice asking:

"Were you Nell Stewart before you were married?"

"Yes," she answered, "why?"

"Fine!" The other voice was tremulous. "This is your brother speaking."

"But I have no brother," Mrs. Stephens protested. "You must have the wrong person. Look here, you'd better hang up. There must be a mistake about this."

"DON'T you hang up on me," the man exclaimed hastily. "I've been looking for you ever since I was 14 years old. Now that I've found you I'm not going to lose you. Here, I can prove it all to you." And Harry Howard began reeling off facts and dates and place names until his sister was convinced.

After recovering from the shock, Mrs. Stephens became hilarious with joy. Howard's call had explained the mysterious telephone message that Mrs. Stephens had received five years before.

Soon afterwards Howard arrived, a shy, sensitive man. Howard brought his wife with him and they stayed as long as they were able—ten days. But the happiness of their reunion was marred by Howard's illness. Since the war he had had to wear a steel plate to protect his side, owing to the severe internal wounds he had suffered. The doctors said he couldn't possibly live more than four years. He died in three.

About a year before that the Stephenses went to Chicago to repay the visit. The brother and sister had formed a strong mutual affection.

Mrs. Stephens never saw her father again—after leaving Atlanta. Once Talmadge Stewart did come to Memphis. He sent a message saying he was there. "But I didn't want to see him," Mrs. Stephens says. "While I didn't hold any grudge against him, he had showed me nothing but indifference. I felt the same way about him." So Talmadge Stewart went back to Atlanta, where, a few years ago, he died.

OLD MEN REMEMBER

OLIVER HARTFORD, erect and alert, wore a G. A. R. uniform of excellent tailoring, topped by a cap of Federal blue. His brother, Sammy Hartford, was a scraggly man in Confederate gray. They walked through the blue-fair sunlight from the two-storied log house near where the battle of Stones River opened, along the Mansen pike to the battle ground national park. It was typical Tennessee pre-Christmas weather.

"I've been telling my son Billy maybe you'll help us out, now you've come home to stay, Oliver," Sammy panted. "A little money would fix the farm up good."

"Yes," Oliver Hartford said noncommittally. The farm, of rolling redlands and gray humps of outcropping limestone, cornering on the national park, wore, he thought, an air of rundown desolation.

"The mortgage is $4500. Me'n you, Oliver, can't take nothing to the grave."

Oliver commented dryly, "But I notice the Hartfords have a habit of lasting a good span of time."

"What about the Hartfords that come after us?"

"They might try worrying along as we have!"

The ancient veterans turned into the battle ground, and Oliver paused only when they reached a stone fence. He fumbled at the stones, and said musingly:

"It was here somewhere, 70 years ago, Sammy." He found a hole in the rocks, and stooped and peered through it.

"This is the place, Sammy. The battle comes clear to my mind. You Rebs had driven us Yanks back upon the Nashville and Murfreesboro turnpike. The line had to be held till the shattered forces could be rallied.

"I was one of a squad of sharpshooters sent behind this wall to pick off the enemy in the cedars of Round Forest. For hours I knelt here, firing steadily through this hole. Seventy years ago, Sammy. We are at the twilight of our years."

"When rheumatism gripes my j'ints, bub," Sammy said, "I feel like it's about two hours past sundown!"

Oliver laughed in genial melancholy, his face at once tender and hard. "Sammy, young men dream, mature men achieve, old men remember."

"All they got is what they remember," Sammy snorted.

"See those rocks?" Oliver pointed to a mass of stones resembling humps of sleeping camels. "A nest of Reb sharpshooters there made things hot for us. One Reb annoyed me terribly. I could have clipped him through the brain several times, I guess, but it's different, Sammy, killing men in the wrath of open battle, and lying behind a stone wall and picking them off with cold accuracy.

"Anyway, once I drew a bead on this rascal's hat and let him have it." Oliver chuckled gleefully. "Thought I'd got him, but I hadn't—just stunned him. But I stopped him!"

Sammy stared, as if remembering something forgotten. "Oliver, was that you back of this here stone wall?"

"Why, yes"——

"Good Lord!" Sammy removed his gray hat and ran a finger along a scar groove in his white hair. "That was me in the rocks. This is where you shaved my brains!"

Oliver stood motionless, looking, and finally said, "Well—well, well"—

"I'LL be dadburned!" Sammy quavered. "A little closer, buddy, and I'd been dead with the rest of 'em these 70 year!"

"Sammy, I didn't mean to, really. I'd shot at you two hours, trying to miss you. But it's done—it's done. I declare! You remember, just before the great battle I'd taken pretty Sally Ann Reedy to a dance at Peter Rood's.

"Sammy, you were a cunning rascal in those days. You beat my time with Sally Ann and took her back home that night, and when I passed the Reedy gate you were kissing my sweetheart in the moonlight. Well, neighbor boys were joining up with Bragg—some with Rosecrans—my sympathies were Union from the beginning—you'd stolen my girl, and I was an intense person then, and I knew I'd kill you; I did my clothes in a bundle, slipped from the house, and walked that night to Smyrna and joined Rosecrans' army."

He laughed gently, and touched the scar on Sammy's head. "That's irony for you! If I'd known I might have drawn a closer bead—then. But time mellows one. It's done and forgotten. I loved Sally Ann better than any other woman I've ever known."

"Well, darn your pop-eyed picture! She came home with me, Oliver, just to bedevil you for turning Yank. She didn't give a dang for me." His face became vacant. "She's been dead these 10 year. She never forgot you, Oliver."

"Time cools ancient passions, and erases old hates," Oliver commented.

"I dunno," Sammy snorted. He waved a feeble hand toward the redlands. "As I said, Billy's a good dirt farmer, and if he was shed of debt he'd do well with the farm. You got plenty to last your span, Oliver, and $5000 would clear the place"——

"Please, let's not talk about that, Sammy!" Oliver begged. "I came here this morning to remember."

"Durn it, remember, then!" Sammy said wrathfully.

They followed the hairpin road through the park. A roadster turned from the traffic on the Nashville highway, and gave a blast of its horn. Oliver stepped aside with measured dignity. An amazingly pretty girl in scarlet sweater and jaunty tam was driving. She had a winey, vigorous beauty. Oliver Hartford rubbed his eyes and stared as the car went rolling past them.

"Sammy!" he said hoarsely. "That was Sally Ann Reedy! As I live"——

"Naw! That was Sally Ann Reedy's granddaughter, Barbara Johns."

"Is that a fact?" Oliver, standing there in his finery, mouth open, must have looked like some aristocratic hitch-hiker. The car slowed, and the girl called back:

"Buggy ride, old-timers?"

"Shore!" Sammy yelled.

They clattered to the roadster, and Barbara made room for them. Oliver, studying her grace and charm, looking into her fine eyes, realized she was the reincarnation of his old sweetheart, and the miracle left him oddly breathless.

"Barbara, this is brother Oliver." Sammy chuckled. "He thought you was his old sweetheart. For a little he'd snatch you in his arms and kiss you!"

Barbara stared with frank curiosity, and exclaimed in delicious surprise, "Oliver Hartford! I know all about you! Granny told me a thousand times. Isn't he dignified and marvelous, Uncle Sammy? Granny used to say he was wonderful!"

"He ain't never done nothing but set in a chair and teach mathematics!" Sammy grumbled jealously. "I had to work all my time like a mule, and never had a chance to get dignified and marvelous!"

Barbara laughed merrily, and the car moved off.

Oliver Hartford smiled. "Honey, I've got to have a date with you!"

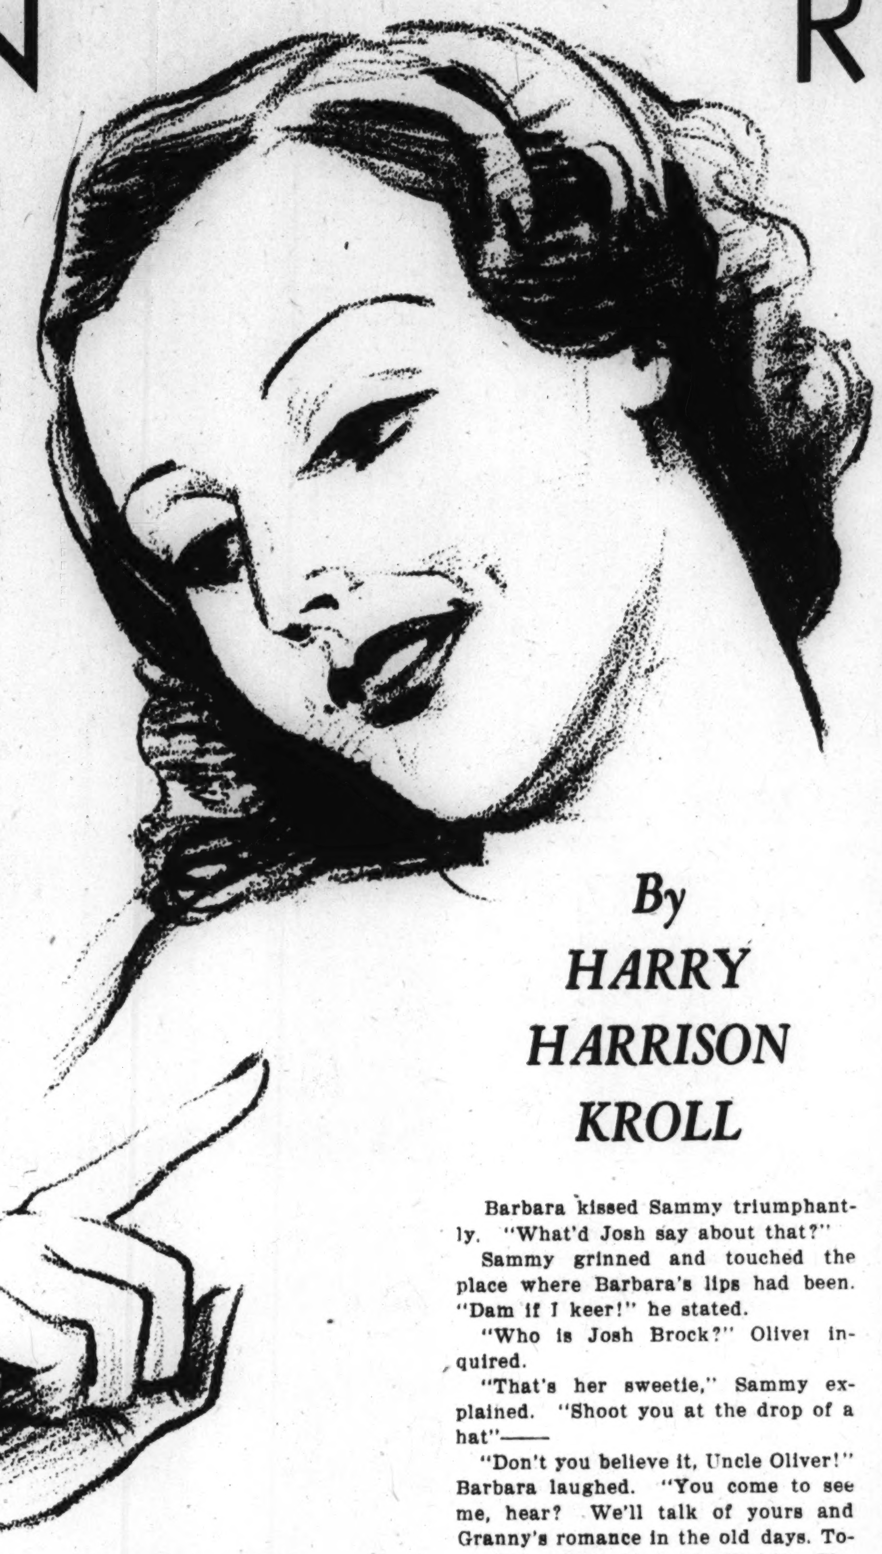
"You shall"——

"Don't you date him up, gal!" Sammy interrupted shrilly. "He'll shore hug ye! He's a widower, going on 90 year old and in his second prime, and he'll shore spark the fire out of you!"

"Shut up, Sammy," Oliver said, and kicked Sammy's shin.

"I'd like that," Barbara said, the sunlight in her dimples. "A date for you any time, Uncle Oliver, and a hug and a kiss to boot." She slowed the car in front of the log house. "I love old folks." She suddenly kissed Oliver.

"Yah," Sammy sneered. "What'd Josh Brock say if he seen that?"



"Oliver Hartford! I know all about you!"

By HARRY HARRISON KROLL

Barbara kissed Sammy triumphantly. "What'd Josh say about that?"

Sammy grinned and touched the place where Barbara's lips had been. "Dam if I keer!" he stated.

"Who is Josh Brock?" Oliver inquired.

"That's her sweetie," Sammy explained. "Shoot you at the drop of a hat"——

"Don't you believe it, Uncle Oliver!" Barbara laughed. "You come to see me, hear? We'll talk of yours and Granny's romance in the old days. Tomorrow afternoon at 3? Fine!" The car moved away. She waved and called, "Good-by." And she was gone.

Sammy and Oliver went up and sat in the rockers on the sunny porch. Sammy sniggered, lighting a cigar Oliver gave him. "Bub, let that young man of hers catch an old gander like you hanging around his honeybunch, and he'll snatch you by the scruff of the neck and slack of the pants and throw you in Stone's River! Getting back to the business of the mortgage, and Billy being a right smart dirt farmer"——

"Sammy, please!" Oliver begged. "Let us have a rest about that mortgage"——

SAMMY rose and shook a wrathful finger under Oliver's nose. "Who the hell are you, you durned home-made Yank, to be always saying 'give us a rest—give us a rest'? Dadburn your rusty tintype"——

Oliver laid a contrite hand on his brother's arm. "Forgive me, Sammy. I was dreaming of old times. We'll talk about the farm later; but now I want nothing except to remember."

Christmas hung sharply in the air; and Oliver stole often away to be alone with the fragrance of old memories.

After the great battle Sammy had followed the armies till the surrender of Lee; he returned home and begged Sally Ann to marry him. She laughed in his face. So Sammy had married Maggie Sellers from Hall's Mill, who gave him 10 children; the tribe numbered, now, something like 100. Oliver would see them all at the Christmas tribal reunion.

Oliver musingly told his own years. He was with Grant at Chattanooga, and with Grant into the Virginia campaign. At Cold Harbor he had saved the life of a young officer named Baylor. Baylor had dropped his university course to enter the war. After the surrender, Oliver went north with Baylor, entering the university with him, and later marrying Baylor's sister.

Oliver became a professor of mathematics, lived a sheltered life, wrote textbooks, had two inches in "Who's Who." Now he was back at his boyhood home in Tennessee, planning to finish his days in the sunny spot where he had begun them. Because the great battle had been fought in the holidays, it seemed fitting to return at Christmas time.

The battle of Billy and the mortgage was a gnawing fight that could not be disposed of in the glory of heroics. To escape, Oliver Hartford tramped the battlefield, hunting minie balls, brass harness fragments, maybe a buried broken bayonet.

He knew the wistful loneliness of an old man, stumbling amongst his memories.

He went daily to see Barbara Johns, sitting by the fire in the old house on the Mansen pike, watching her graceful goings and comings. His heart followed old emotional grooves, old joys, old scenes. He loved Barbara with an old man's fragrance of affection.

He met Josh Brooks, and liked the thrifty-muscled, blue-eyed, honest young man. Josh was planning to buy the old Overall farm, on Overall's Creek, when he got the money for down payment.

"All I can do right now, though, Uncle Oliver, is plan," he said.

"Young men dream dreams," Oliver Hartford nodded.

"Barbara and I will marry sometime, and I want to get somewhere in life."

"Mature men achieve," Oliver said. He laughed, patting Josh's back. "I am old, and old men remember—it is all they can do. But young folks—why, young folks dream dreams. They dream dreams—but old men remember."

At Sammy's of evenings, there were dancing and laughter and eggnog and song. The boys cut a holly tree, and the girls decorated it in the living room. Sammy drank eggnog and sat in the chimney corner, his pale eyes running water and his lips trembling, as he pleaded with Oliver to turn over the $5000 to his son, Billy, to clear the debt. Oliver hungered to wring Sammy's old neck.

In the fair cold days, Oliver walked the battlefield with Barbara, hunting battle relics together, and finding with her a fraternity he did not know with his kin. He realized the horizons of himself and kindred were as remote as were the old Yank and Rebel principles. He and Barbara walked and prowled and had long, eloquent silences together. He loved her with an old man's deep remembered love. Old men remember, because they cannot forget.

Once Sammy bristled with jealous rage. "Reckon I could show you the sights! I fit more of the battle than that there gal, I reckon!"

Oliver said quietly: "When I am with her, I go back to the old days with Sally Ann. Faded longings, and dream-stuff—and futile, I know. But I like it. I love the girl, and I love the memories she brings back to me."

"Dreams—bah! Memories—hell fire! All that gal wants is your money!"

"That's a dirty lie"——Oliver checked his anger.

He abruptly laughed. "Ah, really? Well, she's not the only one." He turned and walked away.

The day before Christmas Oliver went to Murfreesboro on business and returned late. Sammy eyed him sourly.

"Where you been?"

"Ah—in town on business."

"What sort of business?"

"Just a little matter of my own concern."

"I know what kind of business, dadburn your time, Oliver Hartford!" Sammy rose snarlingly. "You fixing to give that there money to that there danged gal!"

It was Christmas eve, and the living room after supper was crowded and noisy, with the children packed around the base of the Christmas tree.

The holiday spirit, properly encouraged with an abundance of eggnog, did that, Oliver Hartford thought whimsically.

But it was Barbara, going and coming in her deft, silken way, that he studied most craftily. He became, for one strange beautiful moment, a young man again. Young, desperately in love, and filled with strange loyalties and grim allegiances.

What can old men do but remember? If he'd known, when he was filled with the lush juices of youth, what he knew when his brittle bones were marrowless with age, it would all have been different. If only old men could remember forward instead of backward!

The gifts were fast being cut from the tree. Oliver Hartford had hung one there a little while before.

Barbara took the gift, tucking it under her arm until she had an opportunity to unwrap it. Oliver Hartford watched. At last Barbara broke the cord and tore away the wrapper. She stood, arrested with astonishment, which became joy and dazed wonder when she saw that it was a deed to the Overall farm, made from Oliver Hartford to herself. Her eyes came, by some spontaneous power of direction, straight to Oliver Hartford's.

SHE went swiftly to him, there in the aura of half-light, and for a deep moment they looked into each other's eyes. Abruptly the stern old man took the soft young woman into his aged arms, and the years fell away and he kissed her. Little matter that others saw the kiss, for nothing mattered but the memory.

"You gave that farm to me?" Barbara whispered.

Oliver Hartford laughed tenderly, in far-off mirth. "No, honey," he said. "I gave it to her. It only happens that she lives on within you, so that I may hand my dead memories on to the living memory."

He smiled tenderly.

He went a moment later to the telephone and called the garage at Murfreesboro, and soon his car was waiting at the gate. He tossed his effects into a grip, donned his Federal greatcoat and cap, and went out. The chauffeur put his grip into the car and gently assisted Oliver Hartford to enter. The man touched his cap.

"Where, sir?"

Oliver Hartford waved toward Nashville, toward the north. He said: "We go to join up with Rosecrans."

"Yes, sir."

A moment later the big car moved away into the night.

bedroom and dressing room the draperies are of peach linen with a figure of powder blue. The beds and day bed are painted an antiquated peach and the chests are old blue. The upholstery is done in a color scheme of blue and peach.

Stateroom No. 2 has turquoise blue walls, peach moulding, light cream ceiling and draperies of peach and turquoise blue. The furniture is painted bluish green and the upholstery is turquoise blue and peach.

JUST to give a few more random samples, stateroom No. 8 has powder blue walls, light beige moulding, light cream ceiling and draperies of blue silk-figured damask; the furniture is light blue and beige and the upholstery is colored similarly, with coral added. In the women's dressing room the walls are silver, patined with a light sea green, and the columns and baseboard are marbleized white; the draperies are a silver metal cloth, the furniture is painted black and silver and oyster white and the color scheme of the upholstery is deep green, silver and black; there is a black carpet. Elsewhere on the Savarona the carpets are taupe.

Savarona means "black swan" in the tongue of some American Indian tribe and the idea is carried out in many places. Some doors have black swan head handles; swan figures decorate tables and are used in shelf supports.

A Sperry Gyro stabilizer eliminates almost all the roll, or side-to-side motion, of the Savarona but no one has yet devised anything that will stop pitching motion or the yacht would have it. On a trial trip the Gyro was turned off near the Irish coast and the yacht pitched 30 degrees more than with the Gyro working.

The Savarona has a sustained sea speed of 18 knots and she runs at all speeds without the slightest vibration. Mechanical ventilation provides change of air in all staterooms and crew quarters every 15 minutes. In the galleys the air is changed 30 times an hour. The steam-heating system produces 70 degrees when the outside temperature is 15 above zero.

Over-all, the Savarona is 407.1 feet long and at the water line she is 350 feet. She has a beam of 53 feet and she draws 20.6 feet of water. In the steam class she is the largest yacht in the world. The chief machinery is of the geared turbine twin screw, high pressure type, such as is used in the Atlantic express liners. Besides four metallic lifeboats, equipped with air tanks, the Savarona carries a 34-foot cabin launch of the sedan type and a 28-foot fishing launch of the raised-deck type.

In the navigating department are found all the latest appliances—fathometers, radio direction finder, electric sounding machine and automatic steering. The wireless equipment includes a telegraph transmitter, a shortwave transmitter, an emergency transmitter, an intermediate frequency ship receiver and a high frequency receiver. This gives unlimited range of transmission and reception no matter what the weather is like.

The Hussar is powered by a Diesel electric plant, which means that Diesel engines turn generators and enough electricity is produced to send the craft zipping through the water. Rigged as a bark, the Hussar made a remarkable crossing of the Atlantic last year. In one 48-hour stretch, with all canvas set, she made 720 miles. That is an average of 15 knots, which is good speed for many liners.

The Hussar has a length overall of 367 feet. She is 305 feet at the water line and has a 50-foot beam. She has telephone service in every room, huge rugs, glistening mirrors, diffused lighting and carved wood paneling that combine to make her as fine and ornate as a luxury liner. There are electric winches throughout and she is one of the few Diesel electric boats in America whose motors can be started, stopped and controlled from the bridge.

A GOLDEN eagle embellishes the prow of the Hussar. It was designed by Theodore E. Blake, whose inspiration, appropriately enough, was the St. Gaudens eagle on the twenty-dollar gold piece. The eagle is carved in teakwood and overlaid with gold leaf.

For his carving work R. Menconi was awarded the Milan Exposition medal given for the best carving by an Italian not living in his own country.

Since the depression and its effect on the attitude of the masses, yacht owners, until recently, have been chary about giving out information on their prizes. Even now it is impossible to get an estimate of cost. However, an estimate from one source put the bill for the Savarona at $2,000,000. This is the guess of a yachting man and not at all official.

away, leaving Mattie holding her loaded shotgun and eating an apple.

Before they returned, Turley got his bucket and went out to the corral to milk their new cow. Mattie followed him, still holding her gun. Soon he came out through the gate and started toward the house. She still remained behind.

With no warning at all, two quick shots rang out.

Turley, hit in the back, tumbled down, and glanced around, to see Mattie's gun smoking, and the girl herself on her knees.

"Oh-h-h-h, Daddy, have I hurt you?" Mattie screamed, and ran to him.

He was in great pain, but he sent her rushing for help. As she left he told her, "You should be more careful. Let this be a lesson to you!" He assumed that the shooting was accidental.

Mattie met her mother and David returning and told them the news. In a few hours the doctor and a number of neighbors had come in. Kent Pearce himself held the lamp that night, while Mrs. Turley tended her husband.

Everybody was sympathetic for the hysterical Mattie, who said she had stumbled and that her gun had gone off as she fell. Turley was expected to get well. Many people came in to offer sympathy, and, of course, the officers of the county had to make some inquiries, as a matter of customary form. One of these officers, though, developed a curiosity.

He learned that the pellets traveled downward, not upward, through Turley's hip. That was odd, he reasoned, when Mattie said the gun went off as it struck the ground. It would seem more as though the shots were fired while she was standing, maybe with the gun at her shoulder! How about it, Mattie?

That blew up the story. Mattie did a complete about-face, and admitted she had deliberately shot her dad in obedience to the ouija board. She said she raised the gun first as he passed through the gate, but lacked the nerve to pull the triggers.

"Then I remembered how important it was to Mother for her to marry her handsome cowboy," testified Mattie, "so I raised the gun quickly again and shot both barrels."

She described the seance with the ouija board in detail. It had taken place, she said, in a dim, almost dark room at their home. She and her mother had their fingers on it. The board spelled out she was to kill her daddy.

"I ASKED Mother if I had to do what the ouija board said," Mattie said, "and she told me there was no escaping its command."

When Mrs. Turley heard of this confession by her daughter, she became enraged. She accused the officers of browbeating Mattie so much by third-degree methods that the girl would have confessed to anything. For that matter, she accused them of causing her husband's death.

Asked about this "mistreatment," Mattie said calmly that she hadn't been mistreated at all, but had only done what she felt she should. Mrs. Turley, however, stuck firmly to Mattie's first story that the shooting was accidental. Mattie went before the Juvenile Judge and he sentenced her to the reform school until she reaches maturity.

Meantime, Turley got no better at McNary, and a United States Marine Corps plane from San Diego, California, flew over and carried him to the naval base hospital there. There he died on December 26. That made it murder. Mrs. Turley was sentenced to 10 to 25 years in prison.

heart. She hinted that her opposition to her daughter's union with the young British diplomat was because the two were related by blood. She sought to intimate that the mate of her unconventional romance, the father of Hildegart, was also the father of the girl's affianced.

It was announced that the girl's father was in the courtroom, and was not an English chaplain. Dona Aurora became violently agitated and demanded that the man be produced before her. She cried out that the father of Hildegart had died many years ago.

There was a bustle among the rear benches of the courtroom, and a strapping man shoved his way past surprised guards and fled to the streets.

"There goes your 'ideal man,'" sneered the prosecutor, and the crowded courtroom broke into a roar of laughter. "The man you selected to father your prodigy was an unfrocked clergyman, and not an Englishman."

"Lying dog!" was the Dona's retort.

The "perfect man" was never named in court, and the name of Hildegart's sweetheart was suppressed as a diplomatic courtesy to England.

The impression this amazing woman created throughout the trial was extraordinary. Witnesses, without exception, testified to her passionate love for her daughter. No one questioned it.

It was brought out through one of Madrid's leading Socialists that Dona Aurora Rodriguez was keenly ambitious to introduce to the world a feminine genius. But while Dona Aurora was developing Hildegart into a walking encyclopedia of facts, cultural, artistic, scientific and philosophic, she was neglecting to teach her anything about love.

—golf. The day I saw him he had but recently returned from an early morning round, played at the hour when most of London was breakfasting. The moment I mentioned the game he became as enthusiastic as a schoolboy. He opened the sitting room door and shouted to his man servant, "Bring me the golf bag." He extracted the driver, dropped a ball on the carpet at his feet and, as he swung the club back and forth, miraculously missing the vases on the mantel and the chandelier, explained the system of his play.

The whole secret of Captain Lowry's game up to the green, as he described it, is his "grooved" swing. His "pro" began by making him concentrate on swinging his wooden clubs and iron in exactly the same path, or "groove," every time.

This is what happens when he begins a round: The ball is teed up, his club head is placed two inches behind it and his shoulders placed in the line of flight. Then he swings on the ball, and Captain Lowry says he is regularizing a drive of from 240 to 250 yards right down the fairway. The same procedure is followed with his iron shots and subsequent shots to the green. Before each shot, of course, he is told the nature of the ground—the width and length of the fairway, the nature of the "rough," the slope of the ground and the position of any bunkers or traps. Naturally, too, he is given the distance from the pin.

His approaching, Captain Lowry said, was probably the best part of his game so far—his full, half or quarter mashie shots. "That," he explained, "is where my delicate touch is so valuable; then and on the greens." Once on the green, and he usually approaches to within three yards of the pin, he figures the worst is over. His "pro" or caddie (he has a specially trained caddie to give him the necessary directions) places the putter head behind the ball, tells him the distance to the cup and the slope of the green, if there is any, and then, standing behind the pin, gives him a low-pitched call as a direction indicator.

Captain Lowry is getting an extraordinary number of one-putt holes, and doing a round in a surprisingly good score, when not only the handicap of his blindness is considered but the short time he has been playing. Until last January, when he resumed the game to learn it all over again as a blind man, he had not touched a club for 20 years; since before the war.

HE had one round recently of 81, he told the writer, but said it was on a particularly easy course. If his "pro" makes Captain Lowry into a six-handicap player, as he promises to do, the latter will likely be the happiest man in the United Kingdom, if he is not that already.

But though golf is his latest enthusiasm, Captain Lowry is almost as keen on a number of other sports. "I box all the year round, twice a week, in the morning, before breakfast," he said, "and find it a wonderful tonic and a great antidote to depression." It should be mentioned, incidentally, that he never boxed before he was blind.

He took up the sport a few years after he lost his sight, and by December, 1926, had become proficient enough to box in public at a hospital charity exhibition. The following May he was invited to go to Paris for a boxing exhibition on behalf of the French blind.

He fought four rounds with a former heavyweight champion of the Royal Irish Constabulary, in the presence of the American Ambassador, General Pershing and Colonel Lindbergh.

Captain Lowry is also a keen swimmer and, though he could swim before he was blinded, he has greatly improved his performance since he lost his sight. Some years ago he established a record for the blind by winning the Bat Club Members' Handicap of 50 yards against all comers, and repeated the success a year later.

Some four years ago Captain Lowry went to Switzerland and learned to ski and while there also did a lot of riding. He tried skating as well, but has never got to like it very much and has found it the most difficult of any of the sports he has taken up. Yachting is another pastime he is extremely fond of; one he enjoyed before the war and his blindness. He keeps a small yacht at Burnham-on-Crouch, on the Essex coast.

"I find not only immense pleasure from this thrilling and delightful sport," he said, "but that my edcuated 'sixth sense' gives me a vision of water and of light and space. I can steer quite easily, for I can feel the direction by the wind on my cheek; and I can also tell, unfortunately, when my yacht is not being rightly handled by someone else. I say unfortunately, for my criticism in such instances are not always accepted with the best grace, particularly by those who have imagined that because I am blind I am unable to offer a judgment in such matters."

Finally, explaining why he is so ready to speak of his achievement in sport, Captain Lowry concluded, "It is through no desire to be egotistical, but in order to point out that blindness does not exclude one from a keen enjoyment of life; neither does it, as I have tried to show, mean that one must regard one's self as inferior to one's fellow men in such sports because one has been deprived of sight."

Marie Starner.

MARIE STARNER, today's selection among the Muny Opera players who appear in this space during the Forest Park theater's season, was born 23 years ago in Marion, Ohio. She began studying the dance at the age of four. Among the productions in which she has appeared in New York and on the "road" are "Hello Paris," "Blossom Time," "Bitter Sweet" and, during the past season, in "Annina," with Madame Jeritza.

Accompanying Miss Starner are three costumes she wears in Muny Opera shows. Cut out the dancer and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress her in her proper outfits. The three costumes shown here are worn by Miss Starner in these roles in the following productions:

1—Babette in "Sweethearts"; 2—The Orange Girl in "Cyrano de Bergerac," in which she uses a sword; 3—Mirzah in "Rose of Algeria," and in this show she appears as a North African girl.

THE CHARACTERS

BILLY—A little bear cub.
GRUMPY—Billy's grandpa.
RIP RACKEY—A raccoon.
MIDNIGHT—A wise old owl.
O. HUM—An opossum who is always dreaming.

Grumpy is being very severe with his grandson, Billy. Just a little while ago he found him and O. Hum sound asleep under a big elm tree. But what was worse, O. Hum's pipe, still warm, was lying at Billy's side. Now it is bad enough to be in O. Hum's company, but to be guilty of smoking such a person's pipe was more than Grumpy could stand and he loudly demanded an explanation. The neighbors, hearing Grumpy, came running to see what was the matter, and we see them all listening to Billy as

THE PLAY BEGINS

BILLY—Honest, grandpa, I didn't mean to be naughty. I was going to hit O. Hum because folks were saying that your stories sounded like some of O. Hum's dreams. But when I got there, Midnight told me I shouldn't hit him unless I was sure O. Hum was lying about his dream world. He said I should smoke O. Hum's pipe because that was the way to get in O. Hum's dream world. So I smoked his pipe.

GRUMPY—Pooh, you will have to scrub out your mouth.

RIP RACKEY—Let him finish his story. Billy, what happened then?

BILLY—I went to sleep and I dreamed that O. Hum, dressed like a King, welcomed me and we feasted on roast turkey.

MIDNIGHT—(Who had been listening, says to himself.)—Ah-ha. So O. Hum's stories are true after all.

RIP RACKEY—You say you had roast turkey? Gosh!

GRUMPY—I think I could smoke that pipe, if I was sure I'd get some roast turkey. Say, Rip, why don't you and I and . . . . . (So Grumpy and his neighbors agree to smoke O. Hum's pipe. Midnight listens to their plans, then flies away and we next see him talking to O. Hum.)

MIDNIGHT—So they all agreed to come down here and smoke your pipe when you were sleeping.

O. HUM—Oh, they did, did they? Well, I'll be ready for them. (He gets up and walks away, saying:) I know what I'll do. There is no slumber party complete without my old enemy, Nightmare. And I'm going to be real kind and invite him. Ha! ha! ha!

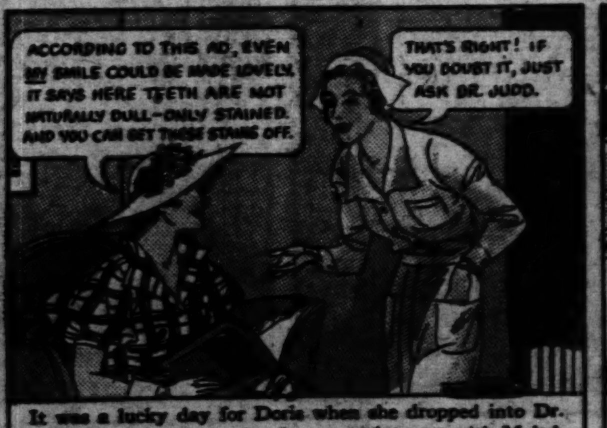
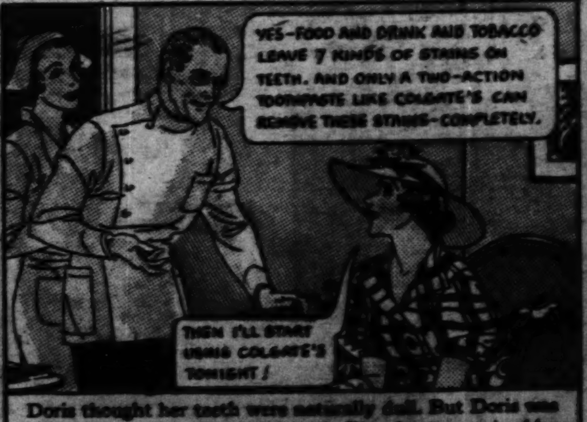
A Brighter Smile brings Romance to Doris



ACCORDING TO THIS AD, EVEN MY SMILE COULD BE MADE LOVELY. IT SAYS HERE TEETH ARE NOT NATURALLY DULL—ONLY STAINED. AND YOU CAN GET THESE STAINS OFF.
THAT'S RIGHT! IF YOU DOUBT IT, JUST ASK DR. JUDD.

It was a lucky day for Doris when she dropped into Dr. Judd's office to keep a luncheon appointment with Mabel. For Doris had always thought her teeth were hopelessly discolored and her smile unattractive . . . until Mabel told her differently and Dr. Judd confirmed Mabel's opinion.



YES—FOOD AND DRINK AND TOBACCO LEAVE 7 KINDS OF STAINS ON TEETH. AND ONLY A TWO-ACTION TOOTHPASTE LIKE COLGATE'S CAN REMOVE THESE STAINS—COMPLETELY.
THEN I'LL START USING COLGATE'S TONIGHT!

Doris thought her teeth were naturally dull. But Doris was wrong. Dull teeth are stained teeth. They become stained by everything we eat and drink and smoke. There are 7 different kinds of stains, and unless all 7 are removed completely, our teeth finally become stained—discolored.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO WORRY ABOUT YOUR SMILE ANY MORE, DORIS. IT'S POSITIVELY GLAMOROUS.
WELL, IT WOULDN'T BE IF I HADN'T SWITCHED TO COLGATE'S.

Most toothpastes fail to remove all 7 stains. For most toothpastes have only one cleansing action. And two actions are needed—the two you get in Colgate's. First, a penetrating foam washes away many stains. Second, a polishing action removes all the others, while polishing teeth to a brilliant lustre.

NOW LOOK AT DORIS WHEN SHE SMILES—

HONEY, YOU SURE SMILED YOUR WAY RIGHT INTO MY HEART!

Colgate's can give you a brighter smile, too. At 20c for the large-size tube, it's the most economical of all good toothpastes. It also leaves your mouth refreshed, your breath sweet. Start using Colgate's today, and have whiter teeth . . . a brighter smile.

DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK

IF ONE TUBE OF COLGATE'S DOESN'T MAKE YOUR TEETH WHITER

If, after using one tube, you're not satisfied that Colgate's has made your teeth whiter, your smile brighter than any other toothpaste you've ever used . . . just send the empty tube to Colgate's, Jersey City, N. J. . . . and twice what you paid for the toothpaste, plus postage, will be returned to you.

If you prefer powder, Colgate's Dental Powder gives the same amazing results . . . sells at the same low price.

TUNE IN! Joe Cook and Colgate House Party. Every Monday night, 9:30 P. M. (E. D. S. T.) . . . N. B. C. Stations.

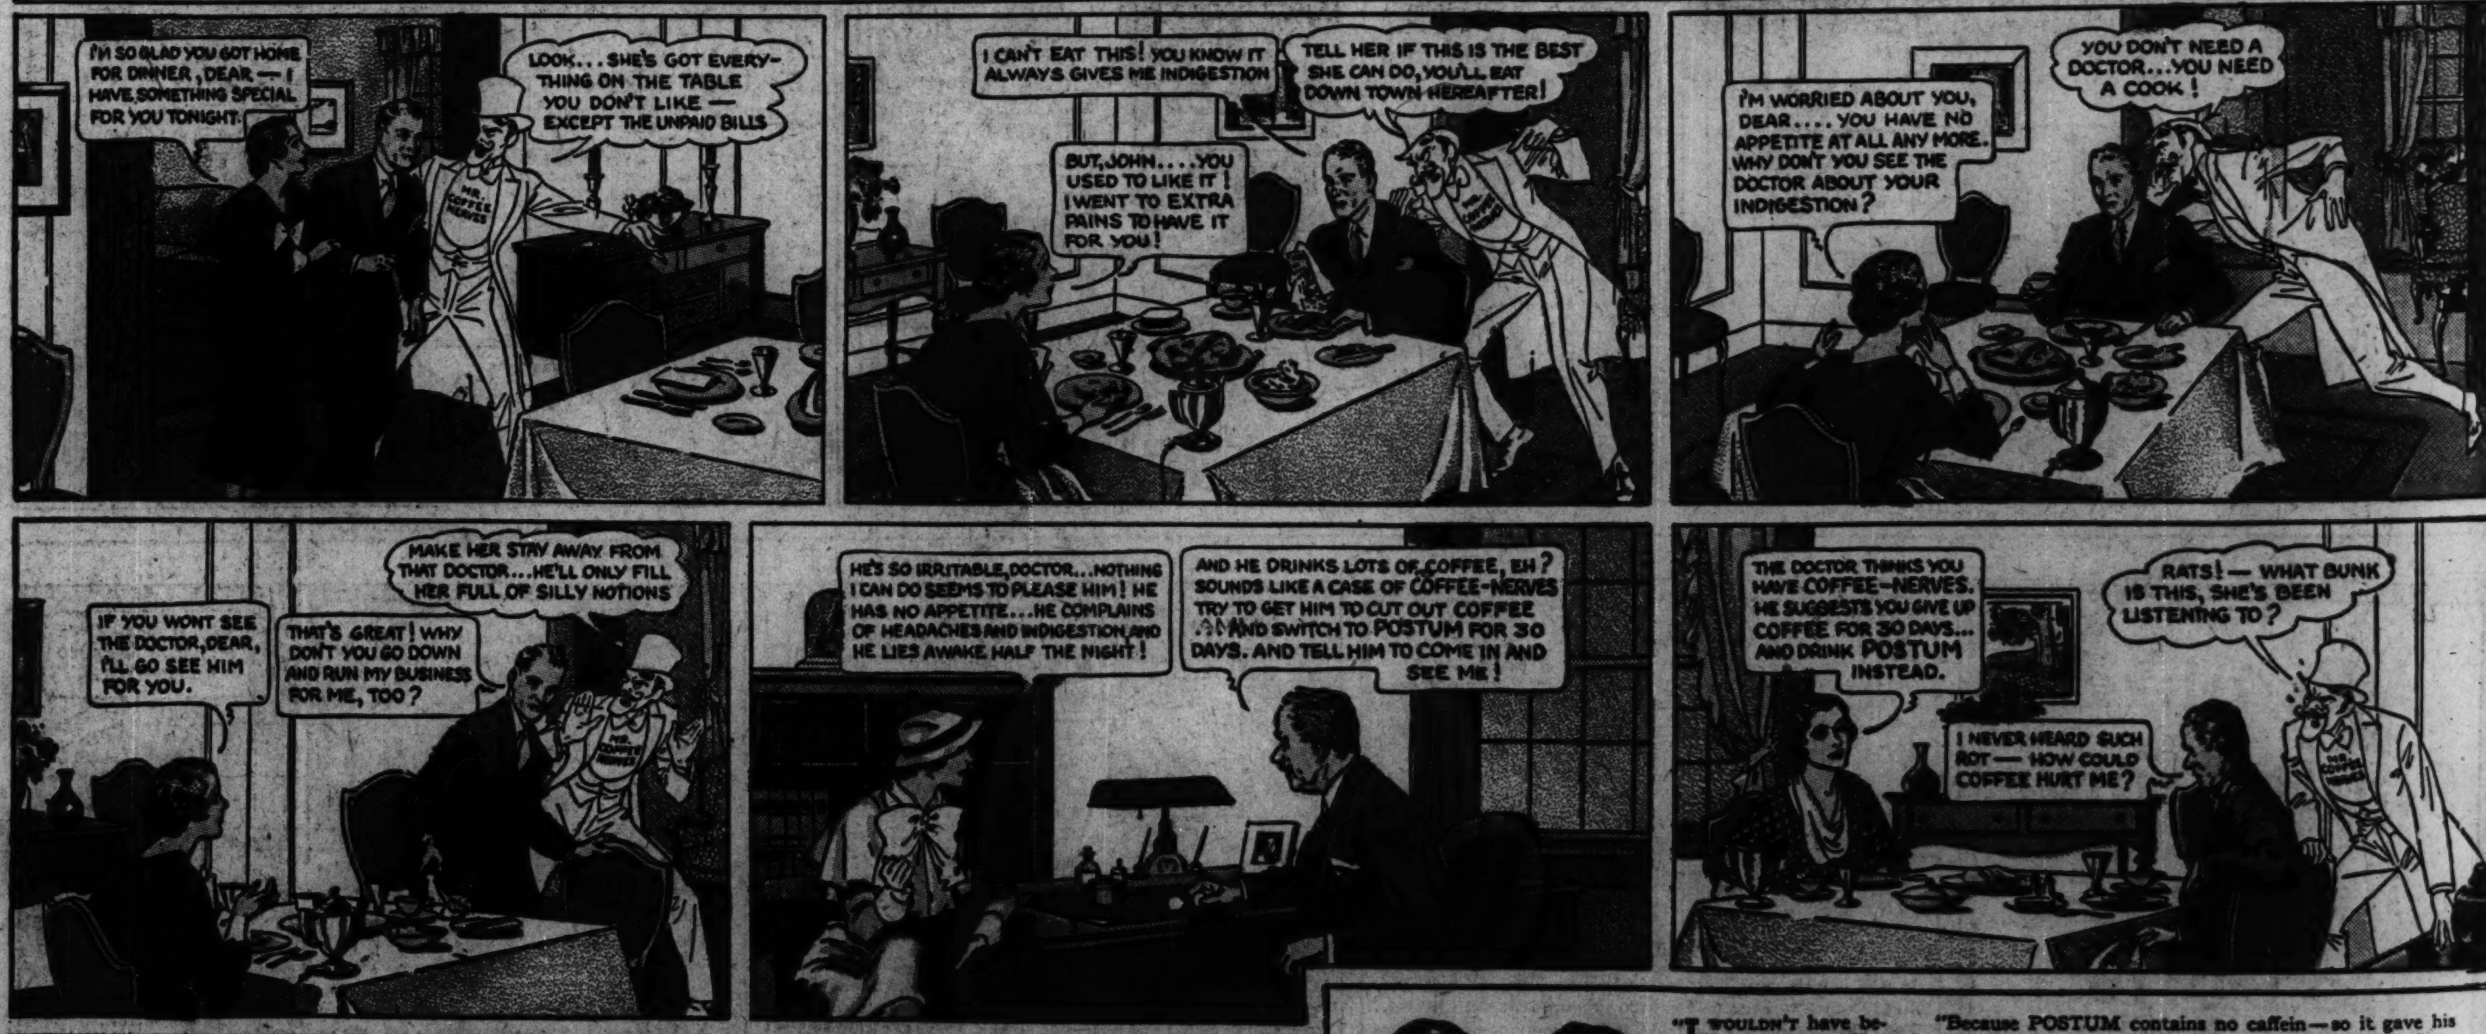
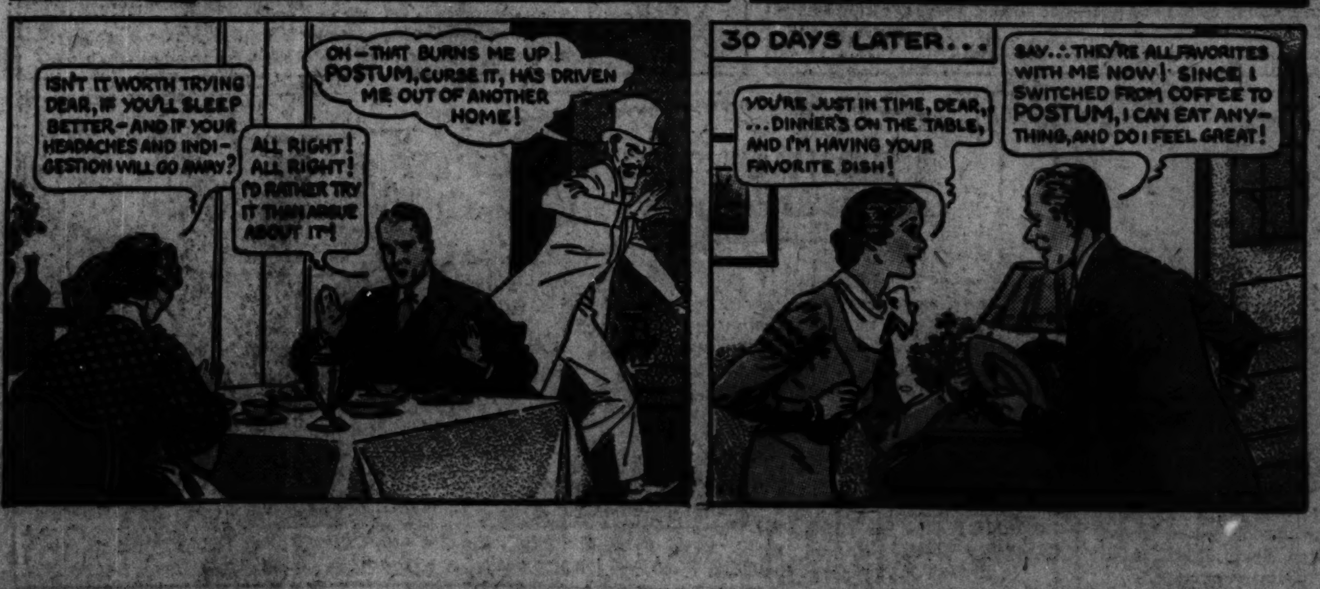
Mr. COFFEE-NERVES . . . his victim escapes

AN ADVERTISEMENT of GENERAL FOODS



I'M SO GLAD YOU GOT HOME FOR DINNER, DEAR — I HAVE SOMETHING SPECIAL FOR YOU TONIGHT.
LOOK . . . SHE'S GOT EVERYTHING ON THE TABLE YOU DON'T LIKE — EXCEPT THE UNPAID BILLS
MR. COFFEE NERVES
I CAN'T EAT THIS! YOU KNOW IT ALWAYS GIVES ME INDIGESTION
TELL HER IF THIS IS THE BEST SHE CAN DO, YOU'LL EAT DOWN TOWN HEREAFTER!
BUT, JOHN. . . . YOU USED TO LIKE IT! I WENT TO EXTRA PAINS TO HAVE IT FOR YOU!
I'M WORRIED ABOUT YOU, DEAR. . . . YOU HAVE NO APPETITE AT ALL ANY MORE. WHY DON'T YOU SEE THE DOCTOR ABOUT YOUR INDIGESTION?
YOU DON'T NEED A DOCTOR . . . YOU NEED A COOK!
MAKE HER STAY AWAY FROM THAT DOCTOR . . . HE'LL ONLY FILL HER FULL OF SILLY NOTIONS
IF YOU WON'T SEE THE DOCTOR, DEAR, I'LL GO SEE HIM FOR YOU.
THAT'S GREAT! WHY DON'T YOU GO DOWN AND RUN MY BUSINESS FOR ME, TOO?
HE'S SO IRRITABLE, DOCTOR . . . NOTHING I CAN DO SEEMS TO PLEASE HIM! HE HAS NO APPETITE . . . HE COMPLAINS OF HEADACHES AND INDIGESTION, AND HE LIES AWAKE HALF THE NIGHT!
AND HE DRINKS LOTS OF COFFEE, EH? SOUNDS LIKE A CASE OF COFFEE-NERVES. TRY TO GET HIM TO CUT OUT COFFEE . . . AND SWITCH TO POSTUM FOR 30 DAYS. AND TELL HIM TO COME IN AND SEE ME!
THE DOCTOR THINKS YOU HAVE COFFEE-NERVES. HE SUGGESTS YOU GIVE UP COFFEE FOR 30 DAYS . . . AND DRINK POSTUM INSTEAD.
RATS! — WHAT BUNK IS THIS, SHE'S BEEN LISTENING TO?
I NEVER HEARD SUCH ROT — HOW COULD COFFEE HURT ME?



ISN'T IT WORTH TRYING DEAR, IF YOU'LL SLEEP BETTER — AND IF YOUR HEADACHES AND INDIGESTION WILL GO AWAY?
OH — THAT BURNS ME UP! POSTUM, CURSE IT, HAS DRIVEN ME OUT OF ANOTHER HOME!
ALL RIGHT! ALL RIGHT! I'D RATHER TRY IT THAN ARGUE ABOUT IT!
30 DAYS LATER . . .
YOU'RE JUST IN TIME, DEAR, . . . DINNER'S ON THE TABLE, AND I'M HAVING YOUR FAVORITE DISH!
SAY. . . THEY'RE ALL FAVORITES WITH ME NOW! SINCE I SWITCHED FROM COFFEE TO POSTUM, I CAN EAT ANYTHING, AND DO I FEEL GREAT!

"I WOULDN'T have believed that coffee could have such an effect on John! I knew it was bad for children, but . .

"Why, children aren't the only ones who should never drink coffee! The caffein in coffee disagrees with many grown people—upsets their nerves, or robs them of sleep, or causes indigestion and headaches."

"Why did John's trouble disappear after he switched to POSTUM?"

"Because POSTUM contains no caffein—so it gave his system a chance to throw off the bad effects of the drug. And that removed the cause of his indigestion . . . his nerves steadied . . . and he could sleep soundly again!"

• • • •

Many people can drink coffee in moderation, and feel no ill effects. But there are many who should never drink it.

If you are suffering from nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches or indigestion . . . try POSTUM for 30 days. It costs less than a half-cent a cup. It's easy to prepare—and it may be a real help. A product of General Foods.
